Dear Mrs. Jordan:

Thank you for your letter of August 4 and its request for the location of the Holmes family in Wilkes County, Georgia, in the hope that that information will help to locate your Jordan ancestors.

I can not stop to write a long letter now, but let me send you several items:

1. My wife's statement of July 1973 concerning John Holmes (1747-1803), which deals with certain traditions found in D.A.R. and other records.

2. Virginia S. Wood & Ralph V. Wood, 1805 Georgia Land Lottery, published 1964, places a Benjamin Jordan in Burke County.

4. Georgia Genealogical Society Quarterly, Spring 1972, Volume 8, Number 1, Pages 63-65, presents the Georgia ministers from the Annual Register, 1790, of Baptist ministers. John Holmes (ordained in Spring 1791) and Balamy Bently were licensed ministers at Greenwood Church in Wilkes County. We do not know where Greenwood Church was.

5. Wilkes County Land Grants, Book C, pages 66, 142, & 216, show John Holmes receiving grants on Heard's Mill Creek, at the confluence of Beaverdam Fork and Germany's Fork of Long Creek, and Dry Fork of Long Creek. None of the neighbors is a Jordan. Copies could be ordered from Wilkes County, Washington, Ga.

6. Wilkes County Tax Digest for 1807 includes in District 17: Josiah B. Holmes, Clowe Holms, & John Holmes all on Longs Creek.

7. Wilkes County Tax Digest for 1809 includes in District 8 (Capt. John Holmes): B. Josiah Holms, James Holms, Chloe Holmes, John Holmes, all on Longs Creek.

8. On November 3, 1778, John Holmes was given a warrant for "two hundred acres in Wilkes County between Carrs fort and Benjamin Autrys land." We do not know where Carr's Fort was. There is a tradition in the family that John's son, James C. Holmes, was born in a fort in 1785. A photocopy of the 1778 warrant can be ordered from the Georgia Archives.

Well, the above is what we have! Hope it helps. We know the feeling when one is grasping for clues.

Please let us know if any new Holmes material comes to light and we shall do the same.

Holmes material he refers to, in Holmes File

Sincerely,

Homer C. Cooper

This is all the information I have on my Holmes family. I read your query in the "Family Tree". Does my family mean anything to you?

If you feel we have any connection I would appreciate hearing from you.

Dear Mrs. Cooper:

I exchanged letters with your husband in 1969 when my letter followed you folks to Missoula, Montana. My letter concerned our mutual Holmes lines. In researching my husband' Jordan line, I've come upon a block, as so often is the case, and I'm hoping that by taken a round about route, I might get a clue on how to further my research.

The line stops with John T. Jordan, b. 14 Oct. 1806; d. 26 Sept. 1859. Married Mary J. Holmes, 7 Sept. 1824. She was born 30 Dec. 1807; d. 16 March 1889. Daughter of James C. Holmes which your husband said was your line.

In the 1830 Census Pike Co., Georgia I found a Benjamin Jordan, age 70 living in the household of John T. Jordan. Middred Watkins is working on this with a cousin of my husbands. I know that John Holmes left a will in Wilkes County in 1805 and I'm betting if you could tell us a little of where your Holmes' were so maybe I could find my Benjamin! Benjamin was born ca. 1770, he must of died before 1860, for we do not find him in the Census. He died no will, etc.

Would appreciate any help or suggestions that you might give me.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Ben B. Jordan

Dear Mrs. Jordan:

Your letter of July 18 followed me to Montana where we shall be until August 22. After that date, my family and I shall return to our regular address:

145 Pendleton Drive
Athens, Georgia 30601

We no longer live at 100 Gail Drive in Athens, having moved in July 1967.

Yes, your husband's Holmes line and my wife's are the same. My wife is descended from Apsilla Holmes (1770-1854), who married 1790 Pitt Milner (1769-1839). They lived in Wilkes, Jones, and Monroe (now Lamar) counties, Georgia, until Pitt's death in 1839. Apsilla then moved to the home of a daughter in Henry County, Georgia, where she lived until her death in 1854.

James C. Holmes (born 1785), your husband's ancestor, was a brother of Apsilla, if I recall correctly. (My notes are in Georgia!) A person who could tell you more about him is Mrs. Mildred Watkins of the Shreveport Journal, Shreveport, Louisiana. Or have you already been in touch with her?

Apsilla and James were children of John Holmes and wife Chloe Bentley of Wilkes County, Georgia. John left a will in Wilkes County in 1803 (or 1802), but the year of Chloe's death is in doubt. If you have not seen this will, I think it would be of interest.

I regret that I do not have Jordan information, except data from a John T. Jordan & Mary L. Holmes family Bible that my informant received in 1962 from a Miriam Jordan. Among the marriage records in the Bible are two performed by Rev. James F. McLeod, who married a Milner [redacted] granddaughter of Pitt & Apsilla.

In Athens, we have a bill presented to Hannah Scott Bouland (1802-1876) for the tombstone of her deceased husband, William Bouland (1788-1852). (William & Hannah were my wife's great-great-grandparents. Their daughter Nancy married Johnathan James Milner.) If I am not mistaken, the man who prepared the stone, including carving the inscription, was your James C. Holmes. The bill was paid and, I believe, receipted by James C. Holmes. If you would like a Xerox copy of the bill and a map showing where William Bouland's grave is, I would be happy to send you a copy if you would remind me after I return to Georgia.

Sincerely, HC Cooper

Dear Mrs. Mangum;

Thank you for your Mangum Family Bulletin blanks and information. As 'Mangum' is just a distant side name to my Jordan Line, I do not believe that I will subscribe at this time. But, if I may, I'll keep this information on file, for one never knows about this tracing of ancestors, does one?

I would be most happy to accept your kind offer to insert my information....there is always an off chance that it might help some one and maybe give me a little clue as to who my John Thomas Jordans' mother and father were! There are several of us who are stuck right with him.

John Thomas Jordan was born Oct. 14, 1806 either Wilkes Co., Ga., or in N. C. He married Mary J. Holmes, b. Dec. 20, 1807, Wilkes Co., Ga. She was the daughter of James C. Holmes and Rebecca Pope Holmes, both natives of Wilkes Co., Ga. Mary J. had two sisters, one Malinda, b. April 18, 1810, who married Wiley E. Mangham Dec. 20, 1827. Mary J. named her second child after her sister--Malenda Mangham Jordan, b. Jan. 1831, d. May 15, 1891.

Of course you understand, my main interest is the Jordan line, but I hope this might help some of you Manghams!

Sincerely,

Dear Mrs. Jordan:

Sorry I have been so long getting around to you. My mail has been heavy due to the trip I have just taken. Also my husband is a heart patient and takes lots of my time.

I do not have the Malenda Mangham Jordan, or Mary Jane Dorcas Jordon or do I know what the P. stands for in Thomas P. Mangum., wish I did. Due to the time and place you mention I do think it is worth looking into

I am sending you a subscription blank on the Mangum Bullitin. You may know about it, but just in case you dont. I believe this bullitin will be of great value to you if you are searching for Mangam, spelled in any form. I have been working with Mr Parham for some time now. We are trying to gather together, Mangham, Mangam, Mangan etc. from all over. Due to this any one looking for the name spelled as it may be, we may find it in the bulletin. You may also purchase the Mangum Arms through Mr. Parhm.

I would like to hear from you again, and if you are not going to subsc -ribe for the bullitin, if you will send me your material I will publish it for you. Mangum, Mangan, Mangham, or any way you find it spelled.

I sincerely thank you for taking the time to drop me a line.

PHOTOGRAPHIC COPIES OF A MANGUM & FARHAM COAT OF ARMS ARE BEING OFFERED FOR SALE. These copies will be on standard photographic paper. Professional hand painted copy can be obtained from suppliers here or in England at a cost of about $20.00 desired. The addressees will be sent on request. The arms are being offered in either black & white or color and in different sizes.

NOTE. Please recognize that as far as we have been able to determine, there is no Mangum coat of arms as such. It appears that the name Mangum came into use only after the immigrant ancestor came to the new world. Therefore, if the Mangum family did have a coat of arms, it would have been assigned under a different but similar name. Although there is no direct evidence one way or another, the name Maningham is a distinct possibility. In some early records, Mangum is spelled Mangham, which is very similar. The arms described below are based on the Maningham arms described in Burke's General Armory. Since proof is lacking concerning the original spelling of the name or the lineage involved, no genealogical connection should be inferred.

The Farham arms are also described in Burke's General Armory. The form of this name has apparently remained unchanged since the 13th century. Below is a very crude drawing of each one.

POETRY.

Pilgrim's Way Song.

BY MISS HANNAH F. GOULD.

I'm bound to the house of my Father,
Oh! draw not my feet from the way,
Nor stop these wild flowers to gather—
They droop at my touch and decay!
I think of the flowers that are blooming
In beauty unfading above,
The wings of kind angels perfuming,
Who fly down on errands of love.

Of earth's shallow waters the drinking
Is powerless my thirst to allay;
Their taste is of tears, while we're sinking
Beside them where quicksands betray.
Along from the fount ever-living,
That flows by my Father's own door,
With waters so sweet and life-giving,
To drink and to thirst never more.

OBITUARY.

Bro. Baker,—I have been frequently struck, while reading obituary notices, at the triumph with which some christians leave the world. As the rays of the setting sun exhibit an unnatural splendor when contrasted with a dark and lowering horizon, so the brightest hour of their pilgrimage seems to be the hour of death.

It is our painful duty to record the death of one, whose piety was conspicuous, not so much in death as in life. Died at his residence, Walnut Grove Clark Co., Arkansas, JOHN BROWNING in the 77th year of his age. He was born in Caswell Co., N. C. on the 17th day of May A. D. 1767, removed to Georgia and married Nancy Peoples at the age of 25 years—joined the Baptist Church at the age of 35 years, at Shiloh Greene Co., Ga.; and was baptised by the Rev. James Heflin. Three months afterwards he was ordained Deacon of the church, the duties of which office he faithfully performed during the remainder of his pilgrimage on earth. At the age of 46 he entered the army of Gen. Floyd, in the Creek Indian war, as a captain of a Volunteer company, he performed an active part in the Battles of Autasee and Calebee; in the latter he had the honor of bleeding for his country. In 1811 he was elected a member of the legislature of Georgia. In 1819 removed to Alabama; and in 1822 was elected a member of the legislature of that State. He has been a member of 31 Associations and more than once moderator. In 1840 he emigrated to Arkansas, where he died on the 3rd day of May 1844. He was a member of the Baptist Church at Mt. Bethel, Clark Co., Arkansas, in which the church has sustained a great loss at the death of so useful a member.

He was brought up in the distressing times of the American revolution, consequently, he had not the advantages of a liberal education; yet his superiority of mind enabled him to discharge high and important offices of both Church and State.—He was of a lively disposition, always seemed desirous of making those happy about him; he was plain in his manners; as a citizen, he was patriotic; as a neighbor, obliging; as a parent, kind and indulgent, and as a companion, very affectionate. He has left a companion, several children, and numerous friends and relatives, to mourn the loss of so good a man. But one great consolation they have—he died as he had lived, in peace with mankind, and with his Maker. He has fulfilled the great end of his being and gone hence to adorn the shining courts of Heaven.

Softly his fainting head he lay,
Upon his Saviour's breast;
His Maker soothed his soul away,
And laid his flesh to rest.

Departed this life, in Noxubee county, Ms., on the 5th of June, SOLOMON R. VICKERS, aged 48 years and 6 days. He united with the Baptist church in this place in 1840, from which time he took a deep interest in the cause of his Master. Soon after he joined the church he was licensed to preach, and he preached by example, as well as by precept. His house always afforded sweet repose and comfort to the wearied minister, and protection to the orphan and widow. In the removal of Brother Vickers, the missionary cause has lost a zealous advocate; and the Wahalak Baptist church one of her brightest ornaments. He left a wife and three children to mourn their irreparable loss. His theme was Christ and him crucified—being dead he yet speaketh. L.

A neglect until the present. Died in Noxubee county, Ms., DICY CUTLIFF, on the 25th of September last, after a protracted illness which she bore with christian fortitude. She was the daughter of Zechariah and Jane Ray. She was born in Columbia county, Ga., on the 23d of March 1793. She was a member of the Baptist church 36 years—during which time she lived an orderly christian like life, and died in full assurance of a blessed immortality. She left a disconsolate husband and five children to mourn their loss—but their loss is her gain. L.

Departed this life in Pike county, on the first day of last month, Mrs. REBECCA HOLMES, wife of Deacon James C. Holmes, in the 57th year of her age. For the last 19 years she had been a worthy and devoted member of the Baptist church. Her afflictions were of a painful and protracted nature, which she bore with great christian patience and fortitude. It would be needless to attempt to eulogize the character of this eminent saint of God. A short time before her death, the writer of this notice called to see her, as he thought, for the last time in this world of affliction, and who, like an obedient and faithful child of God, while she was conscious that her hour was near at hand, she spoke of her departure with pleasure, and remarked with deep solemnity, yet with great composure of mind, that she felt, that if this her Earthly House of this Tabernacle were dischaged, she had a [illegible] House not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens. Many indeed were the virtues and christian graces, of her pious and humble heart. As a Wife, she was affectionate and truly devoted; as a Mother, she was bound by the most tender ties of Parental affection, she endeavored at all times to teach her children the path of duty, and to bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord; as a mistress, she was one of the most indulgent and humane. She manifested a great attachment to the humble, pious and devoted christian, and her holy sympathy, and travail of spirit for the poor mourning soul, and returning prodigal, was great indeed. In her death the church has lost one of her strongest pillows. She was truly a bright and shining light, and on her humble petitions through the Blessed Saviour, the ministers of Christ, have often leaned, and have been strengthened and comforted.—Her house was truly a place of rest, and refreshment, to the poor minister of the Cross; and to speak, and to hear of the Great and Glorious plan of Redemption through the beloved, and to engage in the service of her Heavenly Master, was her chief delight; for the word of the Lord was food to her spirit, and his people the most excellent ones of the earth. In her last moments she testified to all around her as long as she retained her senses, that when her trembling spirit took its flight from this tenement of clay, it would be immediately happy in the embraces of her precious Saviour. She exhorted all to prepare for the solemn and awful charge and then fell asleep in the arms of Jesus. She has left a dear husband and an affectionate family of children to mourn their loss. Yet they mourn not without hope. Though her voice is hushed in death, and her body entombed in the earth, yet may the fond recollection of her great worth be cherished by all with whom she moved, and may the Lord grant, that like her, we may all have Jesus formed in our souls the hope of Glory.

Died, in Warren county, on Tuesday morning the 2d inst., after a painful but short illness, ELIZABETH ELLEN, the youngest and only daughter of John M. and Harriet Sanford, in the 5th year of her age. It is needless to enter into a long and elaborate dissertation in reference to the little infant, whose untimely exit it is our painful duty to record; but the character of a child so interesting in its nature, and possessing a mind so well instructed in all the duties of Religion, will but serve to make a deep and lasting impression upon the minds of those who may have doubted the capability of children receiving Bible instruction, at an age so early. Although but little over four years of age, she not unfrequently memorized and recited lessons in Sabbath School equal to those of more mature years. But these privileges are over; her voice will not again be heard at Sabbath morn, chanting the hymn of praise to her Creator, and those of her classmates, who once welcomed her, will not meet her again. She is gone; her eyes will no more look upon those she loved, nor her form move again on earth. The rose has been nipt by the untimely hand of death, and the grave holds the body of her who will not rise again until the resurrection morn. Farewell, little one; a father and a mother's tears will fall unrestrained—but, they would not break the slumbers of the tomb, nor call back thy happy soul from the abodes of bliss to endure again the sorrows of earth; but will, with calm resignation, resign thy sainted spirit into the hands of the Redeemer and await that hour when they shall meet thee again in the paradise of God.

Departed this life, on the 25th of May, 1844, Mary Lawson, the wife of David Lawson. She left this world with a strong hope of a better state of existence. She was a member of the Baptist Church about twenty years, and during that time her mind appeared much taken up in the service of God and the promotion of the Redeemer's kingdom. Mrs. Lawson labored under bodily disease for the last twenty-five years of her life; but, when able, she filled her seat in the house of the Lord. It may in truth be said, she was an affectionate wife, and an indulgent and careful Mistress. For the last few weeks of her life she was confined to the house and bed, but enjoyed much of the presence of the Lord, notwithstanding her affliction. For the last three or four days of her life she would often repeat these lines.

"It was for my sins my dearest lord,
Hung on the accursed tree,
And groaned away a dying life,
For thee my soul for thee.

Jesus can make a dying bed,
Feel soft as downy pillows are,
While on his breast I lean my head,
And breathe my life out sweetly there."

She said her doubts and fears were all removed, and her way clear, and hoped her husband and friends would not grieve after her. But Mary Lawson is gone and no doubt to a better world. Her sun sat without a cloud to intervene between her and her God. And I may the good Lord sanctify the dispensations of his providence to the good of those that are left behind to mourn her absence, is the prayer of the writer. F. CALLAWAY.

Departed this life, on the 12th of June 1844, in Chambers Co., Ala., NANCY L. FITSPATRICK, the consort of Jesse Fitspatrick, in the 40th year of her age. She was a member of the Baptist Church at County Line in said Co., was married December 27 1820. She united with the Baptist Church in Morgan Co., Ga., at Sugar Creek, and was baptised by the Rev. Benj. Bussey, in 1827. Mrs. Fitspatrick has left six daughters and two sons, with an affectionate husband, to mourn their irreparable loss, with servants to mourn the loss of a good mistress. She lived an exemplary life as a christian, and took great interest in the cause of God and the promotion of the Redeemer's kingdom. Mrs. Fitspatrick was a loving wife, and an affectionate mother and very [illegible] to all her servants. She was beloved by all her neighbors, and stood high in the Church as an humble christian. She was confined to her house about two months before her death, with a disease called by the Physicians Phlegmasia-Dolens or derangement of the Liver. Her doubts and fears all gave way in the latter stage of her illness, and for several days was enabled to approach Death with calmness, having her hope anchored in Christ, her only Saviour. When death came to do his office on the body, having no power over the soul, she was enabled to bid adieu to all things below the sun with joy. So we may truly say, in her case, Blessed is the dead which die in the Lord, from hence forth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works to follow them.

American Baptist Home Mission Society.

The editor of the Christian Index, brother Joseph S. Baker, formerly of Norfolk in this state, proposes that hereafter, the funds contributed to the above Society in the Baptists in Georgia, shall be given to employ missionaries in Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas, or confined to the Southern states. This course will no doubt be adopted by our brethren in Georgia; and we trust the example will be followed in all the Southern states; at least we trust that in Virginia this measure will be adopted.

Hitherto our contributions have been generally expended in the free States of the West, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and the territories of Iowa and Wisconsin. A few missionaries have been sent to Missouri, a still smaller number to Arkansas and Texas. Florida and Louisiana have been overlooked—equally destitute with Iowa and Wisconsin, and where probably a greater amount of good could be effected, with the same expense and labor.

The destitution of the fertile western region, the rapidly increasing population from foreign and native immigration, the necessity of supplying it with the means of grace, have been discussed in our periodicals, and urged on our attention by agents, until our sympathies have been awakened, and our donations liberally contributed to supply this important section with missionaries.—The Papists were flocking into the Valley, and missionaries must be sent to counteract their influence. The great West has been the theme of the orator and statesman. It has been the polar star of the religious world; the culminating point of its labors and expenditures. The American Home Mission Society have made it the chief scene of their operations, and other denominations, have been equally active in their efforts. Meanwhile the South and Southwestern new states, equally destitute, have been measurably overlooked.

The emigrants to the West have been chiefly from the New England and Middle states. Removing from a region in which every township had its church and minister, the contrast in these sparsely settled regions struck them most sensibly. They very naturally wrote home to their friends, of their great destitution of religious privileges, and implored help. The subject was urged at the meetings of the state conventions, and various missionary societies were formed, chiefly with a view to supply their destitution.

Public attention having been directed to the West, there was no difficulty in finding men willing to go to these healthy and fertile regions, and Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, and Illinois, having been liberally supplied with missionaries, and that to a considerable extent by the contributions of the South. If our own destitution had been fully supplied, this would have been a commendable course. But this was not the case. In the great southern commercial metropolis we have had no missionary, and it is yet without a Baptist M. H. In Florida, in Louisiana, in Arkansas, is an extensive field, more destitute, as far as Baptists are concerned, than any other in the United States. Indiana has an equal number of ministers with Alabama, Illinois with Mississippi, yet scores of missionaries have been sent to those two western states, and none to the latter.

The past cannot now be recalled, but let us at least profit by the lesson. We are now placed in circumstances in which it becomes our duty to take care of ourselves. At the last meeting of the Home Mission Society, a portion of its members evinced a decided hostility to the South. The action of the Society has not lessened this hostile feeling—on the contrary, judging from articles in the Northern periodicals, it is on the increase, and our opponents are preparing for a more decided onset at the next annual meeting. This feeling is the strongest in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and Michigan; yet these states, whilst supplying thousands of emigrants to the West, have never collectively given half as much in one year to the Home Mission Society, as has been contributed by Virginia in the same space of time. Why should we continue to give our funds to this section of our country, to send forth missionaries and raise up churches, who will choose delegates, perhaps, to our great benevolent institutions, to reward our labors by voting against us.

Few of our citizens emigrate to the free states of the West. They seek rather for homes in the South and South-west. In Florida, Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas and Missouri, Virginians abound. These are chiefly the homes of our friends and fellow-citizens who have gone from Eastern Virginia. These states and territories have the first claim on our sympathies, it is to their spiritual good our efforts should be directed. We should then be doing good to those who would appreciate our kindness, who would make common cause with us. By this course we should increase our strength and make the wisest use of our resources. We should aid in uniting the bonds of love and affection. The South is our appropriate field of labor; we must not only raise the means, but furnish the missionaries also. The states we have referred to will be the future homes of many of our descendants; we might, we must furnish them with gospel light, and give to those emigrants, equal religious privileges with ourselves.

Twenty-five Cents a month.—Several times, members of my church have come to me, saying, "I was not able to attend the last monthly concert, but I have determined, whether present or absent, to contribute twenty-five cents each month." If the members of Baptist churches would contribute this amount monthly, what a vast sum would be annually raised! Twenty-five cents each month would make three dollars in one year. Of all the Baptists in the United States are there not 50,000 willing to contribute the amount named? If only 25,000 would contribute this amount, the sum of $75,000 would be raised in one year. Surely, there must be a want of love for the souls of the heathen. Not one Baptist in twenty-four willing to contribute the small sum of twenty-five cents per month! Reader! can you not henceforth give at least twenty-five cents a month to send the gospel to the heathen? T. S. M.

Bro. Baker—Please give place in the Index to the following appointments, viz:

A Union Meeting with the United Baptist church at Shady Grove, Chambers Co., Ala., to commence Friday before the 1st Sabbath in August, to be continued three days if no more, at which time the Church requests all orderly Ministers of all religious denominations, who will preach repentance toward God, faith in Jesus Christ and obedience to his divine injunctions, as prerequisite to admission into his kingdom, to come and help, laying all controversy and sectarianism aside. And also, we invite all Ministers and Laymen of the above cast, to be with us at a Campmeeting at the above named place, commencing Thursday night before the 1st Sabbath in October, at which time and place the business of the Chattahoochee United Baptist Association will be transacted. The following Brethren from South Carolina, are especially invited, viz: Sanford Vandivere, Daniel Mangum, and Stephen Leverett, as we presume some one or all of them are patrons of the Index, they will get the appointments.

Done in conference by order of the church.

GEORGIA ASSOCIATION.

A number of the churches of this Association have reported to the Executive Committee of the Association the destitution of the bible in their respective bounds. This is in accordance with the resolution of the Association, as it is printed in the Minutes.

But as the Committee have no funds in hand to supply such destitution, it is hoped that each church will endeavor to procure the means to supply its own destitution.—A number of the churches have already done this. It is hoped all will be able to do so, and report at the next meeting of the Association the amount of their labors in this service. Bibles can be had very low at the Depository in Augusta.

CAMP MEETING.

A Baptist Campmeeting will commence, the Lord willing, on Thursday before the third Sabbath in August next, three miles North-east of the Roswell Factory, Cobb County, Ga., right on the Martin's ferry road, leading from Decatur to Canton, at the Camp Ground where the Hightower Association convened the last year. We cordially invite all friends favorable to the cause, and earnestly solicit the Ministering Brethren of our denomination to attend and give us their aid. The location is in a pleasant, and well watered section of country, in the midst of a dense population, well calculated to entertain as many as will favor us with a visit at that time.

This Campmeeting is to be held in the bounds of Lebanon Church, where the Lord is at work. We think we have lately witnessed some of the most pleasing meetings here that we have ever seen in our lives. There have been 20 baptized recently, while numbers, we hope, are earnestly seeking the salvation of their souls. The work is progressing, and we hope the Lord will carry it on until there shall stand up an exceeding great army to praise his name. What a field for labor, where poor sinners are weeping and panting for salvation! Ye heralds of the cross, will you come?

The Church at Lebanon,
HENRY COLLINS, Pastor.

THE undersigned, a resident native of Maryland, and a graduate of Pennsylvania College, wishing to devote himself to the instruction of youth, would respectfully proffer his services in the capacity of Teacher. His acknowledged skill and experience, and the high testimonials of moral character and competency that can be presented, justify his application to an enlightened public, for a responsible and well endowed Rectorship.

In addition to those branches generally embraced in a collegiate course he is fully competent to teach the German and French languages.

Applications stating the health of location, amount of salary and state of morality, will meet with prompt attention, if addressed to D. H. BITTLE,
Boonsboro,
Washington co., Md.

N. B.—His present engagements, however, are such as preclude the possibility of entering upon the discharge of the duties of any rectorship that he may accept until the early part of the fall D. H. B.

TO MECHANICS.

The Trustees of Mercer University, Pe[illegible] field, Ga., design to erect with as little de[illegible] lay as possible, a handsome and substantial building for a Chapel; and invite proposals either for parts, or for the whole of the work. The dimensions of the building with a brief outline of the plan, will be found below. It is required that each Mechanic who offers proposals, shall specify in minute detail, the quantity and kind of materials which he will use, and the manner and style in which the work shall be executed; just as if his specifications were designed to be the basis of a contract with another workman. From the skill which each applicant may thus evince, in filling up the outlines of the plan, as well as from the prices which he may affix, and the testimonials which he may present, the Trustees will judge of the expediency of entering into contract with him. The proposals should be sent, sealed, to B. M. Sanders, Secretary B. Trustees, Penfield, before the 25th day of July next.

OUTLINES OF PLAN.

A brick edifice with stone foundation, 75 feet by 50, with a basement, 11 ft. 2 in. high, and a principal story with a gallery together, 25 ft. 6 in. high. Two ascents within the walls from the lower floor to the gallery, by stairs in each end of vestibule of 9 feet in breadth, taken from one end of the basement and of the principal story. At each corner of the basement, a room 15 ft. 3 in. by 15 7, leaving passages and Lecture room between them. From one of these rooms a private stairway to the pulpit in the story above. The pulpit to be merely a movable table or desk on an elevated platform at one end of the building, and the seats to be pews without doors. The gallery to be in front and on each side sloping and furnished with seats like those below. The walls and the ceiling to be plastered, and the front end rough cast. All the wood work within and without to be painted.

Stone for the foundation and a quantity of brick for inside work, will be furnished, and a fair deduction in the price will be required, according to the value of these materials.

186. HOLLINGSHEAD: John was in Aaron Wood's district in Jackson County in 1799.

187. HOLLINGSWORTH: Valentine was in the 1805 Jackson County lottery. The family was in upper South Carolina by 1790, and in 1800, Valentine was enumerated 40001-21010 in Greenville District. (See J. Adger Stewart, The Descendants of Valentine Hollingsworth, 1925). A Valentine applied for land in 1772 in Burke County, Ga. Thomas Hollingsworth of Gwinnett County said in 1833 that he had known Nathan Dobbs from Henry County, Va., a Revolutionary soldier, for more than 30 years. Thomas is found in the records of Henry County and in 1790 in Union District, S.C. In 1820, a Valentine was enumerated in Emanuel County, Ga., and others of the family were in Baldwin, Camden and Tattnall Counties. Mary Hollingsworth married April 28, 1807 in Franklin County, Ga., William Robins, probably of the North Carolina family in Pendleton District in the 1790s.

188. HOLLIS: Elizabeth was listed in the 1805 Jackson lottery. In 1820 William was enumerated in Jasper County (others were in Morgan, Chatham and Putnam Counties) and in 1827, Elizabeth, widow of a Revolutionary soldier, was living in Trussell's district of Jasper County, neighbor to several persons from Jackson County. On Aug. 6, 1804, Elizabeth Hollis (perhaps the woman in Jackson) and John Akins petitioned the court as administrators of Moses Hollis, to sell land in Wilkes County, Ga. Moses, James, Elijah and William Hollis were enumerated 1790 in Fairfield District, S.C. Several Hollises (but not Moses) were Revolutionary pensioners.

189. HOLLOWAY: Isham was in the 1805 Jackson Lottery. Asa's orphans were in Walton County in 1827. One Robert Stewart, born in Craven County, N.C., c1749, married Nancy Holloway in Georgia. This Stewart family sold out in Cumberland County, N.C., in 1772 and headed for Georgia. According to family data, Robert and Nancy were married c1772/1773 in Columbia County, Ga., but Richmond County, Columbia's parent County, was not formed until 1777. Robert was drafted from Wilkes County and served in the Revolution. At the end of the war he lived for a time on Hart's Creek, in what is now Columbia or McDuffie County, and this may have led to confusion in the minds of descendants as to the place of marriage. If census data indicating their eldest child was born c1774 are correct, the marriage perhaps took place in Wilkes or Richmond County in 1773 or early 1774. Robert reversed the usual trend of migration by moving about 1795 to Pendleton District, S.C., where on July 27, that year he deeded to Adam Torrance his 287 1/2-acre tract on waters of Fishing River in Washington (Greene) County, Ga. A Pickens County (Pendleton) letter of attorney, Jan. 10, 1855, states that Robert died Dec. 8, 1835, and Nancy died Dec. 5, 1843. The Holloways left no data in Georgia that have survived until a considerabley later date than Nancy's marriage. Some of the family may have gone to Pendleton with or soon after Robert Stewart's removal there; William Holloway stated May 1, 1852 in Pickens County that he had been present in Columbia County (sic) at the marriage of Robert and Nancy "two or three years before the Revolution". By 1852 William was old, and the rapid shifting of county lines can be confusing.

190. HOLLY: Martha was listed in Cochran's district on Mulberry Fork in the 1807 lottery. She was perhaps the Martha enumerated in Greenville District, S.C., in 1800, aged 26-44, and may have been the widow of Francis, who was in Greenville in 1790. A Francis previously had lived in Bedford County, Va. In 1820, the family is found in Elbert and other Georgia counties.

191. HOLMES: James (2), John and Richard were in the 1805 Jackson lottery, Richard obtained headright land in 1806; and in 1807, David was living on Mulberry Fork. He left a will in Jackson County. In 1820, Gideon was in Hall County; James in Habersham County; Richard, James P., and John were in Jasper County; and various others of the family were enumerated over the state. One Richard Homes was taxed in Wilkes County, Ga., in 1785.

192. HOOD; Benjamin, Dempsey, John and William were in the 1805 Jackson lottery

LSON CHURCH.
anized about 1822. It was named for one of the charter members, Mr. Thos. Nelson, who was 100 years old at the time the church was established. It is said that he split 100 rails the day he celebrated his 100th birthday. There have been several church buildings here. One was destroyed by a cyclone in 1894, and the present building was erected in 1895.

This church was connected with the Zebulon work until 1866. It was then put on the Milner Circuit. In 1917 it was placed on The Rock Circuit. The present very much beloved pastor is Rev. Grover C. Knowles.

Among the early members of the church, who served their generation by the will of God, were Thos. H. Turner and family; Mrs. Amanda Bussey and children; Thos. L. Campbell and family; Thomson Graham and wife; Jas. Yarbrough and family; Mrs. Thos. Allen and children; Mrs. Matthews and family; Thos. Verden and family; Seaborn Hickson and family, and the Simmons family.

There are sixty members on the church roll. The following are the Board of Stewards: Thos. J. Matthews, T. L. Matthews, Curtis W. Allen and J. T. Speer. There are forty on the Sunday School roll. Mrs. W. A. Bishop is Superintendent.

Rev. T. L. Bussey, a useful local preacher, now living in Atlanta, was a member of this church for many years.

HISTORY OF MT. OLIVE BAPTIST CHURCH.

The church record was burned when J. W. Pilkenton's store was burned several years ago, he being clerk. Mt. Olive Church was constituted between 1835 and 1840 by Jonathan Milner.

The following pastors and clerks have served the church:

1849-54 Henry Garland of The Rock, Ga.; Clerk, W. T. Crowell.

1855-56 Jacob King, Upson Co.; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

1857-58 James F. McCloud, Upson County; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

1859 Jacob Buffington; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

1860-61 W. W. Head of Milner; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

J. M. Slade and J. D. Carreker came home from Camp Stephen Griffin, united with the church and were baptized the third Sunday in September, 1861, by W. W. Head.

1862-66 G. A. Moore; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

1867 James H. Weaver; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

1868-71 E. S. Harris; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

1872-74 J. A. Jackson, Delray, Ga.; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

1875-86 E. M. Hooten, Milner, Ga.; Clerk, H. G. Jordan.

1887-90 W. A. Brooks, Madison, Ga.; Clerk, H. G. Jordan.

1891-96 J. W. Beck, Jackson, Ga.; Clerk, J. W. Pilkenton.

1897 J. F. Crawford, Talbot County; Clerk, J. W. Pilkenton.

1898-1904 W. P. Head, Woodbury, Ga.; Clerk, J. W. Pilkenton.

1904-1908 L. Hooten, Zebulon, Ga.; Clerk, J. W. Pilkenton.

1909-1915 W. U. Kendrick, Griffin; Clerk, G. W. Hamlett.

1916 F. B. Ricketts, Atlanta; Clerk, G. W. Hamlett.

1917 J. T. Espy, Mercer University; he resigned in August to go to the Seminary at Louisville, Ky.

1918-1920 L. B. Harvey, Forsyth; Clerk, J. T. Pilkenton.

1920-1921 James C. Eppinger, Griffin; Clerk, J. T. Pilkenton.

1921-1922 C. E. Hitt, Forest Park; Clerk, J. T. Pilkenton.

James Holmes, John Jordan and Alfred Tarver were the first deacons and were, perhaps, in the constitution of the church, however we can't be certain about that as the records were destroyed. P. H. McDowell was a deacon and clerk of the church for about 35 years. J. W. Pilkenton and H. G. Jordan of Barnesville were deacons for a number of years. J. P. Garner was deacon and also William Hardy of Upson County. W. J. Jones, R. G. Elliott, J. T. Pilkenton, T. C. McLendon, S. E. Clark and Luther Jones are the present deacons.

The land east of the creek belonged to Jas. M. Holmes and he gave four (4) acres for the church lot. Robt. Pilkenton gave three (3) acres making seven (7) in all.

Two of the oldest members now living are J. D. Carreker and Mrs. Susan Reeves who have been members 62 years. Total membership is about 246.

Number of ministers ordained from Mt. Olive Church were three. Zachariah Harris in 1848 who moved off to Dale County, Alabama, and spent his life in the ministry. G. W. Garner was ordained about 1880 and is now one of our leading ministers. J. D. Carreker was ordained about 1893.

There have been three churches erected on present lot: first one about 1835, second 1856 which was blown down by the cyclone March 3, 1893 and was rebuilt during the summer, Burl Banks of Zebulon being the contractor.

The number of churches constituted or partly constituted from the old church were five, namely, Beulah, Hendricks, Molena, Neal and Pleasant Valley.

We have had irregular Sunday Schools from about 1870, ben regular for the last twelve years. Superintendent, R. G. Elliott; average attendance, forty; number of teachers, five. W. M. S. was organized about 1909 during the pastorate of Bro. W. U. Kendrick. Mrs. W. J. Jones was president for several years. Mrs. E. J. Reeves is our present president; Mrs. J. T. Pilkenton, Vice-President; Mrs. J. L. Hamlett, Secretary; Miss Ethel Carreker, Treasurer; Miss Perla Pilkenton, chairman Social Committee. Sunbeam leader, Mrs. M. D. Connally.

PITT MILNER (1769-1839)

Pitt Milner born 22 Jun 1769 (birth place unknown), died 21 Jul 1839 in Monroe County, Georgia. He was the son of Capt. John Milner (1746-1812) of Wilkes County, Georgia. He married on 4 Mar 1790 in Wilkes County to Apsilla Holmes who was born 12 Sep 1770 in N.C. and died 22 May 1854 in Henry County, Georgia at the home of Parker Eason. She was the daughter of John Holmes and Chloe Bentley.

Pitt appears on the tax digest of Wilkes County in 1794 with two slaves, and his land adjoined a S. Echols. A Pitman Milner of Wilkes County received a land grant in 1799 and could very well be this Pitt Milner. In 1810 Morgan County, Pitt Milner of Wilkes County and Simeon Milner of Morgan County transfer a piece of land. In 1823 he is found on the Monroe County deed index and in Will Book A, p. 128-9 when his will was probated. In this probate record he names his wife Apsila Milner; sons, John H. Milner, Pitt Milner; and daus., Elizabeth Sim, Penelope Eason, and Susan Johnson. Numerous grandchildren are also mentioned.

Pitt seems to have been a success in life in the eyes of his fellowmen. He followed the religious teachings of his parents and made his life one of service to his church according to the following obituary carried in the "Georgia Messenger" of Macon, Georgia and also appeared in the "Macon Georgia Telegraph": "Died at his residence in Monroe County, on the 21st of June, last, Pitt Milner, in the 71st year of his age. Obituary notices setting forth in high colors the virtues of men while living, wanting in honor and integrity, have become so common that they are looked upon as matters of place saying. The writer of the present notice, would have remained silent did not a large portion of the Baptist Churches in Georgia bear ample testimony, to the private worth and christain virtues of the deceased, who has so recently been removed from among us. In early life the deceased united himself with the Baptist Church as a humble follower of Jesus. About twelve months thereafter, he had so won the confidence of his brethren from an upright and godly walk, that he was ordained Deacon of the church, and actively discharged the duties of his office for nearly forty-seven years, to the entire satisfaction of his brethren, and was for many years honored with the confidence of the church with which he was connected, to a seat in the associations. During his connection with the church, the deceased was an active, zealous, upright and useful member, and possessed in an eminent degree the religious confidence of all who knew him. In his civil as well as religious associations, he was frank, candid, and open, was esteemed for his punctuality towards all with whom his lot was cast, and with whom he had transactions. It may be said with great propriety and truth, that he was emphatically the noblest work of God, an honest upright man, and as he lived, so he died, in the full confidence of a blessed immortality beyond the grave. In his death, few men have left a brighter or surer testimony behind; but he has gone home to the embraces of Jesus, to reach his rich reward. He has left behind him an amiable and loving wife, obedient children, and a numerous train to mourn his departure, but they do not mourn as others do without a hope."

E.B.

NOTE:

Obituary copied from the "Georgia Messenger", Macon, Georgia, Thursday, Aug 1, 1839.

The headstone of Pitt Milner gives the date of his death as July (not June) 21, 1839, aged 70 years and 29 days.

Information in the family bible states that Pitt served as a soldier in the Rev. War at 14 years of age. A tory stealing a fine horse, "Bald Eagle", which had been sent from England of William Pitt, Earl of Chatam and a near kinsman, to Capt. John Milner, soldier in the war of the Revolution and father of Pitt Milner, placed his gun again the tree to mount. Pitt, a lad, seized the gun and forced the tory to dismount and give up the horse. JOHN MILNER (1775-1841)

John Milner was the 4th son of John Milner of Wilkes County, Georgia who moved from South Carolina. At the age of 21, he married Miss Eunice Callaway of Wilkes County and raised 11 children in a christian way of life. He was an astute and knowledgeable man who took advantage of those educational opportunities around him. He and his wife were devout followers of Christ and are remembered for practicing family prayer.

In 1812 his father died and it was in that year he received a new "spiritual awakening" and dedicated himself unto the Lord. He was baptized by Rev. Jesse Mercer in the Sardis Church in Wilkes County and served as a Deacon. In his 50th year in 1825, about the time he migrated to Jones County, he was ordained to the ministry. Those who attended his sermons were not only impressed with him as a man but felt he was truly inspired in his messages.

He was reported to be a true Christian in every way and never neglected the widows, orphans, or those less fortunate than himself. On the Sabboth day before his death, he preached at the Sardis Church from Acts XVIII: 38,39 and suffered a "slight attack" from an affection of the heart.

Among his last words were, "I shall die, but I am not afraid of death", "O, my children, I have taught you the way, I have kept the faith". He was buried in the Zebulon Street Cemetery in Barnesville, Ga. Cemetery record copied by DAR shows . . . Rev. John Milner b. 17 Oct 1775, d. 21 Jan 1841.

Tax Digests for Oglethorpe County are available but not copied for his compilation because they are too numerous.

REV. JOHN HOLMES MILNER (1792-1857)

John Holmes Milner was born 24 July 1792 in Wilkes County, Georgia and died 9 March 1857 in Pike County, Georgia. He was the son of Pitt Milner (1769-1839) and wife Apsilla Holmes (1770-1854) and grandson of John Milner (1746-1812) and wife Elizabeth Godwin. He was married 14 April 1814 to Elizabeth Dabney Willis who was born 13 August 1796 in Wilkes County and died 10/24 June 1885 in Pike County, Georgia. Elizabeth was the daughter of George Willis (1754-1827) and wife Susannah Baker (1757-1843) of Wilkes County, who lived on the plantation adjoining that of Pitt Milner.(1)

Rev. John H. Milner was converted at any early age. He was baptized by Rev. Jesse Mercer at the age of 16 and became a member of the Sardis Baptist Church. Two years after the marriage of John to Elizabeth, they moved to Jones County and from there to Monroe County. A John Milner from Wilkes County bought property in Jasper County in 1816 and in Monroe County in 1823. (Monroe was formed from Jasper and Baldwin counties.)(1)

Upon moving to Monroe County, John joined the Rocky Creek Baptist Church. It was at this church he was licensed to preach in 1829; later, he moved his membership to Shiloh and there was called to ordination. After the family moved on to Pike County, he is known to have preached to many congregations throughout the area, namely: Mount Olive, Hebron, Zebulon, and several churches in Meriwether County. Those who write of him applaud him for his success not only as a minister of the church, but a success as the head of a family and in his own personal life. He was not only blessed with the talent of preaching and influencing others for good, but possessed a musical talent. At one time, he served as a chorister in his native church group and is referred to as "an especially fine singer".(2)

He preached his last sermon in Zebulon only a few days before his death. His sermon was taken from Matthew 5: 13,14. He died in a few hours after he was attacked with congestion in his lungs and heart on 9 March 1857 in Pike County. His remains lie in a family graveyard marked by a marble slate which is engraved with an inscription of his own request: "A Sinner Saved By Grace".(2)

The Christian Index, reported his death on 18 March 1857 in the following obituary:

Pike County, Georgia

"Died — at his residence, in Pike County, Ga., on the 9th of March, 1857, Rev. John H. Milner, aged 64 years, 7 months, and 13 days. His sufferings were short but violent. He was reading about 4 o'clock in the evening but was a corpse before 12 at night. While in extreme agony, he would gently wipe the sweat from his face, and mildly say 'I suffer — but nothing to what my Saviour suffered for me!' 'I sweat water — but He sweat blood for poor sinners like me!'

A short while before he died, he became tranquil, and his immortal spirit, without a struggle or a groan, left its tenament of clay, and, no doubt, was escorted by angels to the mansions of glory!"[3]

WILLIS JOSHUA MILNER (1797-1864)

Willis Joshua Milner was born 20 Feb 1797 in Wilkes County, Georgia and was the eldest son of Rev. John Milner and Eunice Calloway. He had ten brothers and sisters and is reported to have probably "grown fast and matured early". Family tradition tells of him coming to the aid of his country by signing up as a volunteer in the War of 1812. This would, indeed, show maturity as he was only 15 when the war broke out in 1812. His service time in part was around Darien, Georgia and is reported to have watched from a hillside the "frenzied evacuation of that town when the English threatened to bombard it".

When he was twenty-three his father moved to Jones County, which borders Jasper County. Shortly after that move, he met his wife Elizabeth Turner who was the daughter of John Gainor and Mary Turner. He married Elizabeth Hannel Turner in Jasper County on 6 Feb 1823.

Willis was apparently a man with a dream. He was the type of pioneer that carried with him a vision and fervently pursued it all his life. Willis' father gave him a fine tract of timberland in Pike County, which was not yet settled. He is reported to have built his first home there, and "personally had to haul boards across two counties in order to give his wife the first wood floor in Pike County".

Willis moved and built between 8 and 10 houses in Georgia in his life time, including the one that was to become the permanent home of his father, the Reverend John Milner. In 1829, Willis and his father went to Arkansas on horseback "with some idea of settling there; but nothing ever came of the idea. In 1832, Willis went north to Habersham and Lumpkin County to look at the gold lands that the State was giving away in the Land Lottery of 1832. There he bought "Pigeon Roost Mine". The venture was so profitable that he is reported to have bought two or three other mines. Their fourth child, Bonita, was born there. In a few years, Willis decided to return to Pike County and Elizabeth was almost ready to deliver their fifth child. Upon returning to Pike, he started building the kind of home he wanted his family to have but before it was finished, Elizabeth died on 11 Aug 1835 leaving a two-hour-old baby who lived only three days.

Shortly after this move, railroads came to Georgia; and Willis became interested in a different type of livelihood. He contracted to grade for the "Monroe Railroad". This proved to be an unfortunate venture due to the "Jackson Panic" and ill-advice from his financial adviser. However, he was fortunate to have his gold mines to keep him solvent.

On 15 June 1837, within a year of the death of his first wife, Willis married Mary Ann Turner, the sister of Elizabeth. They had two children of their own: Elizabeth born 18 Nov 1840 and Willis Julian born 3 May 1842. Having given up his interest in the railroad, he purchased a tract of land six miles north of town and gradually added to it until he owned six thousand acres. There were large quantities of excellent timber on the land, and soon after he built himself a home and constructed a large sawmill. He is reported to have built three large mills in "fairly quick succession" because the first two burned down.

A point of interest is the description of this last house that Willis built. The account comes from the last son of Willis, Willis Julian born 1842. He refers to it as an "elegant" large white frame house. "It had a two-storied gallery across the back and front and stood in the middle of a large yard with a white fence around it. The yards of such houses were usually about ten acres. Nothing is said about the house being on a hill, but it was exactly on the height of the land with water from one side flowing to the Atlantic and that from the other side to the Gulf. Large white oaks and chestnut trees gave plenty of shade. From white gates in front and from side fences drives converged near the front of the house, on each side of which there was a flower garden. In the back yard there was a large kitchen with its enormous chimney, the smoke house, and two storehouses. There was about an acre of fenced chicken yard and a two-acre vegetable garden, also fenced. Outside the main fence was the carriage house. The slave quarters consisted of nine houses in three rows. Each house had a space for a garden."

Willis again returned to railroad building in about 1852, while Willis was between contracts in the railroad business, he decided to make a trip to Texas. He went "via Atlanta to Montgomery, over a railroad he had assisted in building; thence by steamboat to Mobile and from there by steamer, via New Orleans to Galveston. A cholera epidemic broke out on the boat going to Galveston and Willis was one of the victims. His son Willis Julian says, "Doubtless only his composure, absolute self control and capacity to take care of himself saved his life".

Willis toured a large part of Texas and one day while leaving a plantation near the Brazos River the overseer went along to see him across. During the night they were overcome by a flash flood and took to the trees for self-preservation. It was agreed that the overseer would take the available "life preserver" and try to get help. Willis elected to stay in the tree but became apprehensive in the man's absence, in case he, a stranger, might be suspected of murder if the overseer did not make it. He was wary of what mercy was at hand according to "Texas Justice". In the afternoon of the second day someone using a horsetrough for a boat came by and rescued him. Willis "liked" the people of Texas. He commented on their hospitality and good manners being always constant. This was especially true on occasion he was invited to share camp with some gentlemen. Later he learned that they were notorious outlaws.

Late in 1855, Willis Joshua started with his family to Florida in what is referred to as his "last venture". In 1860, when his daughter Elizabeth married, he decided to go to Greenville, Ala. with them. His health was beginning to fail him and in 1863, during the war, he suffered a severe stroke which left him greatly incapacitated. Because most of what Willis had was tied up in the railroads, he became a broken man having to sell all his assets to make payment to the northern companies who then owned the railroad. Even in a wheelchair, it is said that he was clear in mind and was making plans to pick up the bits and pieces to start over again when he suffered another stroke in March 1864 and died.

"Existing churches all had difficulty securing ministers in the immediate postw period. The Anglicans in Savannah are known to have had a rector for at least first three months of 1784 in the person of the Reverend John Holmes, an S.P missionary to St. George Parish before the Revolution and one of the two Whi Anglican clergymen in Georgia. After the death of Holmes, March 20, 1784, th are indications that there was no regular rector at Christ Chruch for about twc years."

Dear Stephen:
I am still studying the Holmes Family (GA and S. C.) Genealogy, and I read yo information regarding Mary Paris (Mary Christie). Do you have any other genalogical information regarding Mary Paris/Christie? If you do, I would love see it. Thank you. Also, do you know where Rev. John Holmes, American Patri Chaplain of the Society of the Cincinatti, is buried? In the book, "Members of t Society of the Cincinnati", published by: Tobias A. Wright, Inc., Printers and Publishers, New York, 1929, John Holmes is listed as an original member from State of Georgia and was Brigade Chaplain. It is this John Holmes of which I s information. SOME "Early" SOUTH CAROLINA MARRIAGE RECORDS: 1641-1799. I have no found a single source for marriage records prior to 1800 in South Carolina, so have started one of my own. Any additions or correction to this file would be appreciated. E-Mail me at prsjr@aol.com

This is a "Comma-delimited" ASCII data file for some 4,756 marriages in Sout Carolina. The first file is indexed" by last name of "Groom", giving Marriage da location and "Source Information". Second file is "Indexed" by "Brides" last na (SC_B1800.ZIP)

South Carolina marriage records have been difficult to obtain. Until 1911 ther were no legal requirements for keeping records in South Carolina, as in other states. Some SC records were gathered by HUNTING FOR BEARS, INC. Which taken from newspapers, church records, pension applications, and other sourc where marriage records could be found. Many thanks to Dorothy Ledbetter Mu and Nicholas Russell Murray, Hunting For Bears, Inc., P.O. Box 25593, Salt Lake City, Utah 84125.

The following 4,756 marriage records, are from 1641 to 1799 only.

Dear VHillJ,

It was great to receive your response! I am excited to think that our Holmes ancestors might indeed be connected.

Yes, please send me Mrs. Cooper's research...I couldn't believe it when you mentioned that she was in Athens, GA. Are you in Athens, too? A few years ago I heard about a gentleman who taught at the University named Robert Wilson who had researched my Holmes line through a Holmes/Wilson connection. I was very disappointed to learn that Mr. Wilson was deceased...

If we are related, I may be able to add to your knowledge of the Holmes family.
My gggggrandfather was Robert Holmes who was a Captain in the Revolutionary War. At the time of the war, he was residing in Rowan County, NC. Later he moved to Oglethorpe County,GA. I submitted all of his family information and was admitted into the DAR.

My home address is: Debra Holmes Ghigna

Birmingham, Alabama 35209

I sent Dr. Cooper's letter on John's

I'm looking forward to hearing from you...and keeping my fingers crossed that we are related!

Sincerely,

who knew him. Possessing as he did fine natural abilities as well as those qualities which constitute the true man and valuable citizen, it was not difficult for him to win the esteem and admiration of those about him. A hard worker, he amassed a property which left his family comfortable. Although he died so many years ago his memory is tenderly cherished, and his many excellent qualities remembered to this day. He came of an old and honored family, and although his days were few he never failed to uphold its dignity and to live up to the high standards set by those who went before him.

JOHN Y. GULDIN, son of the late Abraham and Sarah B. (Yoder) Guldin, is a prominent farmer of Oley township, born Oct. 24, 1863. He was reared upon the homestead, attending school in the neighborhood and learning farming under his father's care. Later he had the advantage of a course at the Oley Academy. In 1888 he began farming on his own account upon his grandfather's farm, which then was the property of his mother. Mr. Guldin now owns the Wright farm which he purchased in 1898. It is located one mile north of the "Yellow House" property and consists of 121 acres of excellent land. The stone residence upon it, erected by M. Roberts in 1769, is a large house and so substantially built that it is much to be preferred to a new structure. On this property is a spring house which was built in 1716 by a pioneer of Oley township. It is 20x16 feet and two stories high. The barn is considerably more than one hundred years old, and like the house is very substantial. The farm is well stocked, Mr. Guldin keeping seven horses and seventeen head of cattle. He uses the latest improved machinery and methods in his farming and is very successful in his work.

John Y. Guldin married in 1883 Hannah Botts, daughter of William and Mary (Smith) Botts, of Earl township. Their children are: Mary, Annie Lucretia, Susan Melissa, Charlotte Agnes, Abraham, John, Alice Katie, Theodore and Hannah Elda.

Mr. Guldin is a Republican and has held many of the local offices. He and his family are members of Salem Oley Reformed Church, of which he has been deacon for four years. Socially he is a member of Manatawny Castle, K. G. E. Progressive, public-spirited, a good citizen and conscientious man, Mr. Guldin inspires fullest confidence and is one of the substantial farmers of Oley township.

DAVID Y. GULDIN, son of the late Abraham and Sarah B. (Yoder) Guldin, was born May 31, 1866, on the old Guldin homestead in Oley township, Berks county, and was educated in the public schools of his native township and the Oley Academy. On Sept. 26, 1885, he was married to Miss Emma Louisa A. Specht. This union was blessed with seven children, all daughters: Sallie, Olivia, Edna, Mabel, Edwina, Minnie, and one that died in infancy. David Y. Guldin was the owner of a nice farm in Earl township, where he lived for some time. There his wife died six years ago, after which he sold out and made his home with his aged mother, and began working for the Long Distance Telephone Company. He worked several years for that company, later engaging with the Postal Telegraph Company, in whose service he was killed. He was working on a high pole, when accidentally he came in contact with a live wire which gave him a shock, holding him in mid-air for about five minutes, after which he fell on a second wire some distance below. His head struck the curb, crushing his skull, and he died twenty-four hours later at the Delaware Hospital, Wilmington. He was a member of Manatawny Castle, No. 461, K. G. E., and of Minnehaha Lodge, K. P., of Friedensburg, and of the Oley Reformed Church.

GEORGE Y. GULDIN, son of the late Abraham Guldin, and brother of John Y. Guldin, resides upon the farm where he was born July 4, 1877. He was reared upon this farm and attended the public schools. His father dying when he was only three months old, Mr. Guldin was brought up by his mother and has always been her right-hand man. In 1902 he began farming for himself, and now cultivates the family homestead of 104 acres, which under his care is a very fine property. The residence upon it was erected by his grandfather, John Guldin, in 1867, and the barn was put up in 1855. This farm has a good spring that has never gone dry, and its water is recognized as excellent throughout the township. Mrs. Guldin still uses the old family dinner gong to summon her husband and his men from the fields. These gongs are becoming very valuable on account of their scarcity. This particular one is specially good and strong, and was forged at Sprang's forge a little over one hundred years ago. It can be heard distinctly for a distance of three and one-quarter miles. Another much prized heirloom in the possession of Mr. Guldin is an old grandfather clock which is also over one hundred years old and came from the Yoder side of the family.

In 1898 George Y. Guldin was married to Mary Conrad, of Oley township, and they have one son, Lester C. Mr. Guldin is a member of the K. of P. lodge at Manatawny, Oley post-office, and the P. O. S. of A. Camp of Oley township. In politics he is an independent Republican. He and his family belong to the Oley Reformed Church.

Like other members of this old and honorable family Mr. George Y. Guldin is much esteemed in his neighborhood and is considered one of the representative men of his township.

HORNING. For nearly two centuries the Horning family has been residing in this section of Pennsylvania, and members in each generation have been active in the work of the Mennonite Church, and all have led God-fearing, upright lives. Among those who today are active in mercantile or agricultural life may be mentioned Jeremiah Horning, his brother John Horning, and, in the younger generation, John B., Isaac Z. and Aaron Horning.

(I) Bentz Horning was the first of the family in Berks county. He came from Germany early in the eighteenth century, and with his son Paul settled in what is now Brecknock township. He had two sons, Michael and Paul. Of these, Michael settled at the Trappe, in Montgomery county, and his son John lived in Huntingdon county, where he owned a large farm. Gilbert Horning, son of John, was born at Rebecca Forge in 1820, and lived on the homestead all his life, becoming a man of affairs, and prominent in public work, serving as director of the poor; he married Elizabeth Beightal, and had children: John (a minister of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church), Gilbert C. (a bookkeeper for the Reading Iron Company, Reading) and William D. (born July 3, 1847, an attorney in Berks, director of the poor for three years, married Laura J. Shaffer, of Reading, and has one child, Mary E.).

(II) Paul Horning, son of Bentz, accompanied his father from the Fatherland, and settled in Brecknock township, then a part of Lancaster county. He owned a tract of land at Alleghenyville, which is now the property of Jeremiah Hoshour. He was a farmer and windmill (fan-mill) maker. Both he and his wife Margaret are buried at the Allegheny meeting-house, and their graves are marked with rough sandstones, but the inscriptions are no longer decipherable. He died in 1831, when well advanced in years. His children were: Polly; Kate; Daniel, who died unmarried; Wendel, who lived above Reamstown, and is buried at Mohler's meeting-house; Samuel, who lived for some time in Maryland, but later returned to Pennsylvania, and died in Lancaster county; Joseph; Nancy; Sally, who married Isaac Powell, of Lancaster; and Susan, who married Charles Heiffler.

(III) Joseph Horning, son of Paul, was born May 9, 1798. He made his home in Brecknock township, along the Allegheny creek, where he owned a small tract of land. He was a wagoner by trade, and followed that line nearly all his life in connection with farming. He was very well known, was highly esteemed, and was a consistent follower of the Mennonite faith. He died Jan. 25, 1876, aged seventy-seven years, eight months, sixteen days, and his remains rest in the cemetery at the Allegheny meeting-house. He married Fannie Mosser, who was born July 22, 1803, and who died Jan. 24, 1889, in her eighty-sixth year. Their five children—two sons and three daughters—were: Rev. Benjamin; Esther, who married Joseph Shirk, of Spring Grove, Pa.; Nancy, who married Peter Lichty, of Churchtown, Pa.; Moses, of Bowmansville; and Fannie, born Sept. 30, 1830, who married Henry Gehman, of Adamstown, and is the only one now living, at the present time making her home with her son.

(IV) Rev. Benjamin Horning, son of Joseph, was born on his father's farm Feb. 22, 1824, and his death occurred Nov. 3, 1903. He passed his entire life in the one neighborhood, making his home on a tract of forty acres he owned near the Allegheny Church, and which is now owned by his son Aaron. From his father he learned the wagoner's trade, which he followed continuously until 1890, when he gave up his business that he might devote his entire time to the service of the Master. He was ordained to the ministry of the Mennonite Church in 1862. His ministerial work was largely confined to the churches of Alleghenyville, Berks county; Adamstown; Gehman's Church; and Bowmansville, Lancaster county. In his younger days he was often called to preach the word to other congregations, and he frequently officiated at funerals of friends of other denominations. Occasionally he preached in the Allegheny Union Church to Lutheran and Reformed people. His funeral, attended by a large concourse of friends, was held in that church. He was possessed of a high sense of honor, and was beloved by all who knew him. In the pulpit he was an able and fluent speaker, one whose earnestness and sincerity were never questioned. He married Luzetta Ziemer, born Nov. 8, 1824, died Nov. 16, 1900, daughter of Jeremiah and Polly (Westley) Ziemer, well-known farming people of Brecknock township. To Rev. Benjamin and Mrs. Horning were born thirteen children, namely: Augustus, a farmer near Bowmansville, Pa.; John, mentioned below; Joseph, a farmer near Bowmansville, who died in 1898; Jeremiah, mentioned in full farther on; Susan, who married Martin Newswanger, of Goodville, Pa.; Mary, who died in young womanhood; Fannie, who died young; Sarah, who married John Shirk, of Philadelphia; Benjamin, who died in infancy; Lizzie, who married Monroe Good, of Bowmansville; Isaac Z., full mention of whom is made later; Katie, who married Christian Martin, of Terre Hill, Pa.; and Aaron, who resides on the old homestead at Alleghenyville, mentioned below.

(V) John Horning, son of Rev. Benjamin, was born near Alleghenyville, Nov. 3, 1849, and was reared to manhood on the farm. He obtained a limited education in the township school, which he left at an early age. When twenty years old he started out for himself, for two years working on a farm in Lancaster county. In 1872 he was married, and after that for a while worked at day's labor, but again took up farming, which he successfully carried on nine years. At the end of that time he purchased a forty-acre tract in Paradise township, Lancaster county, which he operated for six years. Forming a partnership with H. E. Musser in 1889, under the name of Musser & Horning, he engaged in the hardware and implement business at Kinzers, a venture that proved very successful and was continued for eleven years. The partnership was then dissolved, and Mr. Horning took entire charge. A year later he sold the implement business to his former partner, but the hardware line he retained, and this he improved, adding to the stock, and meeting the growing demands of the trade. He prospered in his work, but because of a good offer made him by the McCormick Harvesting Machine Company he discontinued the business, and moved to Lancaster, Pa., where he has a comfortable home. While Mr. Horning was yet associated in business with Mr. Musser he did most of the traveling in the interest of the firm, and in this way obtained a thorough knowledge of the implement business. Since 1900 he has given all his time and energy to the interests of the McCormick Company. His territory includes twelve counties in Pennsylvania, Virginia and Maryland. His success is due to his thorough knowledge of the business and his upright principles. On Jan. 30, 1872, he married Hettie A. Good, who was born in Leacock township, Lancaster county, Nov. 24, 1848, daughter of Isaac H. and Hettie (Hurst) Good. Both Mr. and Mrs. Horning adhere to the Mennonite faith.

(V) Jeremiah Horning, son of Rev. Benjamin and brother of John, was born April 7, 1853, and was reared upon his father's farm, remaining at home until he was twenty years of age. He then married and engaged in trucking on the old Henry Westley farm of twenty acres, where he remained two years. In the centennial year he moved upon his present property, which he then bought, and engaged in butchering, farming and trucking on a large scale. While butchering, which he continued for a period of fifteen years, he killed on an average six steers a week, and had two teams on the road, besides attending the Reading market three times a week. Three hired men were kept constantly at work, and much was accomplished under Mr. Horning's able supervision.

In 1900 Mr. Horning became engaged in the lumbering business, and since then has had two portable sawmills in operation, cutting down timber and sawing the logs for market. In this connection he has some half dozen people employed. In 1888 he engaged in mercantile business in Alleghenyville, and this he carried on until 1904, when, he turned it over to his son John B., who now conducts it. For about ten years he has been engaged in cattle dealing, handling as many as one thousand head per annum.

Mr. Horning is the founder of Alleghenyville, and he had all the buildings of the village erected with the exception of the church and the school-house. Most of the town is built on land belonging to him. He is the foremost man in the township, and has done more for the community than any other one man. His farm consists of 100 acres of good land, and he had a well drilled 500 feet from his buildings, 127 feet deep, which furnishes the best of water for his family as well as his stock. In politics he is a Republican, has been delegate to county conventions, and was the first postmaster at Alleghenyville, also serving as school director for six years. He was one of the liberal contributors to the Allegheny Church, erected in 1878, and he and his family are all faithful Mennonites.

On March 8, 1873, Jeremiah Horning was married to Sarah Beam, born June 29, 1853, daughter of Richard and Salome (Kern) Beam, of Bowmansville. To this union were born seven sons and five daughters: Mary married Isaac Griffith, of Alleghenyville; Samuel married Mary Schnader, and resides in Philadelphia; Lucy married Raymond Fritz, of Reamstown; Alice married James Hornberger, of Reading; John B. married Lillie M. Kachel, and is a merchant at Alleghenyville; Sallie died in her third year; Benjamin died in infancy; Harry B. is a mechanic at Cleveland, Ohio; and Irwin, Abel, Annie V. and Walter are all at home.

(V) Isaac Z. Horning, son of Rev. Benjamin and brother of Jeremiah, was born Oct. 18, 1868, and was reared with his brothers and sisters on the home farm, attending the district schools until he was fifteen years old. He assisted in the work of the home farm until 1886, when he began working for his brother Jeremiah as butcher and farm hand. Here he continued for eight years, for the last three being chief butcher. In 1897 he bought out the business, and since then has attended the Reading market twice a week in the winter and three times in the summer. He has stalls Nos. 60-61 at the Bingaman street market, where he enjoys a large patronage. He kills on an average five or six steers a week during the entire year. Besides his market trade he runs a wagon throughout the county. His reputation is of the best, and he conducts his business on honorable principles. Like all his family he is a Mennonite in religious faith, attending the church in which his father was for so many years the minister. In politics he is a Republican, and since 1899 has efficiently served as school director, for one year being secretary of the board.

On Dec. 11, 1886, Isaac Z. Horning was married to Ellen Yelk, daughter of John and Jestina (Trait) Yelk, the former a farmer and blacksmith in Brecknock township. To this union have come two children: Katie, who married Rudy M. Matz, of Alleghenyville; and Lewis Y., who is assisting his father, and who is married to Sallie Matz.

(VI) JOHN B. HORNING, son of Jeremiah, was born Oct. 24, 1882. His early education was obtained in the township schools, and he later attended Perkiomen Seminary, from which he graduated in 1902, being among the first ten in class of fifty and one of the commencement speakers. He was a prominent athlete, being captain of the class track team in his senior year and a member of the relay team which carried off first honors at the University of Pennsylvania relay races. In the fall of 1899 he began teaching in his native township, teaching the Remps school two terms, and at Alleghenyville one term. In the spring of 1903 he bought out his father's store at Alleghenyville, and in conducting this has proved he chose wisely when he adopted a mercantile career. He is courteous and obliging, and keeps up a good stock, successfully meeting the wants of his large and increasing custom. He served as assistant postmaster to his father from 1902 to 1905, when the office was discontinued by the establishment of the rural mail route. Mr. Horning is a young man who has earned his prosperity by a close adherence to the high business principles instilled in him by his honored father, and he keeps wide awake to the interests of the community. He was one of the charter members of Knauer Lodge, No. 3052, Knights and Ladies of Honor, organized Sept. 16, 1908, at Knauer's, Pa., and its first financial secretary.

In 1901 John B. Horning was married to Lillie Kachel, daughter of Albert and Maggie (Griffith) Kachel, well known farming people of Brecknock township. Four children have blessed this union, namely: Stanley, Inza, Esther and Elsie. Mr. Horning has been active in the Republican party, has served on the election board, and has been the township committeeman since 1906. He is a Lutheran in religious faith, attending the Allegheny Union Church, and he served as superintendent of the Sunday-school from 1900 to 1907.

(V) AARON HORNING, a truck farmer at Alleghenyville, was born there Oct. 15, 1872, son of Rev. Benjamin and Luzetta Horning. He was reared upon the farm and attended the township schools, after the manner of the farmer boys of that locality. He remained on the home farm assisting his father until 1894, when he began for himself on the old homestead, which consists of forty-seven acres of good truck land. He pays especial attention to trucking and goes to the Reading market once or twice a week, having stand No. 66 at the Bingaman street market. He has met with success in his work, and is hard-working and honest. He and his family are Mennonites, and have their place of worship below Alleghenyville.

Mr. Horning was married in 1893 to Mary Ellen Brendel, who was born Dec. 23, 1871, daughter of Esaias and Eliza (Kline) Brendel, farming people of Brecknock township. They have two sons, Paul, born Nov. 17, 1894, and Howard, born Feb. 11, 1898. Mr. Horning owns the old farm where his father lived and died, while the home of his grandfather stood but a short distance to the southeast.

CONRAD SAMUEL REBER, M. D. Among the prominent members of the medical profession in Berks county, Pa., none is more favorably known in his locality than Dr. Conrad Samuel Reber, whose chosen field of practice is the village of West Reading. Dr. Reber was born Sept. 23, 1876, at Bernville, Berks county, son of William H. and Fyetta (Stoudt) Reber.

John Reber, great-grandfather of Dr. Conrad S., was a farmer of Penn township, where he died in 1860, at the age of eighty-five years, being a son of Valentine Reber, who is buried in the old Union Church cemetery at Bernville. John Reber married Salome Steiner, and they had a family of nine children, namely: Conrad; Elizabeth; Samuel m. Catherine Berger; Eva m. John Christian Berger; Sarah m. Peter Umbenhauer; Christiana m. Daniel Kline; Catherine m. Michael Kline; Polly m. Daniel Schneider; and Molly m. Jacob Kline. John Reber was buried in the old homestead burial ground, still maintained, in which five generations of the family, in a direct line, rest, namely: John, who died in 1860; his son Conrad, his grandson William, his great-grandson John, and his great-great-grandson Robert.

Conrad Reber, grandfather of Dr. Conrad, was a farmer of Penn township, where he was born on the old homestead in 1798, the property being situated along the Northkill, about a mile north of Bernville. He was an active member of the German Baptist (Dunkard) denomination, and in that faith he died in 1872. He m. Susan Hiester, daughter of Daniel Hiester, of Upper Bern township, and they had a family of thirteen children: John m. Caroline Strause; William; Polly m. Joseph Lengel; Daniel m. Catherine Gicker, (second) Elizabeth Smith, and (third) Mary Kerper; Henrietta m. Harrison Stoudt; Elizabeth m. Michael Ebling; Joel; Isaac m. Sarah Stump, and five died young. After the decease of his first wife, Conrad Reber married Caroline Bickel, but no children were born of this union.

William H. Reber, father of Dr. Conrad S., was born in 1831, on the Reber homestead, where he was reared to manhood, and spent his entire life there, dying in 1904. He married Fyetta Stoudt, daughter of William Stoudt, of the same place, and by her had seven children: Harrison m. Carolina Levan; Levi m. Amelia Faust; Franklin m. Lillian Naftzinger; Annie m. Aaron Eckert; Conrad S.; and two died young.

Conrad Samuel Reber received his preliminary education in the local schools, and then attended Juniata College, graduating from the commercial department in 1893, and the general department two years later. Upon his return home, he taught school in Penn township, in the Scull Hill school for three terms, and with this additional preparation he selected the profession of medicine for his vocation, and entered the office of W. G. Beyerle, at Bernville, for the purpose of reading medicine under his instruction. In 1899, he entered Jefferson Medical College, at Philadelphia, and graduated in 1903, when he located at West Reading. Here he has carried on a successful practice to the present time, and in 1905 he erected one of the finest dwellings in the place for his home and office.

Dr. Reber married Tillie E. Ruth, daughter of Edwin G. Ruth.

IRVIN S. BRANT, a prosperous produce commission merchant of Reading, Pa., was born at Sanatoga, Montgomery Co., Pa., Dec. 9, 1869, son of Washington R. and Sarah (Stettler) Brant.

As far as is known, the family is of German descent. The grandfather of Irvin S. Brant was Samuel M. Brant, a farmer of Montgomery county, the farm on which he operated still being in possession of the family, as it has been for one hundred years. The children of Samuel M. Brant and his wife were: Elizabeth m. Henry Boos; Susannah m. Henry Lindman; Mary m. Isaac Truckmiller; Hannah became Mr. Truckmiller's second wife; Joseph; Nathan; Frederick; Samuel, Jr.; and Washington R. In religious belief the family were members of the Dutch Reformed Church.

Washington R. Brant received his education in the schools of Montgomery county, and when a youth learned the milling business. With his brother, Nathan, he conducted a general store for several years, later selling out his interest to engage in farming on the old homestead. Mr. Brant was very prominently connected in Sanatoga, Montgomery county. He and his wife became the parents of eight children, six living: Mary and Rebecca died at ages of nine and eleven years, respectively; Frank is secretary of the North American, Philadelphia; Samuel S. is a farmer of Sanatoga; Newton C. is at home, engaged in farming; Irvin S.; Annie m.

THE

a man's name "John" in America can be shown as "Johann" or even "Hans." Place names are all spelled as they will be listed in a German gazetteer or located on a German map.

One important fact should be observed when using a modern map of Germany or a map of Wuerttemberg: Within the last twenty years small villages have merged and often a new name was designated. For example, the village of Kaltenwesten in Oberamt Besigheim does not exist on any map or German gazetteer. It can only be located in conunction with the village Neckarwestheim. Therefore, it is advisable to consult older maps in trying to locate a given area.

The original Wuerttemberg emigration records were compiled according to the Oberamt to which the applicant belonged. An Oberamt is roughly equivalent to a district town (or county seat in America).

The country of destination for each emigrant is given and regions such as Maehren (Moravia), Siebenbuergen (Transylvania), Rumaenian (Romania), Sudetenland and Czechoslovakia, which were all part of the Austrian empire, are designated as Austria. The acutal emigration record gives more details on each single applicant.

Some names may be difficult to locate because of peculiarities in the German language. German surnames that carry an "Umlaut," i.e. a modified vowel (ä, ö, ü), have been changed to their English equivalents; thus ä = ae, ö = oe, ü = ue are indexed as such. Surnames composed of two or more distinct words have been alphabetized under the final word. Thus, von Vogel is found as Vogel von.

When a family or husband and wife applied jointly, the entry would be as follows: Weidmann, Hans Peter & W or Becker, Alois & W, respectively. The wife would be listed separately by her maiden name in alphabetical order. In cases of a widow with children or a single woman with an illegitimate child, the listing will appear as follows: Widmann, Heinrike & C. A widow also may be listed as Widmann, Heinrike & F.

The date of application for emigration should not be assumed to be the date of emigration. In several cases, emigration was not granted until some time later, or the emigrant had already left secretly before that date.

THE 1623 DIVISION

IN 1623 it was decided to allot land to every family to help increase production. The previous plan of working for the common good was not successful and this new plan worked much better.[2] This article might be considered a "reconstructed" 1623 census of Plymouth, as everyone living there at the time appears to have been granted land, except the crew of the Little James. They were hired for fishing and did not intend to stay.

I believe the division was actually made after January 1st, 1624. It was certainly made after the Bradford-Southworth marriage 24 Aug. 1623 (old style) and the marriage of Myles Standish and Barbara who came on the Anne. It was apparently made after 5 Nov. 1623, as Timothy Hatherly did not receive land. He had come on the Anne, but returned on the same ship after his house burned November 5th. Some have thought that the division was made late in 1623 (old style) what we would term March 1624, just before April planting.

It appears that the population of Plymouth in 1623 included 48 from the Mayflower, 32 from the Fortune, and about 96 from the Anne, Little James and other ships, a total population of about 176. Mayflower passengers who survived the first winter, but apparently left Plymouth before the 1623 division, were Desire Minter, William Trevor and Ely. It is possible that they might be "hidden" in one of the families, but I doubt it.

The list of Mayflower passengers is taken from Bradford's history. There are no contemporary passenger lists for the Fortune, Anne and Little James whose passengers shared in the 1623 land division. Published lists are based on the names in that division, with the 1627 cattle division as the primary source for identifying wives and children.

The Fortune brought Robert Cushman and 35 other passengers in 1621, of whom 32 were still living at Plymouth in 1623. Mr. Cushman returned on the Anne, Mr. Ford had died by that time, and two whose names are unknown had either died or left the colony. The Anne and Little James brought "about 60 persons for the general" and a company that came "on their particular"—John Oldham's group who were not regular members of the Colony.

I believe that the following rules were used in 1623 for allotting land.

1—An acre for every person then living in Plymouth except the sailors. This would include children born on the ships. Oceanus Hopkins and Peregrine White were born aboard the Mayflower, the Fords had a baby shortly after the Fortune arrived, and Sarah Jenney and Ephraim Morton were probably born on the Anne.

2—An acre for every adult who came on the Mayflower, whether he died aboard or in Plymouth, as long as any of his family survived. No shares for children who died.

3—An acre for every servant who died, provided one member of the family survived.

4—An acre for every person who contributed £10 toward the financing of the Pilgrims—the "double share" of the Pilgrims' agreement with the Adventurers.

2 In 1624 the settlers asked their Governor to cease distributing land "by yearly lot" so that they might benefit from the improvements they had made on a particular piece of land. He therefore assigned them the use of the same lots until 1627, when the agreement with the Adventurers would expire. There was still "no division for inheritance."

"The streete" is now called Leyden Street. Highway is the main street.

The tabulation shows, in bold face at the left, the names as they appear in the 1623 division and the number of acres alloted to each. Where the number of acres was unreadable or not clear an "x" has been used or number supplied in brackets.

The falles of their grounds which came first over in the May-flourt. accrording as thier lotes were cast 1623.

This entry by Governor Bradford himself in the oldest volume of Plymouth Colony Records, made about 1623, is the earliest known mention of the name of the Pilgrim ship.

"The Falles of their grounds which came first over in the May-Floure, according as thier lotes were cast .1623."

Robart Cochman—1—An unknown Mayflower passenger? No, this is Robert Cushman who started out with the Mayflower but was left behind when they turned back to Plymouth, England, because of the poor condition of the Speedwell. His (extra) share must be for a financial contribution in 1620. Robert came to Plymouth in 1621 on the Fortune with his son Thomas, but did not stay.

Mr. William Brewster—6—a share for each as follows:
1—himself
2—wife Mary Brewster
3—son Love Brewster
4—son Wrestling Brewster
5—Richard More
6—William Latham (? He was a servant of the Carvers and may be in this household, otherwise an extra share for money contributed.)

William Bradford—3—a share for each as follows:
1—himself
2—his wife Dorothy (May) Bradford, dead
3—extra share for financial contribution

Richard Gardener—1—for himself (he returned to England—Banks)

Frances Cooke—2—one each for himself and his son John

George Soule—1—for himself

Mr. Isaak Alerton—7—a share for each as follows:

1—himself
2—son Bartholomew Allerton
3—daughter Remember Allerton
4—daughter Mary Allerton
5—wife Mary (Norris) Allerton, dead
6—servant John Hooke, dead
7—extra share for financial contribution

John Billington—3—a share for each as follows:

1—himself 2—wife Ellen Billington 3—son Francis Billington

There should be four shares for this family. Where is the share for John Jr.? (or Francis or Mrs. Billington, whoever was left out of the count.) Was he living with another family and included in their count?

Peter Browen—1—for himself, Peter Brown

Samuel ffuller—2—one for himself and one for servant Robert Butten, dead.

Joseph Rogers—2—one for himself and one for his father Thomas, dead.

The 29 acres allotted Robert Cushman through Joseph Rogers lay on the south side of Town Brook between Sandwich Street and the harbor, and running south almost to Fremont Street.

John Howland—4—one each as follows:

1—himself
2—wife Elizabeth (Tilley) Howland
3—John Tilley, father-in-law, dead
4—Elizabeth Tilley, mother-in-law, dead

If Elizabeth had not married John Howland by now, she would receive her shares in her maiden name, as Mary Chilton and Humility Cooper did.

Steven Hobkins—6—one each as follows:

1—himself—Stephen Hopkins
2—wife Elizabeth Hopkins
3—son Giles Hopkins
4—daughter Constance Hopkins
5—daughter Damaris Hopkins (?)
6—son Oceanus Hopkins (?)

Stephen Hopkins should have an extra share so either Damaris or Oceanus was dead by this time.

Edward—1—Edward Doty, a share for himself

Edward—1—Edward Leister, a share for himself

Both were servants of Stephen Hopkins. Their place in the list identifies them.

[illegible] Hocking demannded what he would doe, whether he would shoot; Mr [illegible] answered no, but he would put him from thence. John Hocking said and [illegible] would not shoot, but swore iff we came abord him he would send us —— [illegible] passing by him we came to an anker sumthing nere his barke. Mr Howland [illegible] three of his men goe cutt his cable whose names weare John Frish, Thomas [illegible] and William Rennoles, who prsently cut one, but were put by the other by the strength of the streme. Mr Howland seeing they could not well bring the canow to the other cable, caled him a bord, and bed Moses Talbott goe with them, who accordingly went very reddyly and brough the canow to Hockings cable. He [illegible] ing on deck came with a carbine and a pistole in his hand and prsently presented his peece at Thomas Savory; but the canow wth the tide was put nere the bow of the bark, wch Hocking seeing prsently put his peece almost to Moyses Talbots [illegible] wch Mr Howland seeing caled to him desiering him not to shut his man, but to take himselfe for his mark; saying his men did but that which he commanded them, and therefore desiered him not to hurt any of them. If any wrong was don it was himselfe that did it, and therfore caled again to him to take him for his marke, say ing he stod very fayer; but Hocking would nut hear nor looke towards our boate, but prsently shooteth Moyses in the head, and prsently took up his pistol in his hand, but the Lord stayed him from doing any further hurt, by a shot from our barke, himself was presently shoote dead, being shott neere the same place in the head wher he had murderously shot Moyses.

He lived at what was called Rocky Nook. He died 23, 2, 1672, O. S. (1673, N. S.) The following is a verbatim copy of his will, which was exhibited to the court held at Plymouth, March 5th, 1673, and copied from the Old Colony records by the writer.

She passed the closing days of her life with her daughter Lydia Brown, in Swanzey, where she died, according to the Swanzey town records, "21, 12. 1687, aged 80 years," which proves she was but 13 when she arrived in Plymouth. four acres were assigned to John Howland, when one acre was allotted to each person, led to the firm belief by many that he was married before he left England, and at this time had two children. But his eldest son John[2] was not born then, as Judge Sewell wrote in his diary that he "saw Lieut. Howland upon y^e^ Rode who tells us he was borne Febr 24, 1626 [1627, N. S.] att our Plimouth." Now, if Desire was the first born,* John might not have been married even as early as 1623, when Elizabeth Tilly was but 17 years old.

In my judgment nothing has yet been found to prove that John was married before he left England, or even in 1623, notwithstanding the above and the assertion of Bradford that his marriage was the fourth in the colony, and of Dr. Shurtleff that it was the third, if not the second. These widely differing statements were evidently not formed from data. My opinion, based largely upon record evidence, is that the remnant of Carver's household consisted of John Howland, Elizabeth Tilly, Desire Minter, and the lad William Latham; that they cast their lots together as one family under the direction of John, and that the allotment of land above mentioned does not prove that John and Elizabeth were or were not married at that date. They may have been married, though Elizabeth was sixteen. If they were, probably faithful Desire Minter remained with them. If they were not, doubtless Desire was matron of the house; at least, she held a prominent place in the affections of John and Elizabeth, who honored her greatly by naming their first daughter for her, when it was almost the universal custom to name the first born from a cherished ancestor. In 1627 John's family consisted of himself, Elizabeth, son John and daughter Desire. Desire Minter had probably returned to England, where she died, and William Latham may have gone to Jamaica, where he died.

JOHN HOWLAND

An original letter from a genealogist in England[1], in 1879, mentions "the extraordinary fact that I find the surname of Howland in no other county in England than Essex, and originally in no other locality in that county except at Newport and Wicken and their immediate vicinity. Wherever at later periods I have found Howlands in other counties, as Hertfordshire, Surrey, Berks, etc., I have invariably traced them back to Newport and Wicken. It is clear that several families of the name were living there contemporaneously and equally so that they were all in some way connected . . . at the period of the birth of John Howland of the Mayflower, there were living then no less than five John Howlands . . . " In two of these lines, the Howland name terminated in heiresses, one of whom, Elizabeth by name, bequeathed the Streatham Estates to her husband, the Duke of Bedford, who then acquired the additional title of Baron Howland.

John Howland of the Mayflower was born in 1592, the son of Henry Howland, of Fen Stanton, Huntingdonshire (near Newport, County Essex)[2]. He had at least four brothers, Arthur, George, Henry, and Humphrey. His brothers Arthur and Henry came to America[3] about 1623/4 and later joined the Society of Friends. Early records reveal that Arthur, whose home was in Marshfield, was fined many times for "pmitting of a Quaker's meeting in his house." When he refused to pay the fines, he was sent to jail. Henry was fined for entertaining Quakers, at the Court of March, 1658.

In mid-Atlantic, during a violent storm, John Howland was almost drowned when a mountainous wave swept him overboard. Grasping a halyard which was trailing astern of the Mayflower, although at first he was several fathoms under water, he finally managed to haul himself to the surface. He was then rescued, by means of a boathook along with the rope, etc.[4]

By November 11, 1620, he had sufficiently recuperated from his oceanic adventure to be the thirteenth signer of the Mayflower Compact. And a few days later, December 6, he was one of the ten chosen to make the third exploration along the shore. On this occasion, they were attacked by the Indians at Eastham, Cape Cod. In Bradford's History, we learn that the mast of the shallop broke during a sudden squall, and the sail was lost overboard. "The weather was very cold, and it froze so hard . . . the spray of the sea lighting on their coats, they were as if they had been glazed."[5]

John Howland was one of Governor Carver's family. Both Governor Carver and his wife were among the fifty Pilgrims who died during the first few months of the struggle for survival at Plymouth. It is believed that John Howland inherited John Carver's estate, as the Carvers had no children of their own.

About 1626 John Howland married Elizabeth Tilley, a girl of eighteen. She had come on the Mayflower with her parents, who, like the Carvers, were victims of "the sickness" during the first winter. She d. 21 Dec. 1687, at Swansea.

In 1626, John Howland was one of those (including Bradford, Brewster, Standish, etc.) who assumed the Colony's debt to the Merchant Adventurers, £1800. At least as early as 1633-35, he was an Assistant or member of the Governor's Council, and from 1641 to 1670 was frequently a deputy or representative to the General Court. In 1634, he commanded the Pilgrims' Trading Post at Kennebec (Maine).

JOHN HOWLAND

An original letter from a genealogist in England[1], in 1879, mentions "the extraordinary fact that I find the surname of Howland in no other county in England than Essex, and originally in no other locality in that county except at Newport and Wicken and their immediate vicinity. Wherever at later periods I have found Howlands in other counties, as Hertfordshire, Surrey, Berks, etc., I have invariably traced them back to Newport and Wicken. It is clear that several families of the name were living there contemporaneously and equally so that they were all in some way connected . . . at the period of the birth of John Howland of the Mayflower, there were living then no less than five John Howlands . . . " In two of these lines, the Howland name terminated in heiresses, one of whom, Elizabeth by name, bequeathed the Streatham Estates to her husband, the Duke of Bedford, who then acquired the additional title of Baron Howland.

John Howland of the Mayflower was born in 1592, the son of Henry Howland, of Fen Stanton, Huntingdonshire (near Newport, County Essex)[2]. He had at least four brothers, Arthur, George, Henry, and Humphrey. His brothers Arthur and Henry came to America[3] about 1623/4 and later joined the Society of Friends. Early records reveal that Arthur, whose home was in Marshfield, was fined many times for "pmitting of a Quaker's meeting in his house." When he refused to pay the fines, he was sent to jail. Henry was fined for entertaining Quakers, at the Court of March, 1658.

In mid-Atlantic, during a violent storm, John Howland was almost drowned when a mountainous wave swept him overboard. Grasping a halyard which was trailing astern of the Mayflower, although at first he was several fathoms under water, he finally managed to haul himself to the surface. He was then rescued, by means of a boathook along with the rope, etc.[4]

By November 11, 1620, he had sufficiently recuperated from his oceanic adventure to be the thirteenth signer of the Mayflower Compact. And a few days later, December 6, he was one of the ten chosen to make the third exploration along the shore. On this occasion, they were attacked by the Indians at Eastham, Cape Cod. In Bradford's History, we learn that the mast of the shallop broke during a sudden squall, and the sail was lost overboard. "The weather was very cold, and it froze so hard . . . the spray of the sea lighting on their coats, they were as if they had been glazed."[5]

John Howland was one of Governor Carver's family. Both Governor Carver and his wife were among the fifty Pilgrims who died during the first few months of the struggle for survival at Plymouth. It is believed that John Howland inherited John Carver's estate, as the Carvers had no children of their own.

About 1626 John Howland married Elizabeth Tilley, a girl of eighteen. She had come on the Mayflower with her parents, who, like the Carvers, were victims of "the sickness" during the first winter. She d. 21 Dec. 1687, at Swansea.

In 1626, John Howland was one of those (including Bradford, Brewster, Standish, etc.) who assumed the Colony's debt to the Merchant Adventurers, £1800. At least as early as 1633-35, he was an Assistant or member of the Governor's Council, and from 1641 to 1670 was frequently a deputy or representative to the General Court. In 1634, he commanded the Pilgrims' Trading Post at Kennebec (Maine).

(The Howland Line).

(I) Humphrey Howland, citizen and draper of London, will proved July 10, 1646; George of St. Dunstan's in the East London, also Arthur, John and Henry. The last three were to receive, by will dated May 28, 1646, eight pounds, four shillings, four pence, out of the debt "due the testator (Humphrey) by Mr. Buck, of New England," who lived at Salem, Massachusetts. Annie Howland, widow of Humphrey, was executrix of her husband's estate. She was buried at Barking, county Essex, England, December 20, 1653. The sons Arthur, John and Henry were in Scrooby, England; in 1608 went to Amsterdam, remained a year, removed to Leyden, where they remained until migrating to New England.

(II) John Howland came to this country when twenty-eight years of age, in 1620. His name was thirteenth on the list of forty-one who signed the compact in the cabin of the "Mayflower," November 21, 1620. Prince says that he was of Governor Carver's family at that time. He was one of the ten who chose the place of settlement. In the records the first mention of him is on the list of freemen, and as third in the governor's council of seven. He was an assessor in 1633; in 1636 he served on a jury, in 1666 was selectman, and deputy in 1652-56-58-61-63-66-67-70. June 2, 1670, was the last time his name was used as candidate for public office, as he was nearly eighty years of age, and refused to serve any more. He was very prominent and active in public and church work, and was manager of the colonists' interests in a trading post on the Kennebec river in Maine. He lived at what was called Rocky Nook, and died February 23, 1672-73. Although his gravestone says that he married Governor Carver's daughter, the discovery of Bradford's manuscript has proved that the governor had no daughter; the manuscript says that he married Elizabeth Tilly, daughter of John Tilly, who died before Carver did, when Elizabeth was fourteen years of age. It is probable that she was taken into the governor's family at that time. She died December 21, 1687, at the home of her daughter, Lydia Brown, in Swanzey. Her will was dated at Swanzey, December 17, 1686. Children, perhaps not in order of birth: Desire, married Captain John Gorham; John, born at Plymouth, February 24, 1627; Jabez, mentioned below; Hope, born October 30, 1629; Elizabeth; Lydia; Ruth; Hannah; Joseph; Isaac, born November 15, 1649.

(III) Jabez, son of John and Elizabeth (Tilly) Howland, was born in Plymouth, in 1628, and resided in that town for some time, filling various civil offices. He served as a lieutenant under Captain Benjamin Church, in King Phillip's war, and proved his bravery under a test made by Church for that purpose. He was a blacksmith and cooper, and settled in Bristol, Rhode Island, where he transacted a large business. His residence was on Hope street in that town, where he kept a hotel, was first town clerk of the town, also served as assessor, selectman and deputy to the general court. He was active in the construction of the First Congregational Church of Bristol, and was one of the prominent and esteemed citizens of the town. His will, made July 14, 1708, was proved April 21, 1712, and disposed of an estate valued at six hundred pounds. He married Bethiah Thatcher, daughter of Anthony Thatcher, who was a son of Rev. Peter Thatcher. Anthony Thatcher came from Sarum, England, with his second wife, Elizabeth Jones, in the ship "James," in April, 1635. The vessel was wrecked off Cape Ann August 16 of that year, and he was made administrator of the estate of Joseph Avery, one of those lost in the wreck. The general court gave to Anthony Thatcher the island on which the vessel was wrecked, March 9, 1637. He was a tailor by trade, settled first in Marblehead, whence he removed to Yarmouth, on Cape Cod, and took the oath of allegiance to the Plymouth Colony, January 7, 1639, was deputy to the general court, licensed to marry persons, and magistrate. Children, born in Plymouth: Jabez, November 15, 1670: John,

Through his First Child

Desire[2] Howland, and her husband, Captain John Gorham

1. John[1] Howland and his wife, Elizabeth Tilley

John Howland of Fenstanton, Huntingdonshire, England, a passenger on the famous ship Mayflower, which sailed from Plymouth, England, in the autumn of 1620, was the indentured manservant of Mr. John Carver, a wealthy Londoner, who became the first governor of New Plimoth Colony in Massachusetts. On 11 November 1620, as the ship lay at anchor in Cape Cod Bay, John Howland was the thirteenth man to sign the MAYFLOWER COMPACT, the agreement which laid the foundation for the new town that the able-bodied men on board the Mayflower planned to create when the group landed in what was to become Plymouth, Massachusetts.[1]

The son of Henry and Margaret Howland, John Howland was born about 1592 and grew up in Fenstanton, a town nine miles northwest of Cambridge on the old Roman Road. No baptismal record has been found for John Howland but he was said to have been "above eighty years" when he died in Rocky Nook, Kingston, near Plymouth, 23 February 1672. His father, Henry Howland, yeoman, died in Fenstanton 17 May 1635, and his mother, Margaret, was buried there 31 July 1629. The identity of this family is proved by the probate records of John's brother, Humphrey Howland, a draper, who settled in St. Swithin's Parish in London. Humphrey Howland, in his will written in London 28 May 1646 and proved 10 July 1646 by his second wife, Anne, mentioned his brothers, Arthur, John, and Henry, his sister, Margaret, wife of Richard Phillips of Fenstanton, shoemaker, his "nephew," Simon Howland, and his "niece," Hannah Howland, Simon's sister. Additional information about John Howland's family is found in the records of the intestate estate of another brother, George Howland, a merchant of St. Dunstan's, East London, who had died two years earlier, 10 February 1643/4. His estate was administered by Humphrey Howland's wife, Anne, 11 July 1646. Simon Howland was baptized in Fenstanton 19 August 1604, called "son of Henrye," and was probably the Simon Howland who was apprenticed 19 March 1622, to Humphrey Howland, "citizen and draper of London."[2]

Two of John's brothers followed John to Plymouth. Henry Howland, the youngest brother, was apprenticed to his brother, Humphrey Howland, in London and his name is found there on the Roll of the Drapers Company, 1 October 1623. But less than ten years later, Henry arrived in Plymouth where he was taxed 25 March 1633. John's oldest brother, Arthur Howland, soon followed his younger brothers to New England and was listed by Thomas Lechford 28 August 1640 as "of Duxbury in New England, Planter."[3] Thus the progenitors of three separate Howland families arrived in Plymouth Colony during the first twenty years of its existence, making it difficult to sort out and identify their many descendants.

John Howland of the Mayflower was called by Governor William Bradford "a lusty younge man." He was one of the hired hands among the Mayflower company, being neither a "Saint," as the Pilgrims were called, nor a "Stranger," engaged for a specific duty, as was the soldier, Captain Myles Standish.[4] During the voyage across the North Atlantic, the Mayflower was buffeted by severe autumn storms during which she was forced to drop her sails and head into the wind, wallowing in the mountainous waves. John Howland ventured on deck and was washed overboard into the boiling sea. In Governor Bradford's words, "It pleased God that he caught hould of ye halliards which hunge over board, and rane out at length; yet he was held up . . . and then with a boat hooke and other means got into ye ship again."[5] It was this tenacity of purpose, perseverance, and the ability to deal with unexpected emergencies that helped John Howland to become a successful leader in the Plymouth community.

The Carver family with whom John lived, survived the terrible sickness of the first winter, during which many Pilgrims died. But the following spring, on an unusually hot day in April, Governor Carver, according to Bradford, came out of his cornfield feeling ill. He passed into a coma and "never spake more." His wife, Kathrine, died soon after her husband.[6] Since the Carvers had no children, John Howland is thought to have inherited their estate. It has been said that he immediately "bought his freedom" but no record has survived.[7]

On or about what was then New Year's Day, 25 March 1623 (old style), John Howland married his fellow Mayflower passenger, Elizabeth Tilley. Elizabeth was baptized at Henlow, Huntingdonshire, England, 30

August 1607, the fifth and youngest child of a silk-weaver named John Tilley, and his wife, Joan (Hurst) Rogers. She was the only child of her parents recorded as coming with them to America.[8] At the time of her marriage she was not quite sixteen years of age.

The early records of the Colony of New Plymouth contain an account of the Division of Land in 1623, in which John Howland, as head of a household, received four acres "on the Southside of the brook to the woodward." According to one researcher, John Howland was given one share (or acre) in his own right and three shares for his wife, Elizabeth Tilley, and her deceased parents, John and Joan Tilley.[9] But Franklyn Howland, author of The History of Arthur, Henry and John Howland and Their Descendants, states that Governor Carver's family consisted of John Carver, himself, his wife, Kathrine, John Howland, Desire Minter, a man servant named Roger Wilder, a boy, Jasper More, a boy, William Latham, and an unnamed servant maid. When Elizabeth Tilley's parents, John and Joan Tilley, and her uncle, Edward Tilley, died the first winter, Elizabeth became part of the Carver household. Roger Wilder died the first winter. Governor Carver died a few months later, in April 1621, and his wife died in May 1621. The boy, Jasper More, died 6 December 1621, and the servant maid died soon after. That left John Howland as the head of the household containing four people, the other three being Elizabeth Tilley, Desire Minter and the lad, William Latham.[10]

Desire Minter, one of the members of John Howland's household, had come in the Mayflower with the Carvers. Desire must have been no more fifteen years of age when she arrived in Plymouth. She was the daughter of William and Sarah (Willet) Minter, members of the group of Separatists living in Leiden. Her father, William Minter, died before 1618 and her mother, Sarah, married Roger Symondsen in Leiden 18 August 1618. Roger was accompanied to his wedding by his friends, Daniel Fairfield and John Carver.[11] It was this same John Carver in whose care Desire Minter sailed in the Mayflower for Plymouth in 1620. Desire's mother was widowed a second time and, before 10 May 1622, she married her third husband, Roger Eastman. On that date Roger and Sarah Eastman signed an agreement with Thomas Brewer, the philanthropist who had supported Elder William Brewster's printing press in Leiden. In the agreement Thomas Brewer of Leiden was entrusted with 1,900 guilders to be invested, out of which he was to pay 120 guilders annually for the benefit and support of Desire Minter, Sarah's child by her first husband. Payment was to continue until the child reached the age of twenty-one. The contract was drawn up in the presence of John Kebel and William Jepson.[12]

Thomas Brewer returned to England where he was arrested for his support of the Pilgrim Separatists. On 20 October 1623, Roger Eastman, Sarah's third husband, authorized John Kebel and William Jepson to collect Desire Minter's money from Thomas Brewer, who was in prison at this time.[13] This would seem to indicate that Desire Minter was about fifteen years old when she traveled to Plymouth with John Carver and his wife, Kathrine, in 1620. She was still a minor when her mother and stepfather, Sarah and Roger Eastman, signed the second contract in Leiden in 1623. Therefor she was still under twenty-one, when she was living in the household of the newly married John and Elizabeth (Tilley) Howland at the time the Division of Land was made in 1623.

A few years later, Desire Minter returned to England, perhaps to claim her inheritance. She may have rejoined her mother and stepfather there for, on 1 December 1623, Roger and Sarah Eastman obtained a notarized statement of good character from Thomas Nashe and William Jepson, when they were planning to leave Leiden.[14] John and Elizabeth Howland were very fond of Desire Minter and named their first child "Desire," in her honor.

In 1626 John Howland became one of the forty-two colonists who assumed Plymouth Colony's debt of £1800 owed to the Merchant Adventurers of London. In order to pay off this mortgage, a monopoly in the Colony's trade was granted to William Bradford, Isaac Allerton and Myles Standish, who chose John Howland as one of their partners, or undertakers, in the project. Later they established a trading post far to the northward, on the Kennebec River, at the present site of Augusta, Maine. John was put in charge of the trading post and a brisk trade developed there in beaver, otter and other furs gathered by the Indians.[15] John's family may have spent some time with him in Maine, and some of his children may have been born there.

When the Division of Cattle was made 1 June 1627, (new style), only forty-two of the original group of ninety-nine people who reached Plymouth in the Mayflower were still living there. All of the members of each family were listed in the records, including John and Elizabeth Howland, who now had two children, Desire and John, Jr.[16] Eight more children were born to them in the ensuing years, whom they named Hope, Elizabeth, Lydia, Hannah, Joseph, Jabez, Ruth and Isaac.[17]

In 1633 John Howland was made a freeman of Plymouth. During his lifetime he was appointed or elected to many public offices. In 1641, 1645, 1647 and 1648 he represented Plymouth at the General Court. In August 1643 he and his son, John, Jr., were listed among the men in Plymouth, aged 16 to 60, who were able to bear arms. In 1641 and 1644, and from 1647 to 1651, John Howland was one of the assessors of Plymouth. In 1650 he was a surveyor of highways. In 1652 and 1659, and from 1661 to 1668, and again in 1670, he was a Deputy to the General Court. In 1655 and 1666 he was a selectman in Plymouth.[18]

In 1639 the Old Comers were given a choice of several additional plantations for themselves and their heirs, around Yarmouth, Dartmouth and Rehoboth. Part of the land which John Howland chose was in Yarmouth, out on Cape Cod, where his son, John, Jr., and daughters, Desire (Howland) Gorham and Hope (Howland) Chipman, settled. It was also in the early part of 1639 that John paid £82 for John Jenny's land and dwelling house at Rocky Nook, now in Kingston but then part of Plymouth, which had been built in 1628. And there he lived with his family for the rest of his life.[19]

John Howland also owned a tract of land in Marshfield. Among the deeds that have survived the vicissitudes of time is one that settled an argument between John Howland, Sr., Thomas Bourne and John Dingley, concerning the boundaries of a "parcel" of marsh meadow there. It was agreed that "the line or Range shall begin att the beach next the sea upon a west line sett by a compas to a homacke in the marsh where there lves an Old Ceader tree there being noe other nor no more trees next to the great Iland but that onely And from the aforesaid west line to the Basse creek To which agreement all the aforesaid parties freely assented unto as aforesaid; alsoe that this agreement bee upon Record both att Marshfield and the court booke att Plymouth to avoid all further Diference for time to Come about the prmises; in witness whereof we the said John Howland senir: Thomas Bourne and John Dingley have put to our hands this fourth of May 1655." This document was signed in the presence of Myles Standish and recorded in 1656.[20]

The following year, on 5 March 1657, John Howland exchanged land in Marshfield for a "farme of land" in the Township of Barnstable owned by Christopher Winter, described as "the Govrs farmes," since it had belonged to Governor Bradford. It contained "fourscore and ten acres of upland according to the bounds be it more or less and ten acres of meddow . . . lying next unto the land of William Crocker." The exchange was acknowledged by Mr. John Howland and Christopher Winter in Plymouth.[21] The ownership of this land was confirmed by deed to John Howland, Jr., 10 January 1667/8, when John, Sr., made a gift to him of "upland and meadows at Barnstable being late in possession of John Howland, Jr."[22]

John Howland, Sr., died in Rocky Nook 23 February 1672/3. In his will dated 29 May 1672, John mentioned his beloved wife, Elizabeth, and his children, named as John, called "eldest son," Jabez, Isacke, and Joseph, and his married daughters, Desire Gorum (sic), Hope Chipman, Elizabeth Dickinson, Lydia Browne, Hannah Bosworth and Ruth Cushman. John Howland also mentioned his grandchild, Elizabeth Howland, "daughter of son John." The inventory of his estate included his dwelling house in Rocky Nook, meadow at the Jones River, half of a house and meadow in

Colchester, a meadow near the Jones River bridge in Duxborrow, a house and land in Middlebury, and land near Nemassakett Pond. Also listed among his possessions were "one great Bible and Annotations on the five books of Moses," as well as "Mr. Tindall's workes, Mr. Wilson's workes and seven more books."[23]

John's widow, Elizabeth, died in Swansea, 21/31 December 1687, at 80 years of age, in the home of her daughter, Lydia Browne. Three of her daughters Desire Gorham, Hope Chipman and Ruth Cushman had already died, leaving heirs. In her will dated 17 December 1686, Elizabeth Howland named her sons, John, Jabez, Joseph and Isaac, her son-in-law James Browne, her surviving daughters Lydia Browne, Elizabeth Dickason (sic), and Hannah Bosworth, her granddaughters Elizabeth Bursley, Dorothy Browne and Desire Cushman, and her grandsons Nathaniel Howland and James and Jabez Browne. She charged her children to "walke in ye Fear of ye Lord, and in love and peace toward each other."[24]

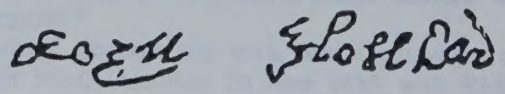
John Howland's Signature

John Howland's signature has been reproduced in several books published since 1849. All of the signatures are similar in appearance and appear to have been copied from an earlier, unidentified source. The original document has never been located.



The signature reproduced here was found in Thomas Weston's History of Middleboro, page 589, which was published in New York in 1906 and reprinted in Taunton, Mass., in 1975. A similar signature was used by Justin Winsor in his History of Duxbury, page 63, published in Boston in 1849. Winsor used it again in his Narratives and Critical History of America (3:268), published in 1884. It is to be hoped that the original document may still be hidden away in an archive or historical museum, or in a private collection, and will eventually be recognized and identified.

SECOND GENERATION

2. Desire[2] Howland and Captain John Gorham

1. Desire[2] Howland (John[1]) was born in Plymouth, Mass., about 1625 or 1626,[1] the daughter of John and Elizabeth (Tilley) Howland. Desire and her brother, John, were listed with their parents in the Division of Cattle in Plymouth, 22 May 1627 (old style), 1 June 1627 (new style). John's birth date, 24, 2, 1627 (old style) [24 April 1627], was recorded by Judge Sewall who met John[2] Howland on the road and asked him when he was born. Therefore, Desire must have been the eldest child, born one year or eighteen months earlier than John. Desire died in Barnstable, Mass., 13 October 1683.[2]

Desire Howland married in Plymouth, about 1643 John Gorham,[3] who was baptized in Benefield, Northamptonshire, England, 28 January 1620/1,[4] the son of Ralph Gorham. Capt. John Gorham was buried in Swansea, Mass, 5 February 1675/6.[5]

The Northamptonshire branch of the Gorhams are supposed to have descended from Sir Hugh de Gorham and his wife, Margaret, daughter of Sir William l'Angevin. Sir Hugh de Gorham, in 1281, possessed the manor of Churchfield in the parish of Oundle, and land in Benefield which had belonged to his wife's father. More than three hundred years later, the baptism of "John Gorram, son of Ralph Gorram" was entered in the Benefield register.[6]

A John Gorham, perhaps this man, was a passenger on board the Philip, bound for North America, 20 June 1635, with Richard Morgan, master.[7] A Ralph Gorham was granted land in Plymouth 2 October 1637 for a house and garden. On 5 March 1637/8, he complained against Frances Sprague. A year later, "Ralph Gorham the older" was presented for breaking the peace. On 1 September 1640 he complained against Ralph Smith and on 2 March 1640/1 Smith complained against Ralph Gorham. On 5 April 1640 he sued Tristram Clark and John Crab for debt.[8] He then disappeared from Plymouth records.

On 8 March 1648 Desire's father, John Howland, sold to his "son-in-law, John Gorum," half of the lands in Marshfield that he had bought from Governor William Bradford.[9] In 1672, Desire's mother, Elizabeth Howland, "wife of Mr. John Howland, deceased, came into court at Plymouth and acknowledged that she freely gave and surrendered rights in the lands of her late husband lying in Namasket in the township of Middleboro to Mr. John Gorum of Barnstable,"[10]

The exact date of their marriage is not known but Desire was called "Desire Gorum" in her father's will dated 29 May 1672. Additional proof that Desire Howland married John Gorham was found in a land transaction dated 16 February 1673, in which "John Gorum Sen[r] of Barnstable" sold to George Dawson, "now resident at Barnstable," land in Middleboro formerly belonging to John Howland and Elizabeth, his wife, and given to the said John Gorum before John Howland's death. The transaction was witnessed by Joseph Laythorpe and John Thompson, and acknowledged 24 February 1673 before Thomas Hinckley, Assistant. Desire, wife of John Gorum, gave her consent 30 April 1674.[11]

John and Desire Gorham lived in Plymouth after the birth of their first child, Desire, 2 April 1644, and then moved to Marshfield. Their great-grandson, Col. John Gorham, in his "Wast Book," recorded that "John Gorum, alias Gorham - which Son after Having Marryed With an Howland and Had Sevrall Children Went home to England and Returned Soone again to his family. . . . Moved From Marshfield to Barnstable and Settled there in ord[r] to begin a township Called Barnstable. Built Mills - tan fatts &c."[12]

John Gorham's name was on a list of men able to bear arms in Plymouth in 1643. He was chosen constable in Marshfield in 1648. He was made a freeman 4 June 1650 and in 1651 he became a member of the Grand Inquest of Plymouth Colony. He and his family moved to Yarmouth, Mass., in 1652, and then went on to Barnstable where he owned a grist mill and a tannery. He was a surveyor of highways in 1654. As a captain in the militia in King Philip's War, he took part in the Narragansett fight in December 1675, where he was wounded "by having his powder horn Shot and Split against his side," He died of the resulting fever and was buried in Swansea 5 February 1676/7.[13] His widow, Desire, survived him for more than five years, dying after her father, John Howland, but before her mother, Elizabeth Tilley. Desire was mentioned in her father's will in 1672, but not by her mother in 1686.[14]

Desire's husband, Capt. John Gorham, died intestate. On 7 March 1675, Mistress Desire Gorum (sic) and her sons, James Gorum and John Gorum, were named as administrators of the estate. The court appointed "Mr. Hinckley, Mr. Chipman and Mr. Huckins" to take care of the estate of the youngest children until they came of age. The inventory, amounting to £710-4-3, was taken 29 February 1675 and sworn to 7 March 1675. It included the dwelling house, barn, upland, meadow, tan vats, a bark mill, and two houses and tools "belonging to the taning." In the division of Capt. John Gorham's estate, dated Plymouth 7 March 1676/7, widow Desire Gorham received her dower thirds. Son James received "the dwelling house he now lives in," with the barn and half of the upland. Son John Gorham received the tan vats, bark mill, tools, stock and the other half of the upland. Son Joseph was given forty acres of land next to Joseph Hallet's land, and some meadow. The rest of the estate was divided into five equal parts among the rest of the children, who were named as Jabez, Mercy, Lydia, Hannah and Shubael Gorum. Shubael was allotted £50 for the costs of his education, in addition to receiving his share of the estate. Three married daughters, Desire, Temperance and Elizabeth, had already received £40 each. If there should be an overplus, the married daughters were to share equally with the other children, except that James, the eldest son, was to have a double share.[15]

The inventory of Desire's estate was dated 3 August 1683, more than two months before her death, 13 October 1683. On 5 March 1683/4, the Assistants of Plymouth Colony, Gov. Hinckley, Major Bradford, Deputy Gov. Mr. Freeman, Mr. Lothrop and Mr. Thacher, "with the mutual consent of the children then appearing," named as James, John and Joseph Gorham, and with the consent of the sons-in-law, agreed that the eldest son James would receive a double share, according to custom, and the rest of the children, namely John, Joseph, Jabez, Shubael, Desire, Temperance, Elizabeth, deceased, Mercy, Lydia and Hannah, should have an equal portion. As Elizabeth had died, they agreed that her children, not named, "should have an equal part that did belong to their mother."[16]

THIRD GENERATION

3. The Children of Desire[2] Howland

2. Desire Gorham[3] (Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Plymouth, Mass., 2 April 1644,[1] the daughter of Capt. John and Desire (Howland) Gorham. She died in Yarmouth, Mass., 30 June 1700, aged 56 years.[2]

Desire Gorham married in Barnstable, Mass., 7 October 1661 John Hawes of Yarmouth,[3] who was born probably in Duxbury, Mass., between 1635 and 1640,[4] the son of Edmund Hawes. Capt. John Hawes died in Yarmouth 11 November 1701.[5]

When the intestate estate of her father, Capt. John Gorham, was settled in March 1676/7, Desire was one of the married daughters who had already received £40 but, if there should be an overplus, she and her married sisters were to share it equally with the other children. Desire also shared in the estate of her mother, Desire (Howland) Gorham in March 1683/4. Her husband was one of Desire Gorham's sons-in-law who agreed that the children of Desire's deceased sister, Elizabeth, should have their mother's portion.[6]

John Hawes's father, Edmund Hawes of Yarmouth, in his will dated 5 May 1692, probated 20 July 1693, mentioned his son John and his "daughter Desire, wife of my sd son John." He made bequests to his grandsons Joseph, Jabez, John, and Edmond, "if he come again," as well as to Ebenezer, Isaac and Benjamin. He also remembered his granddaughters Desire Hawes, Elizabeth Dogged, Mary Bacon and Experience Hawes. Son John Hawes was named executor.[7]

John Hawes was a cutler. He served as a representative to the General Court for two years, starting in 1696.[8] According to Col. John Gorham's "Wast Book," Capt. John Hawes of Yarmouth, "having his Leg Cut of Dyed with it."[9]

In his will dated 15 October 1701, probated 19 November 1701, John Hawes of Yarmouth gave his son, Isaac, his house and barn, except that two unmarried daughters, Desire and Experience, were to have liberty to dwell in the east end of the house. He also mentioned his other sons, Ebenezer, Joseph, John and Benjamin, and his married daughters, Mary Bacon and Elizabeth Doggett. Sons Joseph and Isaac were appointed executors. Witnesses were John, Peter and Josiah Thacher. The inventory, taken 25 November 1701, amounted to £629-8-4. Major John Gorham and John Thacher, Esq., were named as overseers of the will.[10]

Children (Hawes), born in Yarmouth, Mass.:[11]

+13 i. Elizabeth[4], born 5 October 1661 (sic); probably ought to be 1662; she certainly was not born two days before her parents' marriage.

+14 ii. Mary, born 10 June 1664.

iii. Edmund, born 2 May 1669; mentioned in grandfather's will in 1692; not named in father's will in 1701; an Edmund Hawes, possibly another man of the same name, was a selectman and assessor in Chatham in 1707.[12]

+15 iv. John, born 14 May 1671.

+16 v. Joseph, born 16 July 1673.

vi. Jabez, born 20 May 1675, died between 31 March 1693 and 15 October 1701; mentioned in grandfather's will in 1692 but not in father's will in 1701.

+17 vii. Ebenezer, born 24 March 1678/9.

+18 viii. Isaac, born 9 March 1679/80.

+19 ix. Desire, born last of February 1681/2.

3. Temperance Gorham[3] (Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Marshfield, Mass., 5 May 1646,[1] the daughter of Capt. John and Desire (Howland) Gorham. She died in Yarmouth, Mass., 12 March 1714/5.[2]

Temperance Gorham married first, in 1663 Edward Sturgis,[3] who was born possibly in Charlestown, Mass., 10 April 1642,[4] the son of Edward and Elizabeth (Hinckley) Sturgis. Edward died in Yarmouth 8 November 1678.[5] Edward was a brother of Hannah (Sturgis) Gray who married Temperance's brother, Jabez Gorham, and of Sarah Sturgis who married another brother, Joseph Gorham.

Temperance, called "the widow Sturgis," married second, in Yarmouth 27 January 1679/80 Thomas Baxter,[6] who was born in England about 1653.[7] Thomas died in Yarmouth 22 June 1713, in his 60th year, and was buried in the Ancient Cemetery in Yarmouth.[8]

Edward Sturgis, Jr., Temperance's first husband, died intestate. Sixteen years after his death, when his youngest son, also named Edward, came of age, the "Court of Plimouth" settled his estate, 5 April 1694, recorded 8 May 1694. It was divided among his four sons, named as Joseph Sturgis, who received "the first division" of property and, called eldest son, was given a larger share worth an extra £20; Samuel Sturgis, who was given "the fourth division"; James Sturgis, who was given "the third division"; and Edward Sturgis, who received the second division." His widow, Temperance, and his daughters were mentioned, but not named, in the division of the estate. Temperance's second husband, Thomas Baxter, was called her "now" husband by the Plymouth Court, 2 March 1697.[9]

Thomas Baxter was a bricklayer. Col. John Gorham, writing in his "Wast Book," begun at Louisbourg, August 28th 1745, called Thomas Baxter "an Old England man - Lived at Yarmouth."[10] Thomas was a soldier in Capt. Gorham's company in King Philip's War in 1675 and was wounded in the first expedition. For his services, on 18 April 1735, the heirs of Thomas Baxter of Yarmouth were made grantees of Narragansett township.[11] Thomas lived at South Sea, now West Yarmouth, where he built a fulling mill and a grist mill.[12] Researchers have confused him with Captain Thomas Baxter, a pirate, and his son, also named Thomas, who lived in New Amsterdam (New York City), and in Fairfield and Wethersfield, Conn. The pirate's son, Thomas Baxter, Jr., died in Westchester, New York, in 1714, one year after Thomas Baxter of Yarmouth died in Yarmouth, Mass., 22 June 1713. There is no known relationship between these two separate Thomas Baxter families.[13]

Temperance and her second husband, Thomas Baxter of Yarmouth, and their eldest son, John Baxter, were further identified by the will of Tooto, servant of Temperance's mother, Desire[2] (Howland) Gorham, dated 22 December 1691, and proved in Barnstable, 2 January 1691/2. In his will, Tooto gave his house and land to "John Baxter, Thomas Baxter's eldest son," who was then eleven years of age. Tooto also gave Temperance Baxter his "moveables and household stuff," and his old riding horse. Tooto left his two oxen in the hands of "Mr. Baxter," to pay for his burial "as neer his mistres [Desire Howland's] feet as may conveniently be."[14]

Thomas Baxter of Yarmouth, in his will dated "about" 2 June 1713, probated 9 July 1713, bequeathed to Temperance, his beloved wife, one-third of his income and his "great new house," during her natural life. He mentioned his sons Shoball, John and Thomas Baxter. He gave his son Thomas some land in Yarmouth on condition that, if he should sell it, then "his two children att Coneicticut: Timothy, ye son & the Daughter he had by his wife shall have secured to them Twenty five pounds apiece." The will was witnessed by John Gorham, Sr., John Gorham, Jr., and Anne Gorham, who made her mark. Thomas Baxter's inventory included negro slaves and mulatto servants valued at £84-4-7. His total estate amounted to more than £579-14-7.[15]

Temperance (Gorham) (Sturgis) Baxter died intestate. The inventory of her estate was taken 8 April 1715 by John Gorham, James Gorham and Josiah Miller. Her real estate was divided between her sons John, Thomas and Shubael Baxter, with John Baxter, as the eldest son of her second marriage, receiving a double portion. Her remaining personal estate was divided among "all the children of the sd Temperance Baxter both the sons and Daughters both what she had by her Last as also by her former Husband, onely Joseph Sturgis the Eldest son to have a Duble part or Shear thereof."[16] Although Temperance's daughters were not mentioned by name in the division of her estate, the first daughter was certainly Desire Sturgis, named for her grandmother, Desire Howland, and for her aunt, Desire Gorham. Proof was found in the will of widow Elizabeth Hore of Yarmouth, dated 20 May 1680, in which she bequeathed her largest pewter dish "to Desier Sturgis eldest Daughter to Temperance Baxter,"[17] The second daughter was Thankful Sturgis whose husband, Peter Thacher, called Thankful's mother, Temperance (Gorham) (Sturgis) Baxter, "Mother Baxter" in his will dated 6 January 1735/6.[18] The third daughter was Fear Sturgis, youngest child of Edward and Temperance Sturgis, who may have been given the unusual name of "Fear" by her mother because her father was dying or was already dead, making her mother "fear" for the future, a common reason for unusual names in that era. Fear's brothers Joseph and James, and her sisters, Thankful and Desire, each named a daughter "Fear."

4. Elizabeth Gorham[3] (Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Marshfield, Mass., 2 April 1648,[1] the daughter of Capt. John and Desire (Howland) Gorham. Elizabeth died before 5 March 1683/4,[2] the date her mother's estate was divided among her brothers and sisters and her children, who were to receive her share, but who were not named.

Elizabeth Gorham married, probably in Barnstable, Mass., before 5 March 1666/7 Joseph Hallett,[3] who was born in England in 1630, the son of Andrew Hallett, Sr., and his wife Mary.[4] Joseph Hallett died after 30 June 1715, the date he was mentioned in the intestate probate records of his grandson, Samuel Fuller of Middleboro, Mass., and before 20 June 1721, when Joseph Hallett's share in the division of common lands in Barnstable, which had become part of the estate of Jabez Fuller, his son-in-law, was divided among his Fuller grandchildren, at his daughter's request.[5]

The date of Elizabeth Gorham's marriage to Joseph Hallett has not been found but, on 5 March 1666/7, Joseph and his wife, Elizabeth were fined £10 by the Plymouth Court "for committing carnal copulation before marriage or contract."[6]

Joseph Hollott (sic), shoemaker, was listed as a debtor in the inventory of the estate of Capt. William Hedge of Yarmouth, Mass., taken 15 July 1670 by Thomas Howes and John Thacher.[7] Joseph's house stood next to that of Elizabeth's brother, James Gorham. Joseph was a townsman in Barnstable in 1670 and was allotted one acre in the division of the common meadow in 1697. He was not named in the division of common lands in 1706, indicating that, before that date, he had moved away, perhaps to Middleboro, with his daughter, Mary, and her husband, Jabez Fuller.[8] His land in Barnstable became the property of his brother-in-law, James Gorham.[9]

Elizabeth was alive and married when her father's estate was settled in 1676, but she had died before her mother's estate was settled 5 March 1683/4. On that date it was agreed by Governor Hinckley, Major Bradford, Deputy Governor Mr. Freeman, Mr. Lothrop and Mr. Thacher, Assistants, "with the mutual consent of the children then appearing, James, John and Joseph Gorham, and with the consent of the sons-in-law, that son James would receive a double share, and the rest of the children would have equal shares, namely John, Joseph, Jabez, Shubael, Desire, Temperance, Elizabeth, deceased, Mercy, Lydia and Hannah." As Elizabeth was deceased, it was agreed that Elizabeth's children "should have an equal part that did belong to their mother."[10] The children were not named.

No probate records for either Joseph or Elizabeth Hallett have been found in Barnstable, Plymouth or Bristol Counties, nor have they been located in Connecticut. There are no birth, baptismal nor town records for any children of this couple in Barnstable where they lived. When Philip L. Cobb published his History of the Cobb Family in 1907, claims were made that this couple had three daughters, Mary Hallett who married Jabez Fuller in Sandwich "about 1686," Lois Hallett who married Henry Cobb in Barnstable, 3 September 1690, and moved to Stonington, Conn., and Elizabeth Hallett who married James Cobb in Barnstable 18 September 1695. The Mayflower Society has accepted Lois Hallett and Mary Hallett as daughters of Elizabeth Gorham and Joseph Hallett, but it has refused to accept Elizabeth Hallett who married James Cobb. Amos Otis, in his Barnstable Families, did not identify the parents of any of these Hallett daughters when he recorded the marriages of two of them, Lois to Henry Cobb and Elizabeth to James Cobb. However, in the Hallett section, he called Lois Hallett Joseph's daughter. Otis did not identify Jabez Fuller's wife at all.[11]

After a great deal of research, proof that the Mary Hallett who married Jabez Fuller was a daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth (Gorham) Hallett was found in the probate records of Mary (Hallett) Fuller's son, Samuel Fuller, who died intestate in Middleboro before 4 March 1714/5, the date his brother, Jonathan Fuller, was appointed to administer Samuel's estate. Samuel died "without wife or child." In the inventory of his estate is the statement, "Also the sum of six pounds due from the estate of their father, Jabez Fuller, paid since his decease by his widow [Mary (Hallett) Fuller] towards the maintenance of Joseph Hallett, the said widow's father & now to be repaid by the said Jonathan to his said mother £6. . . . Jonathan has the homestead in Middleboro which was his father's, also the other lands in Middleboro & Plympton formerly set off to sd. Samuel."[12]

It appears that Joseph Hallett gave his Barnstable property to his daughter and son-in-law, Mary and Jabez Fuller, in return for lifetime payments of £6 per year. This was a common occurrence in colonial times, although usually the parents deeded their farm to a child with the right to live on the property until their deaths. Joseph Hallett may have included his other children in the agreement, because the probate records of his grandson, Samuel Fuller, say, "Paid by [Jabez Fuller's] widow towards the maintenance of Joseph Hallett."[13] However, the original agreement has not been found.

When Jabez and Mary (Hallett) Fuller moved to Middleboro, the responsibility for the payment to Joseph Hallett became attached to the new property the Fullers bought in Middleboro because, when son Jonathan Fuller inherited the property after the death of his father, he became liable for the payments to his grandfather, Joseph Hallett.

Proof that Lois and Elizabeth Hallett were the daughters of Elizabeth Gorham and Joseph Hallett is more tenuous. The given name, "Lois," is very unusual in Barnstable County. Mary Hallett, the proven daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth (Gorham) Hallett, named her third daughter, Lois Fuller. Therefore the Lois Hallett who was born in Barnstable about 1672 and married Henry Cobb in Barnstable 10 April 1690,[14] before moving to Stonington, Conn., in 1715,[15] was certainly Mary Hallett's sister and, therefore, a daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth (Gorham) Hallett.

Proof that Elizabeth Hallett was a daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth (Gorham) Hallett rests solely on two facts. Elizabeth Hallett married James Cobb in Barnstable 18 September 1695, when she would have been at least sixteen or seventeen years old. Elizabeth (Hallett) Cobb's year of birth took place before 1678 or 1679 because she died in Barnstable 1 April 1759, aged "above 80."[16] Her mother, Elizabeth (Gorham) Hallett was living in 1676 when her father, Capt. John Gorham, died, but was dead when her mother's estate was settled 5 March 1683/4. Therefore it is reasonable to think that Elizabeth (Gorham) Hallett died when her daughter, Elizabeth, was born, and the baby was named for her. Until we can find some court record to prove it, this identification has to remain as "probable."

+33 ii. Lois, born about 1672, estimated from her marriage date.

iii. ?? Elizabeth, born before 1678 or 1679, estimated from her death date.

5. James Gorham[3] (Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Marshfield, Mass., 28 April 1650,[1] the son of Capt. John and Desire (Howland) Gorham. He died in Barnstable, Mass., in November or December 1707.[2]

James Gorham married in Barnstable 24 February 1673 Hannah Huckins,[3] who was born in Barnstable 14 October 1653,[4] the daughter of Thomas and Rose (——) (Hillyer) Huckins. Hannah died in Barnstable 13 February 1727/8.[5]

James Gorham was a farmer. On 1 June 1675 he was a member of the Grand Inquest. In June 1689 he was admitted as a Freeman of Barnstable.[6]

When his father, Capt. John Gorham, died intestate, James, with his mother, Desire, and his brother, John, was named a joint administrator of his father's estate, which was divided 7 March 1675/6. As the eldest son he received a double share.[7] When his mother's estate was divided 5 March 1683/4, James again received a double share as the eldest son.[8] His mother's servant, Tooto, in his will dated 27 December 1691, probated in Barnstable 2 January 1691/2, gave James one cow and the increase of his cattle. James and his brother-in-law, Thomas Baxter, were named joint administrators of Tooto's estate.[9]

In his will dated 4 November 1707, proved 7 January 1707/8, James Gorham named his loving wife, Hannah, his seven sons, John, Thomas, James, Joseph, Jabez, Silvanus and Ebenezer, who were all living, and his three daughters, Desire Springer, who received £20, Experience Lothrop, who was given £5, in addition to what she had already received, and Mehitable Gorham, who was also given £5. He bequeathed twenty shillings to each of his five grandchildren, not named. Son James Gorham was appointed sole executor. Witnesses were John Thacher, Jabez Fuller and Lydia Thacher. A codicil dated 14 November 1707, disposed of one more piece of land not mentioned in his will. The inventory was taken 9 December 1707 by John Gorham and John Bacon.[10]

The five unnamed grandchildren who were born before 4 November 1707, the date James Gorham made his will, and whom we know were living then, were Mary, James, Thomas and Ancel Lothrop, children of his daughter Experience Lothrop, and Matthias Gorham, eldest son of John Gorham. Thus the two children that daughter Desire Springer may have had, would have died before 1707.

6. John Gorham[3] (Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Marshfield, Mass., 20 February 1651/2,[1] the son of Capt. John and Desire (Howland) Gorham. He died in Barnstable, Mass., 11 November 1716, in his 65th year, and was buried in Cobb's Hill Cemetery there.[2]

John Gorham married in Barnstable 24 February 1674 Mary Otis,[3] who was born in Hingham, Mass., 14 March 1652/3, and baptized 1 May 1653,[4] the daughter of John and Mary (Jacobs) Otis. Mary died in Barnstable 1 April 1732.[5]

In 1675, John and his brother, James, signed a petition for the settlement of the estate of their father, Capt. John Gorham. On 3 August 1683, John with his brother James, certified the accuracy of the inventory of the estate of their mother, Desire Gorham.[6]

John Gorham was a tanner and "conveyancer." In 1684 he served as constable, and from 1689 to 1691 he was a Deputy to the General Court from Barnstable. In 1690 he was chosen as Captain for the Expedition to Canada, led by Sir William Phips. As Major John Gorham, he served as Deputy from Barnstable in 1702. On 18 March 1703/4, Governor Dudley commissioned him as Colonel. From 1711 to 1714 he was Justice of the Court of Common Pleas.[7]

In his will dated 8 November 1716, proved 7 January 1716/17, Col. John Gorham, Esq., mentioned his loving wife, Mary, and divided his land between his sons, Stephen, Shubael, John and Job. He gave his three daughters, Temperance, Mary and Thankful, "and my daughter Marcy," £70 to be paid to them out of his moveable estate. His servant Robin was to be free after two years service to his wife, Mary Gorham. A codicil dated 10 November 1716 stated that if son Job died without a lawful heir, his share should be divided between his brethren. His wife Mary, and his sons, Stephen and Shubael, were named joint executors. Witnesses were Samuel Sturgis, Daniel Greenleaf and Joseph Dimock. His inventory, valued at more than £2000, was taken 28 November 1716 by Samuel Sturgis and Thomas Lothrop, and was sworn to by the widow, 17 January 1716/7. It included "an Indian servant Jeffrey."[8]

Widow Mary Gorham, in her will dated 7 November 1727, proved 20 April 1733, gave her three sons, Stephen, John and Job, twenty shillings each. Son Shubael was given £6. Grandson John Gorham, son of her son Shubael, was given eight shares in her lot in Barnstable, "the remainder of said lot being owned by the heirs of James Gorham, deceased." Mary gave the balance of her estate to her four daughters, Temperance Clap, Mary Hinckley, Thankful Fuller and Mercy Bourne, to be divided equally. Son Shubael Gorham and son-in-law Silvanus Bourne were named executors. Witnesses were James Allyn, John Sturgis, Tertius, and Mehitable Crocker.[9]

7. Joseph Gorham[3] (Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Yarmouth, Mass., 16 February 1653/4, the son of Capt. John and Desire (Howland) Gorham.[1] He died there 9 July 1726, at 72 years of age.[2]

Joseph Gorham married probably in Yarmouth before 1678 Sarah Sturgis,[3] who was born about 1656,[4] thought to have been the daughter of Edward and Elizabeth (Hinckley) Sturgis. She died in Yarmouth before 3 February 1738/9.[5] This Sarah Sturgis is said to have been the sister of Edward Sturgis, born 10 April 1642, who married Joseph's sister, Temperance Gorham[3], and of Hannah (Sturgis) Gray who married Joseph's brother, Jabez Gorham[3].

Joseph was a shoemaker in Yarmouth. In the division of his father's estate in 1675, he was given forty acres of land and four acres of meadow next to land owned by his brother-in-law, Joseph Hallet.[6] Edward Sturgis, in his verbal will probated at Plymouth, Mass., 3 June 1679, gave Joseph £5 in silver.[7] Joseph was one of the witnesses to the will. Joseph served as an ensign in the militia before 1682.[8]

In March 1683/4, after his mother's death, Joseph and his brothers and sisters agreed that the children of his deceased sister, Elizabeth Hallett, "should have an equal part that did belong to their mother."[9]

In his will dated 27 July 1723, proved 20 July 1726, Joseph Gorham named his wife Sarah, his sons Joseph and Josiah Gorham, his daughter Desire Baxter, his granddaughter Sarah Sears, daughter of his deceased daughter Sarah Howes, and Sarah's other children, Thomas, Ebenezer and Elizabeth Howes. His wife Sarah and son Josiah were named executors. Witnesses were Peter Thacher, Thankful Thacher and Ann Lothrop.[10]

Sarah Gorham, "widow woman and spinster," in her will dated 1 May 1728, proved 3 February 1738/9, gave her son Joseph her silver cup. Her son Josiah received £5, her husbandry tools and the debts he owed her, on condition that he pay his daughter Rebecca, the daughter of his first wife, £20 when she came of age or married. Sarah gave her grandsons Thomas and Ebenezer Howes, forty shillings each, her granddaughter Sarah Sears, £5, and her granddaughter Lydia (sic) Crosby [actually Elizabeth Crosby], £3, all children of her deceased daughter Sarah Howes. Her daughter Desire Baxter was given all of the remainder of her estate, with Desire's husband, John Baxter, being named sole executor. The witnesses were Samuel Sturgis, Samuel Sturgis, Jr., and Ann Crosby.[11]

Children (Gorham), born in Yarmouth, Mass., recorded 26 June 1695:[12]

8. Jabez Gorham[3] (Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Barnstable, Mass., 3 August 1656,[1] the son of Capt. John and Desire (Howland) Gorham. He died in Bristol, which was then in Massachusetts but is now in Rhode Island, between 16 March 1724/5, the date he made his will, and 20 April 1725, the date his will was proved.[2]

Jabez Gorham married about 1676 a widow, Hannah (Sturgis) Gray,[3] who was born about 1654,[4] the daughter of Edward and Elizabeth (Hinckley) Sturgis. Hannah's first husband, whom she married about 1670, was John Gray, by whom she had one son, John Gray.[5] Hannah died in Harwich, Mass., 17 October 1736, and was buried in the Old Burial Ground, Brewster, Mass., called "wife of Jabez Gorham."[6]

Jabez Gorham served in King Philip's War, in which he was wounded. His name is on a list of townsmen in Yarmouth in 1679. In 1680 he was a constable and in 1683 he took the freeman's oath and served on the Grand Inquest.[7] At about this time Jabez settled at Papasquash Neck, on one hundred acres of land granted to the estate of his father, Capt. John Gorham, for his service in King Philip's War. The land seems to have belonged to his brother, Shubael Gorham, who sold it to Nathaniel Byfield of Bristol, 7 February 1689/90, for £62.[8] Jabez registered his ear mark for cattle and swine in Bristol, 30 June 1683.[9] He was living in Bristol, 26 August 1691, where he was called a carpenter when he bought land from James Adams, shoemaker.[10] On 2 July 1715, recorded 1 September 1725, Benjamin Ellery of Newport, R.I., merchant, sold land on the ship channel in Bristol to Jabez Gorham, yeoman.[11] On 13 February 1716, Jabez Gorham, Sr., of Bristol, "for love and affection to my eldest son, Jabez Gorham, Jr., of Bristol," deeded and confirmed to him the land and dwelling house where Jabez, Jr., lived. Witnesses were Samuel Howland and Will Allen. This land was eventually transferred to Jabez, Jr.'s son-in-law, John Kinnicutt.[12] On 8 May 1719, Jabez Gorham of Bristol, yeoman, sold land in Bristol on the ship channel to his son-in-law, Shubael Baxter of Yarmouth, Barnstable County, Mass.[13]

In his will dated 16 March 1724/5, proved 20 April 1725, Jabez Gorham, yeoman, of Bristol, Massachusetts Bay, named his wife Hannah, his eldest son Jabez, his sons Isaac, Joseph and Benjamin, his daughter, Elizabeth, "wife of Shubael Baxter," and his three grandsons Edward, William and Samuel Downs. His wife, Hannah, and son Benjamin were named co-executors. His eldest son Jabez, was given the deed to the house and land where he lived, and his father said, "My will is that the same be confirmed & he rest satisfied th[ere]with."[14] The inventory, dated 2 May 1725, was appraised at £129-5-6, the largest single item being £30-0-0 for "half of the Negro." This was presented by the executors 17 October 1726.[15]

On 18 May 1725, Jabez's son, Isaac Gorham "of Newhaven in the Colony of Connecticut," cooper, quitclaimed to his brother, Benjamin, his rights to land they had inherited from their father, Jabez, in return for a legacy from Benjamin. The witnesses were Samuel Howland and Abigail Howland. On 17 June 1725, Joseph Gorham "of ffairfield in the Coloney of Connecticut," cordwainer, did the same. The witnesses were Jabez Gorham and Joseph Howland.[16]

On 7 September 1732, in a deed recorded 12 September 1732, widow Hannah Gorham, called "seamstress of Yarmouth," quitclaimed to Benjamin Gorham of Bristol, tanner, her interest in five acres in Bristol.[17]

9. Mercy Gorham[3] (Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Barnstable, Mass., 20 January 1658,[1] the daughter of Capt. John and Desire (Howland) Gorham. She died in Stonington, Conn., 24 September 1725.[2]

Mercy Gorham married, probably in Barnstable about 1677 George Denison,[3] who was born in New London, Conn., about 1653,[4] the son of George and Ann (Borodell) Denison. He died in Westerly, R.I., 27 December 1711.[5]

Mercy shared with her brothers and sisters in the settlement of her father's estate, dated 7 March 1676/7, before her marriage.[6] She also agreed to the division of her mother's estate, dated 5 March 1683.[7] She was called "Mercy Denison" by her mother's servant, Tooto, when he made his will in Barnstable on 22 December 1791, proved 2 January 1691/2, in which Tooto gave Mercy two cows.[8]

The Denison family moved from Stonington to Westerly, R.I., before 1707, the year George Denison was made a Deputy there.[9] In his will dated 4 December 1711, and proved 10 March 1712, George Denison of Westerly mentioned his wife, Mercy, and eight of their children. He said, concerning his three "elder sons," Edward, Joseph and Samuel, and his two "elder daughters," Mercy Dunbar and Elizabeth Champlin, that he had already given them all that he could. He gave his youngest son, George, "the house and land which I now live on." He gave his two "youngest daughters," Desire and Thankful Denison, £10 each. Witnesses were Isaac Thompson, William Stanton and Edward Denison.[10]

10. Lydia Gorham[3] (Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Barnstable, Mass., 11 November 1661,[1] the daughter of Capt. John and Desire (Howland) Gorham. Lydia died in Yarmouth, Mass., 2 August 1744, in her 83rd year and was buried in the Ancient Cemetery, Yarmouth.[2]

Lydia Gorham married in Yarmouth, as his second wife, 1 January 1683/4 John Thacher,[3] who was born in Marblehead, Mass., 16 March 1638/9,[4] the son of Anthony and Elizabeth (Jones) Thacher. John Thacher had married first, in Yarmouth 6 November 1661 Rebecca Winslow,[5] who died in Yarmouth 15 July 1683,[6] after having eight children named Peter, Josiah, Rebeccah, Bethiah, John, Elizabeth, Hannah and Mary Thacher,[7] not descendants of Mayflower passenger John Howland. John Thacher died in Yarmouth 8 May 1713, in his 75th year, and was buried in the Ancient Cemetery in Yarmouth.[8]

Lydia and her brother, James Gorham, and two of her sisters, Temperance (Gorham) (Sturgis) Baxter and Mercy (Gorham) Denison, were named by their mother's servant, Tooto, in his will dated 22 December 1691, and proved in Barnstable 2 January 1691/2. Tooto called Lydia "Misstres Thacher" and gave her his young horse.[9]

John Thacher was a Colonel in the militia.[10] In his will dated 25 April 1713, probated 19 June 1713, John Thacher mentioned his second wife, Lydia, his sons Peter and John, and the male heirs of his son, Josiah, deceased, [sons by his first wife], and sons Judah, Joseph, Benjamin and Thomas, [sons by his second wife]; his daughters by his first wife, Rebecca Sturgis and Bethiah Paine, and the children of his daughter, Elizabeth Hatch, deceased; and his daughters by his second wife, Lydia Freeman, Mary Gorham, "and four youngest daughters," not named. His widow Lydia Thacher and son Peter were named joint executors, but Peter refused to serve with his step-mother. Col. John Thacher gave five shillings each "to the Two Drummers of Yarmouth if they beat at my funeral . . . though I had much rather be Decently Buryed without any Military Ceremony."[11]

11. Hannah Gorham[3] (Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Barnstable, Mass., 28 November 1663,[1] the daughter of Capt. John and Desire (Howland) Gorham. She died in Cape May, New Jersey, about 1728.[2]

Hannah Gorham married, probably in Barnstable or Yarmouth, Mass., about 1682, Joseph Whilldin/Wheldon,[3] who was born in Yarmouth about 1660,[4] the son of John and Mary (Folland) Whilldin/Wheldon. Joseph died in Cape May about 1727.[5]

In the division of the estate of her father, Capt. John Gorham, dated 7 March 1676/7, Hannah was mentioned as one of the unmarried daughters.[6] The inventory of her mother's estate, taken 3 August 1683, contains an item, "silver money lent to Joseph Whillden." Hannah was also mentioned in the division of her mother's estate, dated 5 March 1683/4.[7] Col. John Gorham, in his "Wast Book," stated, "Hannah maryd a Wheelding boath movd to Cape May."[8]

Joseph Whilldin was a sea captain and a farmer. Between 1689 and 1696, called Joseph Weldon, he purchased 150 acres of land in Cape May from Dr. Daniel Coxe of London. His earmark for branding cattle was recorded in 1693. This earmark was later used by Isaac Whilden.[9] On 22 April 1695, West Jersey records show that Joseph Wheldon of Cape May, yeoman, paid a quitrent of "two fat capons or hens" for 150 acres in Cape May.[10] He became coroner of Cape May County, 20 December 1699, and was High Sheriff from 1705 to 1708, Collector in 1709, Commissioner of the Pleas, 17 March 1713 and 1722, and Justice of the Peace in 1715. In 1718 he was one of the early members of the Presbyterian Church in Cold Spring, and one of the purchasers of the parsonage.[11]

On 2 April 1695, Joseph Whilldin, Sr., bought a tract of land and marsh in the Lower Precinct of Cape May County from Jeremiah Bass, agent for the West Jersey Society, part of which was conveyed to his son, Joseph, Jr., by two deeds, one in 1711 and one on 24 October 1718. Joseph, Jr., in his will dated 16 March 1747, bequeathed this land to his son, James, Sr., who in turn willed the land to his son, also named James. On 15 August 1789, the younger James Whilldin, with his wife, Rhoda, giving her consent, signed a deed documenting these facts and proving without doubt that Joseph and Hannah (Gorham) Whilldin lived in Cape May and had a son named Joseph.[12]

Children (Whilldin), first two probably born in Yarmouth, Mass., remainder born in Cape May, New Jersey:[13]

+78 i. Hannah[4], born about 1683.

+79 ii. Joseph, born about 1690.

iii. Mary, born about 1693, married 17 December 1708 Josiah Crowell,[14] who may have died before 1734 when his earmark was transferred to Samuel Crowell, possibly his son;[15] no proven children.

iv. Experience, born about 1696, married 15 November 1712 William Foster of Burlington County, N.J.;[16] no further record.

v. Isaac, born about 1698; living in 1730; may have been the "unnamed" son mentioned in the Leach Collection, no proof given, with a widow, Elizabeth, who died in 1730; his brother, Joseph, in his will dated 16 March 1747, gave his son, Matthew, land and marsh which he had purchased from Isaac Whillden;[17] no further record.

12. Shubael Gorham[3] (Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Barnstable, Mass., 21 October 1667,[1] the son of John and Desire (Howland) Gorham. He died in Barnstable in 1750, in his 83rd year.[2]

Shubael Gorham married on the Island of Nantucket, Mass., in May 1695 Puella Hussey of Nantucket,[3] who was born on Nantucket 10th 10 mo. 1677,[4] the daughter of Stephen and Martha (Bunker) Hussey. Puella died in Barnstable before 23 September 1748.[5]

In the settlement of his father's intestate estate, dated 7 March 1676/7, Shubael was given £50 to be used to educate him for a learned profession, in addition to his own share, but instead he became a house-carpenter.[6] He was a minor when his father died and, on 5 March 1683/4, he chose his older brother, James Gorham, as his guardian.[7]

Col. John Gorham's "Wast Book" states that, when Shubael and his family and friends sailed to Nantucket for his marriage to Puella Hussey, the members of the wedding party were taken prisoner by a French shallop from Port Royal and were stripped of all of their valuables.[8] After his marriage, Shubael moved to South Sea in Barnstable County and built a tavern near Hyannis Port.[9]

On 7 February 1689/90 Shubael Gorham sold one hundred acres of land at Papasquash Neck in Bristol County to Nathaniel Byfield of Bristol. This was land which he had inherited from his father, Capt. John Gorham, who had received it for his services in King Philip's War.[10] On 30 October 1722, Shubael Gorham of Barnstable, yeoman, and Puella, his wife, deeded to their eldest son, George Gorham, half of their farm of 50 acres, with half of the buildings, orchards and other property.[11] In 1745 their younger son, Daniel Gorham, died of smallpox in London, England, unmarried, leaving a will dated Barnstable, 24 January 1740, which was proved there in January 1746. In it Daniel named his brother, George, and his seven sisters, Abigail, Lydia, Hannah, Theodate, Desire, Ruth and Deborah. Daniel's inventory, which amounted to £2960-15-1, included four rights to land in Gorhamtown, Maine.[12]

On 8 July 1749 Shubael Gorham's son-in-law, James Lovell, Jr., of Barnstable, gentleman, the husband of his daughter, Abigail, was appointed as Shubael's guardian after Shubael had been adjudged non compos mentis by the Inquisition of Selectmen. James Lovell was to care for Shubael's person as well as his estate, real and personal.[13]

Shubael Gorham, in his will dated 23 September 1748, proved 7 August 1750, gave all of his real estate to his only surviving son, George Gorham of Stamford, Conn. His personal estate was divided equally among his seven beloved daughters, the same as those named in son Daniel's will quoted above. His wife, Puella, was not mentioned and had probably died earlier. Deacon John Hinkley of Barnstable was named executor. Witnesses were Samuel Annable, Thomas Annable and Mary Bourn. Shubael's real estate was appraised at £266-13-4 and his personal estate at £99-10-8.[14]

Children (Gorham), first eight recorded in Barnstable, Mass., ninth child included in father's will, tenth child listed in Col. John Gorham's "Wast Book":[15]

+80 i. George[4], born 29 January 1696/7.
+81 ii. Abigail, born latter end of March 1699.
+82 iii. Lydia, born 14 May 1701.
+83 iv. Hannah, born 28 July 1703.
+84 v. Theodate, born 18 July 1705.
vi. Daniel, born 24 September 1708, died in London, England, before January 1746, the month his will was probated in Barnstable, Mass.
+85 vii. Desire, born 26 September 1710.
+86 viii. Ruth, born 7 May 1713.
+87 ix. Deborah, born after 1714.
x. Jonathan, died young.

Note: Dates before 1752 given for Quaker families in Henry S. Gorham's "The Gorham Family," MS, deposited at The New England Historic Genealogical Society, Boston, Mass., appear to be erroneous transcriptions of Quaker dates when compared with Quaker records published in the five volumes of Nantucket Vital Records to 1850 (1925-1928). But the problem may lie in the published Nantucket Vital Records rather than with the Gorham MS. For example, Josiah Gorham's birth date in Barnstable town hall records is given as 2 June 1723 [MD 33:116; Barnstable Vital Records 2:392]. Vital records from Barnstable's town hall can be considered as accurate because they are from the original records, and are in chronological order with other births in the Barnstable town records. Since Josiah Gorham's birth date was recorded before the calendar change of 1752, it would translate into Quaker dating as 2d 4th mo. 1723, not 2d 6th mo. 1723, as given in the published Nantucket Vital Records 2:100. This leads to an important question. Were all of the dates in Nantucket Quaker records before 1752 mistranslated into the figures for modern months when Nantucket's vital records were prepared for publication? It would appear that both of these sources — the Gorham MS and Nantucket Vital Records to 1850 — may be in error and the original Quaker records of Nantucket should be consulted concerning accurate dates for births, marriages and deaths before the calendar change in 1752.

FOURTH GENERATION

4. The Children of Desire Gorham[3]

13. Elizabeth Hawes[4] (Desire Gorham[3], Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Yarmouth, Mass., 5 October 1661 (sic)[1] [probably should be 1662, almost one year after her parents' marriage, not two days before]. She was the daughter of John and Desire (Gorham) Hawes. She died in Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard, Mass., between 25 December 1732 and 13 February 1732/3.[2]

Elizabeth Hawes married in Bristol, then in Massachusetts but now in Rhode Island, 22 January 1683 Thomas Daggett,[3] who was born in Edgartown, Mass., about 1658,[4] the son of Thomas and Hannah (Mayhew) Daggett. Thomas Daggett died in Edgartown 28 August 1726.[5]

Elizabeth's father, Capt. John Hawes of Yarmouth, in his will dated 5 May 1692, probated 20 July 1693, mentioned Elizabeth as one of his married daughters, calling her "Elizabeth Dogged."[6]

Capt. Thomas Daggett was a carpenter and was called "gentleman." About 1685 he moved to Bristol, but returned to Martha's Vineyard about 1689 and died there in 1726. He may possibly have been a constable in Rehoboth 3 June 1684. He was called "Lieutenant" in land transfers until 1697. In 1705, he was called "Captain."[7]

In his will dated 8 July 1726, proved in October 1726, Thomas Daggett bequeathed to the children of his deceased son, Samuel Daggett, half of the land that was his father's homestead. Son Thomas was given the other half. Sons Timothy and Benjamin both received land in Edgartown. Thomas mentioned his loving wife, Elizabeth, and his six daughters, Hannah, Elizabeth, Thankful, Mary, Jemima and Desire. The three living sons were named executors. Witnesses were Israel Butler, David Butler and Daniel Butler.[8]

Widow Elizabeth Daggett, called "of Edgartown," left a will dated 25 December 1732, probated 25 February 1732/3, in which she named her son, Timothy, as her sole executor. She made bequests to her sons Timothy, Thomas and Benjamin; to her daughters Thankful Doggett, (sic), Mary Norton, Jemima Butler, Hannah and Elizabeth; to her daughter-in-law Mary Daggett; to her grandson Samuel Doggett (sic); to Betty, "alias Elizabeth Daggett"; and to granddaughter Lydia Norton. Witnesses were Benjamin Smith, John Bassett and Jedidah Smith.[9]

In Bristol, this family name was spelled Doggett; in Edgartown, it was spelled Daggett.

FIFTH GENERATION

15. The Grandchildren of Desire Gorham[3]

88. Samuel Daggett[5] (Elizabeth Hawes[4], Desire Gorham[3], Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Bristol, Mass., (now in Rhode Island), 10 June 1685, baptized 22 July 1688,[1] the son of Thomas and Elizabeth (Hawes) Daggett. He died in Edgartown, Mass., before 1726, the date he was called "deceased" in his father's will.[2]

Samuel Daggett married in Edgartown, 11 July 1705 Mary Pease,[3] who was born in Edgartown 17 February 1685,[4] the daughter of Thomas and Bathsheba (Merry) Pease. Mary died in April 1767.[5]

Samuel Daggett died before his father, Thomas Daggett, who, in his will dated 8 July 1726, probated in October 1726, bequeathed half of the homestead that was his father's to his son, Samuel's orphaned children, named as Samuel, Seth, Solomon and Sylvanus.[6] Samuel's mother, Elizabeth Daggett, in her will dated 25 December 1732/3, mentioned her grandsons, Samuel, Seth, Solomon and Sylvanus Daggett, and her granddaughter Betty, "alias Elizabeth Daggett." Samuel's mother also mentioned son Samuel's widow, Mary Daggett.[7]

Children (Daggett), born in Edgartown, Dukes County, all mentioned in grandparents' wills:[8]

i. Samuel[6], born about 1706.
ii. Seth, born 5 February 1713 (?).
iii. Solomon.
iv. Sylvanus.
v. Elizabeth.

89. Elizabeth Daggett[5] (Elizabeth Hawes[4], Desire Gorham[3], Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Edgartown, Mass., about 1690,[1] the daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (Hawes) Daggett. Elizabeth died probably in

Edgartown after 1753, the year she joined her husband in deeding land to their son, John, Jr.[2]

Elizabeth Daggett married in Edgartown 16 December 1708 John Butler, Jr.,[3] who was born about 1674,[4] the son of John and Priscilla (Norton) Butler. John died after 6 February 1754 when he deeded land to his daughter, Phebe.[5]

Elizabeth was mentioned by her parents in their wills dated 8 July 1726 and 25 December 1735.[6] On 24 May 1736, John Butler, Jr., yeoman, and his wife, Elizabeth, of Edgartown, sold land in Edgartown to Thomas Snow, mariner.[7] John Butler moved from Edgartown to Watch's Neck, Tisbury, Mass., before 1748.[8] In 1753, John and his wife, Elizabeth, deeded land to their son, John Butler, Jr. of Tisbury, yeoman, the deed not to take effect until after the death of John and Elizabeth. The following year, John Butler deeded land on the same basis to his daughter, Phebe, wife of Abner Coffin; to his daughter, Keziah, wife of Samuel Osborn, and to his daughter, Abigail Butler.[9] These deeds apparently took the place of probating John Butler's estate.

Children (Butler), born and baptized in Edgartown, Mass.:[10]

i. Keziah[6], born about 1710, bapt. 8 July 1722.
ii. Phebe, born about 1713, bapt. 8 July 1722.

90. Jemima Daggett[5] (Elizabeth Hawes[4], Desire Gorham[3], Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born in Edgartown, Mass., about 1694,[1] the daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (Hawes) Daggett. The date and place of her death have not been documented.

Jemima Daggett married, probably in Edgartown about 1718, Malachi Butler,[2] who was born about 1689,[3] the son of John and Priscilla (Norton)

Butler. Malachi Butler died after 1770, the year he sold his property in the North Purchase of Woodbury, Conn.[4]

Jemima was called "Jemima Butler" in her father's will dated 8 July 1726, and in her mother's will, dated 25 December 1735.[5]

In 1721 Malachi Butler's father, John Butler of Edgartown, gave him land on Martha's Vineyard, at Chappaquiddick and in Edgartown. In 1732 Malachi was given half of his father's pew in the Edgartown meeting house, the other half going to his brother, Gamaliel Butler. Malachi sold his half in 1744.[6]

On 23 January 1734/5 Malachi Butler "of Edgartown in Dukes County," bought a dwelling house, barn and fruit trees in the Town of Lebanon, Windham County, Conn., from William Allen of Windham.[7] Malachi Butler was admitted to the First Congregational Church in Lebanon, Conn., from Chilmark, Martha's Vineyard, 11 January 1736. His wife, Jemima Butler, was admitted 4 July 1736. Their three youngest daughters, Lydia, Mary and Jemima, were baptized in Lebanon.[8] Other land transactions in Lebanon occurred in 1740, 1751, 1752 and 1753.[9]

In 1747 Malachi Butler bought property in Bethlehem, Conn., from Mary Wheeler, some of which he gave to his "well-beloved son" Zephaniah Butler, in 1750.[10] In 1757 Malachi bought land in the North Purchase of Woodbury, Conn., from his son, Zephaniah.[11] That same year the town fathers of Woodbury declared Malachi to be of unsound mind "such as to waste his property."[12] In spite of this, six months later, in 1758, Malachi sold his property on Martha's Vineyard to John Pease.[13] In 1770 he sold his property in the North Purchase of Woodbury to David Leavitt.[14]

Children (Butler), first seven baptized in Edgartown, Mass., last three baptized in Lebanon, Conn.:[15]

HISTORIAN GENERAL BARBARA LAMBERT MERRICK OF MASSACHUSETTS (1983-1987)

Barbara Lambert Merrick

Barbara Lambert Merrick, a Life Member of the Massachusetts Society, is descended from Mayflower passengers John Alden, Governor William Bradford, Elder William Brewster, Edward Doty, Stephen Hopkins, and Richard Warren. Her parents were Clifton and Florence (Mortimer) Lambert, long-time residents of Pembroke, Mass., where Barbara and her husband, Clayton M. Merrick, Jr., have lived for many years. They are the parents of two sons and have one granddaughter.

Before being appointed Historian General in 1983, Barbara had served the Massachusetts Society for five years as State Historian. An experienced genealogist, she is Prime Researcher for Mayflower Families Four - The William Brewster Family, which is now being readied for publication. Her long list of published articles include "The Original Church Records of Gad Hitchcock, D.D., 1748 to 1803: Deaths," [The New England Historical and Genealogical Register, (Jan. 1982) 136:31]; "Sarah (Brewster) Bartlett," [Mayflower Quarterly (Aug. 1985) 51:131]; "Mary Brewster, Wife of William Kempton," [MQ (May 1985) 51:74]; "Josiah and Desire (Hawes) Hatch, A Howland-Doty Line," (co-author, MQ (Feb. 1985) 51:15; "Some Descendants of Francis Cooke, Mayflower Passenger" [MQ (Aug. 1983) 49:130]; "The Secret Life of Jonathan Sampson," [MQ (Nov. 1982) 48:172]; "Which Josiah Washburn Married Sarah Richmond?" The Society is fortunate to have the services of such a talented and knowledgeable Historian General. [Also see The Mayflower Quarterly (November 1983) 49:160.]

JONATHAN BREWSTER IN LEIDEN DOCUMENTS

by Jeremy D. Bangs

Part I

Jonathan Brewster, eldest son of William Brewster and Mary (whose maiden name is unknown),[1] was born on August 12, 1593, and arrived in Leiden in the spring of 1609, accompanying his parents. While they emigrated to New England in 1620, Jonathan remained in Leiden for a year, arriving in Plymouth on the Fortune, November 11, 1621. He married Lucretia Oldham in Plymouth in 1624, and was a Purchaser in 1626. He subsequently removed to Duxbury and became the holder of trading posts at places on the Connecticut River and subsequently on the Thames River in Connecticut. In later life he was a deputy to the Connecticut General Court. An interest in alchemy, expressed in his letters to John Winthrop, makes him more significant to the history of ideas in the Pilgrim colony than he would be if his intellectual concerns had remained unknown.[2] Jonathan Brewster was, furthermore, the author of a family register called "The Brewster Book," (which I have not seen), recording such family events, - marriages and so forth, - as ordinarily are to be found in such books.[3] Jonathan Brewster died in 1659. In this article I shall discuss the Leiden documents in which Jonathan Brewster appears, particularly with a view to clarifying some confusion that has existed about an inaccurately assumed first marriage in Leiden, and a child supposed to have been his from that marriage.[4] In addition, the two last wills of Thomas Brewer, to one of which Jonathan Brewster was a witness, will occupy our attention.

At Home with his Parents

Jonathan was a witness giving testimony in an affidavit given by his parents and by him, and by "Willem Britsman" (William Bridgeman) for Bernard Ross (or Rose), on June 25, 1609.[5]

At the request of "Bernaert Rosse," Englishman living in Amsterdam, William Brewster, aged around 42, his wife Mary ("Marytgen Bruster"), aged around 40, and Jonathan Brewster, their son, aged about sixteen, having been summoned by a court messenger, appeared before two Leiden magistrates and made a sworn statement. Ross, they said, had brought a package containing various English cloths to their house in the "stinck-steech."[6] The package contained five pieces of cloth, according to both William and Jonathan, who saw them. (Mary had not been present when the package was opened, so she could not swear to the number of pieces of cloth.) Further, Jonathan alone declared that Willem Aerntsz., the son of the collector of the duties on wool cloth, came to his aforementioned house when Ross was there, and that Ross had opened the package in Willem Aerntsz.'s presence and had shown him all five pieces. Willem Aerntsz. had put a lead seal on one of the pieces. Furthermore, William Brewster alone declared that he had not been present at the declaration or showing of the pieces to the tax farmer, but that he had learned from Ross, and from his son Jonathan, that the tax farmer's son had been to his house. Afterwards he had seen that Ross had torn one of the five pieces, because it had become damp at one end from sea water. In addition, William Bridgeman, aged about 26, appeared before the magistrates and made a sworn statement at the request of Ross.[7] He declared that, at the last Leiden fair, he had bought from Ross, at the Hogewoerts Bridge (which was at the south end of the Breestraat, part of the market area), 1½ ells and half a quarter-piece of black-grey English wool cloth. Bernard had shorn this from an English piece whose weft was mixed green on one end and black-grey on the other. Because Bridgeman was on his way to work and did not have any money with him to pay for the cloth, he left the cloth he had bought with Ross, and the next day, when he was intending to pay for it and pick it up, Ross told him that the tax farmer had confiscated all his cloths.

Becoming a Leiden Burgher

Jonathan disappears from the records for a while, which is in no way surprising, as most young men his age, who were living at home, were not in any circumstances that required listing. An exception would be population lists made for tax purposes, but between 1606 and 1622, no such lists were compiled in Leiden. Jonathan was about 24 years old when he next comes to our attention, for, on June 30, 1617, he became a burgher of Leiden.[8] His guarantors were Isaack de Syde and Jan Sebastiaensz. van Hout (not the city secretary Jan van Hout, who died in 1609, not long after he had seen to it that the Pilgrims could come to Leiden unimpeded by the English attempts at extradition).[9] The register of new burghers lists Jonathan as "Jonathan Willemsz. Bruster uut het Noortquartier in Engelant Lintwercker." "Lintwercker" means ribbon maker. The "North Quarter in England" is a reasonable description, although rather vague, for the area where Scrooby, the Brewsters' home town, is located. Becoming a burgher gave Jonathan certain privileges such as eligibility for guild membership and preferred treatment in Leiden courts in cases concerning business deals; and it brought with it some obligations, chief of which was service, when called on, in the nightwatch and the militia, with required practice in shooting on a regular basis. This practice took place on the shooting ranges of the militia, the "Doelen Terrein" where recently the University of Leiden has constructed a number of buildings, including that of the Faculty of Letters.

The full form of Jonathan's name, used in the register of new burghers, permits a few words to be said about Dutch name forms in records of this period.[10] The given name is first, - Jonathan. The father's name can come second (or alternately, last), with the suffix "z." or "zn.", meaning "son" (zoon), - Willemsz. (In this document, like most Dutch documents, the English name William, is given in its Dutch equivalent, Willem.) The father's name, with the suffix for "son," is the patronymic. Finally, if the family was already using a surname (which many Dutch families, at this time, were not), it might be listed, although it could just as easily be omitted. In this case, the surname is given, albeit in a Dutch phonetic spelling, - Bruster. It was quite common to omit the surname; given name and patronymic were sufficient, especially when the clerk knew the person whose name he registered, or when the clerk considered it unlikely that the person named on the document would have to be found again, using only the information on the document. (In other words, if the clerk saw no reason to specify which "Jan Jansz." was meant, the clerk could omit identifying terms, like surname, address, age, or occupation.)

In the Pilgrim period, no patronymic was used as a surname in The Netherlands, although the beginnings of the practice can be discerned in the occasional use of a father's given name, with his patronymic following the given name of the person in question, e.g., the son of Jan Jansz., named Pieter, might be listed as Pieter Jan Jansz.sz., (doubling the abbreviation for "son" indicates the grandfather's name is shown). Putting it another way, no such surname, as e.g. Johnson or Williamson, existed in Leiden records; each instance of such a name is a personal patronymic, indicating that the person's father's given name was, e.g., John or William. Accordingly, the suffix on a patronymic for a woman was not "z." or "zn.", but "dr." for "daughter" (dochter); and we see forms like Jansdr. and Willemsdr. for "John's daughter" and "William's daughter."[11]

It is true that nowadays there are many patronymic forms that are used as surnames in The Netherlands, which means that some men and women have the names "Janssen" or "Willemsen" or "Jans" or "Willems." This shift occurred in the early nineteenth century, when The Netherlands, under Napoleonic rule, undertook various changes, including the introduction of constant population registration. The descendants of people who, at that time, gave their names in patronymic form, now have surnames in the form of patronymics (but of course, these names now indicate a distant ancestor, not the immediate father), because, from then on, Dutch civil officials have identified people legally according to what the officials could read in their own written records, which assigned permanent surnames and declared them valid and binding, from that moment on.

Witness at Betrothals

How the name system worked in practice can be seen in the betrothal record for the printer, John Reynolds, dated July 28, 1617. The text states:[12]

Jan Reynouts, printer, bachelor, from London in England, accompanied by
Jonatham Willemsz. his acquaintance with Prudens Grindon, spinster, also from London in England, accompanied by
Marye Bryster and Mary Allerton, her acquaintances.

[A marginal note says:] "Dwells in the house of Willem Pauwelsz. in the Pieterskerkkoorsteeg."

The names in current English orthography would be: John Reynolds, Jonathan Williamson (Brewster), Prudence Grindon, Mary Brewster, and Mary Allerton. The Willem Pauwelsz., in whose house Reynolds lived, has been shown by D. Plooij to have been Willem Pouwelsz. van Thorenvliet.[13] His was a family so well-known that the surname did not have to be listed, besides which he was further identified as the one of that name (Willem Pouwelsz.) who owned a house in the Pieterskerkkoorsteeg. The father of this Willem was Pouwels Pouwels Willemsz.sz. van Thorenvliet. His grandfather had been Deputy Sheriff of Leiden during the 1560s and had secretly helped imprisoned Protestants to escape.[14] The van Thorenvliets were thus no strangers to helping people oppressed for reasons of religious conviction. The other instance, in this betrothal document, of the use of given name and patronymic, without the surname, is, of course, the witness, Jonatham Willemsz., whom we know to be Jonathan, son of William Brewster.

How do we know that this "Jonatham Willemsz." was, in fact, Jonathan Brewster? The answer is that, from the system of names, we already know that "Jonatham Willemsz." is a sufficient identification for Jonathan Brewster at this time in Leiden; and we know that Dutch officials, a month earlier, had identified Jonathan by listing his given name, patronymic, and surname, which shows that Jonathan himself, when asked, understood to give his patronymic as part of his name. This shows that "Jonatham Willemsz." could be Jonathan Brewster. Adding to that the extreme rarity of the given name, "Jonathan," in Leiden at this time (I return to this point below), and the fact that John Reynolds's address was the house in the Pieterskerkkoorsteeg owned by Willem Pouwelsz. van Thorenvliet, which was, in fact, the residence of William Brewster and his family, we have enough evidence to conclude that the "Jonatham Willemsz." who was a witness to the betrothal of John Reynolds, was Jonathan Brewster.

Two more points may be raised. Jonathan Brewster, as we shall see, knew Dutch well enough to act as an interpreter for Reynolds, which would have been a necessary convenience at the betrothal. Moreover, given the fact that one of the future bride's witnesses was Mary Brewster, Jonathan's mother, we could expect the registrar to give some further identification of this Jonathan, if he had not been Jonathan Brewster, if merely to ensure that confusion could be avoided later, if the witnesses ever had to be called to confirm that the betrothal had taken place. That the registrar gave no indications that this might not be Jonathan Brewster, allows us, on this point, also, to conclude that "Jonatham Willemsz." certainly was Jonathan Williamson Brewster.

"Jonatham Willemsz." [Brewster] was again the witness to a betrothal of a printer, on April 27, 1618, when Edward Winslow became engaged to Elizabeth Barker.[15] In this record, the names are given as Eduwaert Winsloo, Jonatham Willemsz., Ysaack Alanton, Elizabeth Berkar, Janneken Hezel [or Phesel], and Maria Allerton, which we now render as Edward Winslow, Jonathan Williamson [Brewster], Isaac Allerton, Elisabeth Barker, Janie Hazel [or Fitzer?] and Mary Allerton.

1. Two names are currently hypothesized as potentially the maiden name of Mary Brewster. These names are Wentworth, suggested by W. H. Burgess in his John Robinson, Pastor of the Pilgrim Fathers (London & New York, 1920), 81, and Wyrall, announced by J. G. Hunt, in his privately published pamphlet, Of Mary Brewster, The Identity of Mary, Wife of Elder William Brewster of the Mayflower Voyage of 1620 from Plymouth, England, to New Plymouth, New England (1984). Hunt's argument is based on two important unproved suppositions: (1) that the names of "Love" and "Wrestling" for Brewster's children refer to the place-name, "Loversall"; and (2) that the name, "Butho," must be the same as "Brewster." AD 1: The author does not consider the patterns of Puritan name-giving, where "Love" is of the same sort as "Faith," "Hope," and "Charity" (which is "Love"); and where "Wrestling" is not a pun, but rather a reference to Genesis 32:24-28. AD 2: It is Hunt's supposition only that "Butho" equals "Brewster," and it is not documented that there was anyone in this case lisping, or inaccurately transcribing, this part of the will of the relative of "Butho." The succinct statement of Burgess (loc. cit.) deserves repeating: "The maiden name of Mary Brewster has not been handed down." Burgess goes on to say, "I suggest Mary Wentworth of Scrooby." That both William Brewster and Mary Brewster appear in Leiden betrothal records, as I report in my article, "Mayflower Passengers Documented in Leiden: A List," [Mayflower Quarterly (1985) 51:57-60], does not mean that they appear in Leiden in any record of their own betrothal. They appear, instead, as witnesses to the betrothals of other people. People already married do not appear as becoming betrothed after their arrival in Leiden. This issue has, nevertheless, confused several readers of that article, who evidently would like to have proof that Mary Brewster was born "Mary Wentworth." There is no evidence known at this moment, in Leiden, that answers the question of what the maiden name of Mary Brewster was.

2. I am grateful to Ms. Carolyn Freeman Travers of Plimoth Plantation for calling my attention to this issue, and for sending me copies of the relevant letters by Jonathan Brewster to John Winthrop: "Letters, &c., of Jonathan Brewster," Massachusetts Historical Collections, 4th Series, VII:66-87.

3. I have been informed of this book by Mrs. Henry G. R. White and Mrs. Clayton M. Merrick, Jr. [See Mayflower Descendant 1:1-8, 71-77]. A typical example in the Leiden Municipal Archives, of such a family book, is the one of the cartographer-surveyor, Jan Pietersz. Dou, which covers events in the time of the Pilgrims. Dou, however, was a supporter of the Remonstrants (Arminians) and was not in contact with such English opponents of Arminianism as the Pilgrims. His notes contain valuable observations from the opposite camp on the theological issues of the time, and their devisive effects within the Reformed churches. [See Bibliotheek Leiden en Omstreken, 7000 - 1 - Jan Pietersz. Dou.]

4. The inaccurate supposition of this marriage, and a child from it, first appears in M. Dexter, "Jonathan Brewster's First Wife and Child," The Mayflower Descendant (1904) 6:57-58.

5. Rechterlijk Archief 79, K, fol. 26-27.

6. A "stinksteeg" was an unnamed alley used for access to a few houses, and for carrying out the slops from them. On the location of this one, see D. Plooij's contribution to R. Harris and S. K. Jones, The Pilgrim Press, A Bibliographical & Historical Memorial of the Books Printed at Leyden by the Pilgrim

Fathers (Cambridge, 1922). A revision of this book is presently in preparation, by Drs. R. Breugelmans of the Leiden University Library; this revision will contain a paragraph by me bringing Plooij's archival references up to date. The alley where the Brewsters lived is now named "William Brewstersteeg."

7. William Bridgeman is the only Pilgrim whose Leiden possessions are listed in a preserved inventory: Rechterlijk Archief 84, G, fol. 64, May 29, 1619.

8. Secretarie Archief II, 1069, Poorterboek F (1603-1618), fol. 106.

9. The given name is omitted from (Jan) Sebastiansz. van Hout, in the reference to this document, in H. M. Dexter and M. Dexter, The England and Holland of the Pilgrims (Boston and New York, 1905), 606.

10. Competent explanations have been given before, but the problem continually arises as new people become interested in the issues involved, so that a new explanation, albeit repetitious, of long published material, is perennially necessary. For an adequate explanation, see the Preface of the book, Leyden Documents relating to the Pilgrim Fathers, D. Plooij and J. Rendel Harris, eds., (Leiden, 1920).

11. A thorough explanation of this, with genealogical charts of scores of mutually related people in Leiden in the fifteenth through seventeenth centuries, is found in the genealogical appendix of my book, Cornelis Engebrechtsz.'s Leiden, Studies in Cultural History (Assen, 1979).

12. The document is photographically reproduced, transcribed, and translated in the book, Leyden Documents (see note 10 above), on page XXXII. There is a slight transcription error, however, in that "Jonatham" is given as "Jonathan" although the original has an "m"; and "Bryster" is given as "Bruyster" although the original has no "u".

13. See his contribution to Harris and Jones, The Pilgrim Press [see note 6 above]. One of the genealogical charts in my Cornelius Engebrechtsz.'s Leiden is of the family van Thorenvliet.

14. On Pouwels Willemsz. van Thorenvliet, see my Documentary Studies in Leiden Art and Crafts, 1475-1575 (Leiden, 1976), 161, 166-168.

STEPHEN HOPKINS, TRIPLE-FOUNDER

by Jack Curry Redman, M.D.

No other man was a founding father of Bermuda, Jamestowne and Plymouth. Stephen Hopkins, my tenth-great-grandfather, was. If it were not for William Strachey's narrative, "Purchas his Pilgrimes," written in 1610,[1] no one would ever have known about this incredible triple-founder. That narrative, along with information from Margaret Hodges's magnificent historical novel, Hopkins of the Mayflower, Portrait of a Dissenter,[2] Terry Tucker's great book, Bermuda - Unintended Destination,[3] and G. B. Masefield's interesting booklet, Worthies of Wotten-under-Edge,[4] made the writing of this paper, and two historical events of recent years, possible.

It all began when Stephen Hopkins was born at Wortley, Wotton-under-Edge, Gloucestershire, England, on October 29, 1581. As a young man, Stephen, a weaver, married his first wife, Constance Dudley. They had three children, Constance, William and Giles. In 1608, the family moved to London where they possibly lived with his brother, Robert, at his home on Coleman Street. Constance was pregnant again when Stephen decided to go to Jamestowne, Virginia, in order to start a new life for himself and, later, for his family.

The London Company was greatly concerned about the welfare of Captain John Smith and the Jamestowne colonists. For this reason a relief fleet was assembled to sail for Jamestowne, to be of assistance to their fellow English men, women and children. The flagship of the fleet of seven ships and two pinnaces (smaller ships) was Sea Venture, a 300 ton vessel under the command of Admiral Sir George Somers. Aboard her were 150 men, women and children, the names of fewer than fifty of whom are known at this time.

The fleet left England June 2, 1609, bound for the New World. Hopkins was a clerk for the chaplain, the Reverend Master Richard Bucke, and too poor to afford the £12-2-0 it cost for a share of Stock in the London Company. He was, therefore, not listed among those "of the better sort" or those "of the common sort," but was simply an anonymous member of "others."

On July 25, 1609, the fleet encountered a terrible hurricane. The two pinnaces sank with all on board, and Sea Venture was blown off course, far to the south of the other six ships that eventually reached Jamestowne. After four awful days and three nights in the hurricane, on the morning of July 28, 1609, Sir George Somers sighted land in the misty distance. It was the dreaded Bermudas, graveyard for many a ship which had broken apart on its shores in years past. Sir George spotted a split in the coral reef that lay ahead, three-quarters of a mile off the northeastern tip of the islands, He decided to try to steer Sea Venture through the split, reasoning that, if this failed, she would at least lodge in a vertical position rather than break apart on the reef.

Just as the leadsman yelled, "Five fathoms," there was the grinding crunch of wood on stone. Sea Venture lodged upright in the split in the reef. Not one of the 150 people aboard died. Boatload by boatload the passengers went ashore to the beach, the same beach that lies below the bluff on which the present Loew's Bermuda Beach Hotel stands. Bermuda was born.

All salvageable material was brought ashore from the ship in the following days. On the islands wild fruits and vegetables grew in abundance. Fish abounded. Wild hogs, descendants of hogs put ashore by Spanish sailors many years before, were everywhere, and were the source of meat for the passengers. It was truly a paradise.

John Rolfe's wife gave birth to a baby girl who was named Bermuda. She died not long afterward, however, and was buried on the island. Mistress Edward Eason gave birth to a baby boy who was christened "Bermudas." In the following nine and a half months, two smaller ships were built in order that the passengers might continue their voyage to Jamestowne. Deliverance was built mainly from the wreckage of Sea Venture. Patience was built under the supervision of Sir George Somers, mainly from the Bermuda cedars.

On January 24, 1610, Stephen Hopkins ate breakfast with Samuel Sharp and Humfrey Reed. As they ate, Stephen expressed his feelings that their obedience to their Governor "in Virginia" ceased when the shipwreck occurred, and that they should be free men and women in Bermuda. As logical as that reasoning may have been, it was not well-received by Governor Sir Thomas Gates when Sharp and Reed told him what Hopkins had said.

The Governor immediately had Hopkins arrested and put in irons. He ordered a court martial, charging mutiny and rebellion, the punishment for which was death. At the public trial, according to Strachey, "But so penitent he was, and made so much moane, alleging the ruin of his wife and children in this his trespass, as it wrought in the hearts of all the better sort of the company, who therefore with humble entreaties and earnest supplication went unto our Governor, whom they besought (as likewise did Captain Newport and myself) and never left him until we had got his pardon." Stephen Hopkins became a part of recorded history.

On May 10, 1610, all of the Sea Venture passengers departed for Jamestowne aboard Deliverance and Patience, except for two men who died in Bermuda, one who was murdered, one who was shot for mutiny, seven who were lost at sea trying to reach Jamestowne in a longboat, and two who deserted and remained behind. They arrived in Jamestowne May 24, 1610.

It is not known when Hopkins returned to England, but it may have been just a few months later, aboard the Patience, which returned the body of Sir George Somers after he worked himself to death on a return trip to Bermuda to obtain food for the Jamestowne settlers. Sir George's heart was buried on the island of the shipwreck. Mistress Rolfe died in Jamestowne later. In 1614 John Rolfe married Pocahontas.

Imagine the immense feeling of tragedy which Stephen Hopkins must have felt when he returned to London and learned that his wife and their new baby, born in December 1609, and their eldest son, William, had all died while he was gone. Only his daughter, Constance and son, Giles remained. In the years that followed, Stephen Hopkins, weaver, of Wotton-under-Edge, became Mr. Stephen Hopkins, merchant, of London.

In the spring of 1618, Stephen Hopkins married his second wife, Elizabeth Fisher. They had one daughter, Damaris, born a year later. Elizabeth was pregnant again when she, her husband, Stephen, and children Constance, Giles and Damaris, set sail for the new world aboard the Mayflower. It was during this voyage that they first met my tenth- and ninth-great-grandfathers, Thomas and Joseph Rogers. Elizabeth Hopkins, as we know, gave birth to Oceanus aboard the Mayflower, before the landing at Plymouth occurred.

In 1979, Dr. John Bennett, Albuquerque obstetrician and ninth-great-grandson of John Rolfe and Pocohontas, and I obtained permission from the Bermuda government to dive on the wreck of Sea Venture. In scuba-diving gear we stepped off the stern of the glass-bottomed dive boat and descended first to the top of the coral reef, twelve feet below the surface of the water. Then we dove another eighteen feet to the sandy bottom, five fathoms below the water surface. There, covered by sand and stretching seaward from the split in the reef, was the keel and short segment of the ribs, of Sea Venture, like a gigantic fish skeleton. John and I stood in her forecastle area, then touched her keel, soggy brown wood which felt almost alive. Watching us through the glass bottom of the dive boat above was Edmund Downing, ninth-great-grandson of Sir George Yeardley, and the man who discovered the wreck in 1958. What a magnificent moment! A Hopkins, a Rolfe and a Yeardley, back together again at the wreck of that great ship 370 years later! We made the dive in order to honor our specific great-grandparents, as well as Sir George Somers, father of his country, and all of the other Sea Venture passengers.

In 1982, Richard Gilpin Hopkins, ninth-great-grandson of Stephen Hopkins, and his wife, Astrid, placed a bronze plaque on the Mayflower monument on the quay in Southampton, England, honoring Stephen Hopkins. This act received widespread news coverage in England because of the sense of mutual heritage and kinship we all feel.

On Somers Day, July 28, 1984, an historic re-enactment took place in Bermuda. On that day, descendants of four of the known men aboard Sea Venture - Bagwell, Carter, Hopkins and Yeardley, dressed in period costume, went out in boats to the Sea Venture wreck site and came ashore on the same beach where their ancestors had landed 375 years earlier, almost to the hour. The next day, Sunday, I had the honor of reading the Epistle (Romans 8:20-26) at the morning service at St. Peter's Church, St. George's, Bermuda. I had a feeling that my tenth-great-grandfather, Stephen Hopkins, triple-founder, was smiling.

A VISIT TO THE BIRTHPLACE OF STEPHEN HOPKINS

by Virginia W. Shaw

I wonder how many of the descendants of Stephen Hopkins who travel to England are aware of the memorable adventures and experiences available to them at Wotton-under-Edge in Gloucestershire, the quaint and historically documented little town in the beautiful Cotswolds where Stephen was born and grew up. First chartered in A.D. 940, this ancient town became, from the thirteenth century into the mid-nineteenth century, a center for the wool trade, weaving and cloth-making. The little town today takes great pride in having been the birthplace and home of Stephen Hopkins who made the trip to America on the Mayflower

The Ram Inn, built in the thirteenth century, is the oldest building in town and projects its ancient heritage into today. The owner for the past two decades, Mr. I. P. John Humphries, has been lovingly restoring the old stone place, structurally and internally. Last June, when my husband and I reached there by car, we were greeted by our most gracious host who subsequently showed us the sights of the town and environs. This included the handsome large old stone home of Stephen Hopkins's father, and the beautiful Castle Coombe village, the movie set for Dr. Doolittle with Rex Harrison. In the evening, John Humphries took us along as guests to the Manor House where, to the accompaniment of refreshments of wine and cheese, there was a demonstration of the ancient and once-again esteemed method of lye-treating stone in old structure restoration.

Mr. Humphries gave us several pages of Gloucestershire archival material showing all the deeds and grants of the Ram Inn including that to the forefathers of Stephen Hopkins, under the aegis of Henry VIII in 1539.

Not to be forgotten is the detailed tour and description of each of the rooms in this seven-hundred-year-old priest's house and public inn, even to the attic, where were housed, discreetly, eighteenth century highwaymen. The hospitable Mr. Humphries is delighted with the visit of each Hopkins descendant, and keeps a large portfolio of memorabilia of previous visitors of the Hopkins lineage.

Virginia W. Shaw (Mrs. Henry M. Shaw), a descendant of Stephen Hopkins, is a member of the New Jersey Society. Her address is 22 Beechwood Drive, Morristown, NJ 07960.

JOHN TILLEY AND WILLIAM MULLINS ACCORDED FULL STATUS AS MAYFLOWER ANCESTORS

by Dixon A. Barr

For many years the General Society of Mayflower Descendants has claimed that we have twenty-three ancestors from whom descent can be proved, when in fact the number has actually been twenty-five. This has been misleading and has not given John Tilley and William Mullins the same status accorded to other qualifying passengers. Many of our publications state that descendants of John Howland can automatically claim descent from John Tilley, father of John Howland's wife, Elizabeth Tilley, and that John Alden's descendants qualify similarly as descendants of William Mullins, father of John Alden's wife, Priscilla Mullins. Yet we have not accepted lineage papers on either John Tilley or William Mullins as progenitors, nor do we list them as ancestors in state membership rosters, or read their names at Compact Day dinners.

Obviously there never has been a question concerning whether the Society recognized the two individuals as Mayflower passengers or Mayflower Compact signers. Therefore, in a procedural change endorsed by the Executive Committee and approved by the General Board of Assistants at the meeting in St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 6, 1985, this oversight has been corrected and the names of John Tilley and William Mullins have been added to the list from whom both original and supplemental memberships may be claimed. The complete list of Mayflower passengers from whom descent has been proved now reads:

A twenty-sixth name may soon be added to this list. That is the name of Moses Fletcher who was born in Sandwich, England, and was a member of the Pilgrim band who lived in Leiden. Moses sailed on board the Mayflower in 1620, leaving his wife and children behind in Holland. He was one of the forty-one signers of the Mayflower Compact and died in Plymouth during the first terrible winter. Robert S. Wakefield researched the first five generations of the descendants of Moses Fletcher and the results were published in the Mayflower Quarterly in 1975. Now Dr. Jeremy D. Bangs, curator of the Leiden Pilgrim Documents Center, the Leiden Municipal Archives, in the Netherlands, has succeeded in documenting the lineage of some of Moses Fletcher's present-day descendants through his daughter, Priscilla, who married Thomas Koet. This is a very exciting development indeed. It demonstrates that many interesting genealogical discoveries remain for present-day researchers to discover and fit together and document, contributing to a better understanding of our Pilgrim ancestors.

Dr. Dixon A. Barr, member-at-large of the Executive Committee of the General Society, Assistant General and Governor of the Kentucky Society, and chairman of the Genealogical Review Panel of the Five Generations Project, is a descendant of Capt. Myles Standish. His address is 104 Bob-O-Link Drive, Richmond, KY 40475.

HENRY HORNBLOWER 2nd (1918-1985)

Henry Hornblower 2nd, of Cambridge, Mass., the well-known founder of Plimoth Plantation in Plymouth, Mass., died Sunday, October 20, 1985 at the age of 67 years. A well-known Boston stockbroker, his deep interest in the history of colonial New England led him to found the famous outdoor living history museum of 17th century Plymouth which is known throughout the world. Its exhibits include a full scale replica of the original Mayflower, docked at State Pier in Plymouth Harbor, and an authentic 1627 Pilgrim Village, built on the rolling hills south of Plymouth where Mr. Hornblower spent the summers of his childhood. Among his many honors was the Mayflower Society's "Non-Member Award" for outstanding service in recreating and preserving knowledge about the daily life of our Pilgrim Fathers. His service in contributing to a better understanding of colonial history will always be remembered. Governor General William N. Davis and his wife, Dorothy, attended the Memorial Service held Wednesday, October 25, 1985, in Harvard Memorial Chapel.

THE MEANING OF "JUNR" IN COLONIAL USAGE

Many words and phrases used by our colonial ancestors had a slightly different meaning in that era than the same words, used in a similar context, have today. One of these differences concerns the use of Junr or Jr after a name, usually without a period, often with a man's name, but sometimes also used for a woman.

As a case in point, a reader has written to suggest that the listing of the name of Samuel Fuller, Jr., below that of Samuel Fuller, in the excellent article by Dr. Jeremy D. Bangs, "Mayflower Passengers in Leiden: A List," was in error. [The Mayflower Quarterly (May 1985) 51:57-60.] The reader is correct in saying that Samuel Fuller, Jr., who came to Plymouth in the Mayflower as a five-year-old child, was the son of Edward Fuller. However, she is mistaken when she added, "I am quite certain that the addition of Jr. to (Samuel's) name is in error ...."

The problem here is that the reader does not understand colonial phraseology. In answer, Dr. Bangs rightly states, "The list as published is arranged alphabetically. In that list anyone sharing the same name as another person on the list, and younger than the other, is identified as 'younger,' which is abbreviated, 'Jr.' As many readers are aware, 'Jr.' stands for 'Junior,' and that, itself, is Latin for 'younger.' Only in very recent American colloquialism has this indication ever strictly implied that the younger person was a child of, and not, for example, a sibling or nephew of, the person whose name is shared."

In an article in this issue, "Five Men Named Samuel Sturgis," the same problem is encountered. In this case, Samuel Sturgis, the son of John Sturgis, was called "Junr." in Barnstable town records, in an attempt to distinguish him from his uncle, also named Samuel Sturgis. An even younger, more distantly related Samuel Sturgis was called "Samuel Sturgis, 3rd.," when he married Lydia Crocker, just to make certain that people knew which Samuel Sturgis was involved in this marriage.

A lack of knowledge of this important difference in the colonial meaning of this commonly used abbreviation, as compared with modern usage, has lead to many errors in tracing Mayflower lineages.

FIVE MEN NAMED SAMUEL STURGIS

by Roberta G. Bratti, Ralph V. Wood, Jr., and Elizabeth P. White

There were at least five men in Barnstable County, Mass., during the early 1700s, all named Samuel Sturgis, only some of whom had Mayflower ancestry. Three of these men of the same name died in Barnstable County in 1762, creating confusion among genealogical and historical researchers. In order to identify what happened to those who were descended from the Mayflower passenger, John Howland, these five men of the same name had to be identified, and each of their records had to be untangled from each of the others.

1. SAMUEL STURGIS[4] (Temperance Gorham[3], Desire[2] Howland, John[1]), was born at Yarmouth about 1665,[1] and died there 12 Jan. 1736/7,[2] the son of Edward and Temperance (Gorham) Sturgis. At the age of 35, Samuel married at Yarmouth, 17 Oct. 1700, MARCY HOWES, aged 19,[3] who was born at Yarmouth in 1681,[4] the daughter of Jeremiah and Sarah (Prence) Howes. Marcy died at Yarmouth 28 Aug. 1723, in her 42nd year and was buried in the Ancient Cemetery.[5]

Marcy Sturgis was mentioned in the will of her father, Jeremiah Howes, along with her brothers, Prince and Ebenezer Howes. Her father called Marcy's husband, Samuel Sturgis, "my son," and Samuel served as one of the executors of his father-in-law's estate.[4]

Samuel Sturgis, Esq., was a merchant and Town Clerk for twenty-nine years in Yarmouth, and representative from 1705 to 1732.[6] In his will, dated 29 June 1736, probated 17 Feb. 1736/7, he gave his gold seal ring to son John, land to Prince, Samuel and Thomas, and his dwelling house to Samuel and Thomas. Daughter Hannah Quinsey was given £1000, in addition to what she had already received. He gave a gold buckle and a silver tankard to son Thomas and a silver tankard of the same weight to son Prince. He also gave £80 to the Rev. Mr. Thomas Smith, and £200 to the poor of Yarmouth. All of the remainder of his estate was divided among his four sons, John, Samuel, Thomas and Prince. Witnesses were Benjamin Thacher, Elisha Whelden and John Thacher.[7]

2. JOHN STURGIS[5] (Samuel Sturgis[4], Temperance Gorham[3], Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born at Yarmouth, 6 Nov. 1704, the son of Samuel and Mercy (Howes) Sturgis.[1] He died at Barnstable, 10 Aug. 1759, at 56 years of age.[2]

John Sturgis, called "merchant," married at Barnstable, 5 Sept. 1728 (int. 29 June 1728) ABIGAIL ALLEN,[3] who was born 20 May 1711, the daughter of Ebenezer and Rebecca (Russell) Allen.[4] Abigail died at Barnstable 10 Dec. 1752, in her 42nd year.[5]

John Sturgis, Esq., married, secondly, at Barnstable, 9 May 1754, his cousin, MEHITABLE (DAVIS[6]) (HERSEY) RUSSELL,[6] who was born at Barnstable, 10 Aug. 1717,[7] the daughter of Capt. John Davis and his wife, Mehitable Dimmock[5] (Desire Sturgis[4], Temperance Gorham[3], Desire[2] Howland, John[1]). This was Mehitable's third marriage. She was the widow of Dr. James Hersey and of John Russell. After John Sturgis died, Mehitable married her fourth husband, Daniel Davis. Mehitable (Davis) (Hersey) (Russell) (Sturgis) Davis died in 1803.[8]

John Sturgis graduated from Harvard College in 1723 and became an attorney.[9] In his will, dated 27 June 1758, probated 21 Sept. 1759, he mentioned his wife, Mehitable, her two sons, Ezekiel Hersey and John Russell, both minors, their three youngest children, Hannah, Sarah and John Sturgis, his married daughter, Rebecca Otis and eldest son Samuel Sturgis. Wife Mehitable was named executrix. The inventory of the testate portion of his estate, taken 30 July 1760, amounted to £274-0-1. After the widow's one-third part was set off to her, the intestate part of the woodlands and meadows was divided between his son, Samuel, who received four-fifths, and their daughter, Sarah, who received one-fifth, since their youngest son John had died. Witnesses were Edmond Hawes, Thankful Dimmock and Lucy Davis.[10]

On 4 Mar. 1760, son-in-law Joseph Otis, Esq., was appointed guardian of Hannah Sturgis, "a minor daughter of John Sturgis, late of Barnstable, Esq.," then 20 years of age.[11] The following 1 July 1760, Oris Bacon of Barnstable, Gent., was appointed guardian of Sarah Sturgis, "a minor daughter of John Sturgis, Esq."[12]

3. SAMUEL STURGIS[5] (Samuel Sturgis[4], Temperance Gorham[3], Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born at Yarmouth, 28 Oct. 1706,[1]

the son of Samuel and Mercy (Howes) Sturgis. He died at Boston, 8 July 1767.[2]

Samuel Sturgis was married at Boston, by the Rev. William Cooper, on 17 Sept. 1734, to LUCRETIA WENDELL,[3] who was baptized in New York City, 18 July 1714.[4] She was the daughter of Abraham and Katarina (De Key) Wendell of Boston. Lucretia died at Barnstable in March 1752.[5]

Many sources state erroneously that Samuel Sturgis[5] had two more wives.[6] It was this Samuel's nephew, Samuel Sturgis[6], the second of the name in the area, and therefore called "Junr.," the son of Samuel[5]'s brother, John Sturgis[5], who married, for his first wife, Olive Allen, at Barnstable, 28 Nov. 1754.[7] Olive was born at Barnstable, 18 Dec. 1735,[8] the daughter of James and Susannah (Lewis) Allen. Still called "Mr. Samuel Sturgis, Junr.," this nephew married secondly, at Barnstable, 24 Jan. 1757, Abigail Carpenter,[9] who was born at Woodstock, Conn., 6 Jan. 1733/4, the daughter of Eliphalet and Abigail (Parker) (Bacon) Carpenter. Abigail died at Barnstable 9 Feb. 1795, aged 63 years. Abigail (Carpenter) Sturgis was mentioned in her father's will, 16 Mar. 1760.[10] Two children born to "Samuel Sturgis, Junr., and Abigail, his second wife", named John and Lucretia,[11] have also been given erroneously to the Samuel Sturgis[5] who married Lucretia Wendell. Nephew Samuel Sturgis, "Junr.," died before 30 July 1762, the date when Joseph Otis, his brother-in-law, and Abigail Sturgis, his widow, administered his estate.[12]

The Samuel Sturgis under discussion here, who married Lucretia Wendell, was mentioned by his brother, Thomas Sturgis, 28 Mar. 1739, the date on which Thomas made his will. Many printed sources state erroneously that this Samuel Sturgis died at Barnstable in 1762. Actually, there were three other men named Samuel Sturgis who all died there in 1762. Our Samuel was not the Samuel Sturgis, goldsmith, the administration of whose estate was granted to Cornelius Crocker, 7 Sept. 1762. This man was Capt. Samuel Sturgis, "3rd", who married 3 Apr. 1760 Lydia Crocker, who was born at Barnstable, 14 Apr. 1739, the daughter of Cornelius Crocker. According to the Crocker Genealogy, (p. 37), this Capt. Samuel Sturgis died in Aug. 1762, aged 25 yrs.[13]

Another Samuel Sturgis died 26 Jan. 1762, "in his 86th yr." and was buried in Cobb's Hill Cemetery, Barnstable, next to his wife, Mary Oris. His age and the name of his wife prove he was not our Samuel Sturgis. His will, dated 19 Jan. 17[53?], was probated 2 Mar. 1762. The inventory for his estate was presented 6 Apr. 1762, with Stephen Davis and Oris Bacon as appraisers. Nathaniel Sturgis was the executor.[14]

The third Samuel Sturgis to die in 1762 was our Samuel's nephew, Samuel Sturgis[6], "Junr.," mentioned above, whose brother-in-law, Joseph Otis, and widow, Abigail Sturgis, administered his estate.[15]

The Samuel Sturgis[5] studied here graduated from Harvard College in 1725.[16] He received land at Crow's Purchase from his father, one-half to him and one-half to his brother Thomas.[17] In 1735 Samuel was appointed notary public for the port of Barnstable, the same year he was made a member of the House of Representatives from Yarmouth. His wife, Lucretia Wendell, was a member of a prominent Boston family. Their first daughter, Mercy, was baptized at the Brattle Street Church, 10 Aug. 1735. Two other children died in infancy and were buried at Yarmouth. Samuel was a wealthy merchant and shipowner. He moved to Boston in 1741, but kept a home in Barnstable where his wife died in 1752.[18]

In his will, dated 17 June 1767, and presented for probate at Suffolk County Courthouse in Boston, 16 July 1767, Samuel Sturgis of Boston, Esq., ordered that his warehouse in Butler's Row, Boston, be sold, as well as land in Gorham Town, County of Cumberland, with their after rights, and two lots in the east end of Yarmouth and partly in Harwich, in the County of Barnstable. His executors were instructed to retain £100, the interest to be used to support his brother, Prince Sturgis, "whom it has pleased God in his Providence to deprive of his reason." After Prince's death, the remainder was to be divided equally amongst the children or representatives of his three brothers, John, Thomas and Prince, and the four children of his late sister, Hannah Quincy. One-third part of his personal and real estate was bequeathed to Edmund Quincy, 3rd, Samuel Quincy, Josiah Quincy, Junr., and Hannah, wife of Dr. Bela Lincoln, children of his late sister Hannah Quincy, deceased, late wife of Josiah Quincy of Braintree, Esq.; one-third to the children or representatives of his late brother, John Sturgis, late of Barnstable, deceased; unto Mary, wife of [----] McAlpine, daughter and only child of his brother, Thomas Sturgis, deceased, one full sixth part; and unto Elizabeth, wife of Arthur Savage, Esq., of Falmouth, daughter and only child of his brother Prince Sturgis. Deacon Timothy Newell, Melatiah Bourne and Samuel Quincy, Esqr., all of Boston, were named executors. Witnesses were Richard Lurcom, William Breed and William Flagg.[19]

The inventory of seven pages, valued at £812-14-7, was taken in July 1767, and presented to the court 28 Aug. 1767. Separate final accounts were filed by Melatiah Bourne and Samuel Quincy, dated 9 Dec. 1774.[20]

4. THOMAS STURGIS[5] (Samuel Sturgis[4], Temperance Gorham[3], Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born at Yarmouth, 25 Nov. 1709,[1] the son of Samuel and Mercy (Howes) Sturgis. He died at Yarmouth, 5 Apr. 1739, in his 30th yr., and was buried in the Ancient Cemetery, Yarmouth.[2]

Thomas Sturgis married (int.) Yarmouth, 27 Feb. 1735, REBECCA NORTON,[3] who was born in 1713,[4] the daughter of Samuel and Content (Coggeshall) Norton of Chilmark. She married, secondly, Solomon Townsend of Newport,[5] and died after 1760.[6]

Thomas was a merchant in Yarmouth. In his will, dated 28 Mar. 1739, probated 25 Apr. 1739, Thomas Sturgis, shopkeeper, bequeathed to his well-beloved wife, Rebecca, the use and improvement of all of his real estate in Yarmouth, and half of his personal estate, in lieu of her third or right of dower. He gave the Rev. Thomas Smith £20. He gave the remainder of his estate, his clock and his silver tankard, to his "only" child, Marcy Sturgis. If she did not survive her mother, this bequest was to be divided, one-half to go to his wife "forever," and the other half to his brothers, John, Samuel and Prince Sturgis, and his sister, Hannah Quincy. Brother John Sturgis, friend John Hedge, and wife, Rebecca, were named executors. Witnesses were Joseph Hamblin, Bayes Hawes and Elizabeth Bassett. The inventory amounted to £2819-1-10, in addition to a legacy due from the estate of his father, Samuel Sturgis, Esq., dec., "not yet received and the sum unknown" [£640-1-1].[7]

In September, 1750, Rebecca and her second husband, Solomon Townsend, "the said Rebecca is guardian to Mercy Sturgis, a minor daughter to Thomas Sturgis, late of Yarmouth, shopkeeper, deceased," asked the Barnstable court for an allowance of £164-3-0. On 15 July 1754, "the said Mercy being very weakly," Solomon and Rebecca Townsend appeared and made oath to the said account.[8] On 12 Mar. 1760, "Mercy Sturgis, of Newport, R.I., singlewoman, daughter of Thomas Sturgis, late of Yarmouth,..." signed for the receipt from her mother of all of her inheritance.[9]

When Thomas Sturgis's brother, Samuel Sturgis, died in Boston, 8 July 1767, he made a bequest in his will to "Mary, wife of [----] McAlpine, daughter and only child of my Brother Thomas Sturgis, deceased."[10] Arnold's Vital Records of Rhode Island, for Newport County, shows the marriage of Mary Sturgess to Lemuel McAlpine, at Newport, 19 Sept. 1763. Under "Births," Arnold reports the births of three children to Samuel and Mercy McAlpine, as follows: Samuel Sturgess McAlpine, born 26 July 1764, John McAlpine, born 10 Jan. 1766 and Lydia McAlpine, born 11 Apr. 1767.[11]

5. HANNAH STURGIS[5] (Samuel Sturgis[4], Temperance Gorham[3], Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born at Yarmouth, 1 Jan. 1711,[1]

the daughter of Samuel and Mercy (Howes) Sturgis. She died, probably at Braintree, Mass., 9 Aug. 1755, aged 43 yrs.[2]

Hannah Sturgis married at Yarmouth, 11 Jan. 1732/3 JOSIAH QUINCY,[3] who was born at Braintree, 1 Apr. 1710,[4] the son of Edmund and Dorothy (Flint) Quincy. Josiah married, secondly, at Braintree, 19 Feb. 1756, Elizabeth Waldron, the daughter of the Rev. William Waldron, by whom he had a daughter, Elizabeth. Josiah was called "Col. Quincy" when he married, on 11 July 1762, his third wife, Ann Marsh, the daughter of the Rev. Joseph and Ann (Fiske) Marsh, by whom he had a daughter, Nancy.[5] Daughters Elizabeth and Nancy were not descendants of John Howland. Josiah Quincy died at Braintree, 11 Mar. 1784.[6]

Hannah was named as Hannah Quinsey in her father's will, 29 June 1736, in which she was given £1000.[7] Josiah Quincy graduated from Harvard in 1728. He was a merchant in Boston with connections in London, Amsterdam, Paris and Cadiz. He later built factories in Braintree to manufacture glass and candles. In 1753 he was chosen moderator in Braintree and was a member of the House of Representatives. In 1762 he became colonel of the Third Suffolk Regiment. Both Josiah Quincy and his son, Josiah, were ardent Patriots, although son Samuel Quincy was a Loyalist. Son Josiah Quincy died unexpectedly in April 1775, after returning from London. The senior Josiah Quincy was a friend of George Washington and Benjamin Franklin.[8]

In his will dated 23 Mar. 1781, with a codicil dated 17 Feb. 1784, and probated 30 Mar. 1784, Josiah Quincy mentioned his third wife, Ann, his son Samuel Quincy, who was "overseas for the duration" of the Revolutionary War, daughter Hannah, wife of Ebenezer Storer, Esq., daughters Elizabeth and Nancy Quincy, and daughters-in-law Hannah and Abigail Quincy. The distribution mentioned the widow's annuity, daughter Hannah, wife of Ebenezer Storer, Esq., daughter Nancy Quincy and granddaughter Hannah, wife of Aaron Hall.[9]

6. PRINCE STURGIS[5] (Samuel Sturgis[4], Temperance Gorham[3], Desire[2] Howland, John[1]) was born at Yarmouth, 11 Sept. 1715,[1] the son of Samuel and Mercy (Howes) Sturgis. Prince was living 17 June 1767 when he was mentioned as being non compos mentis in the will of his brother, Samuel Sturgis.[2]

Prince Sturgis married at Boston, 12 Oct. 1738, ELIZABETH FAYERWEATHER,[3] who was born, probably at Boston, about 1718, the daughter of John and Jerusha (Gross) Fayerweather of Boston.[4] Elizabeth died before 1760, when her father, John Fayerweather of Boston, in his will, dated 11 Sept. 1760, proved 1 Oct. 1760, mentioned his beloved granddaughter, Elizabeth Sturgis.[5]

There are no probate records for Prince Sturgis in Barnstable County although, in addition to £3000, he received more property in Yarmouth from his father than his brothers and sister. He was named in the wills of his father, Samuel Sturgis, 29 June 1738, and of his brother, Thomas Sturgis, 28 Mar. 1739.[6] His brother, Samuel Sturgis, Esq., in his will dated 17 June 1767, left £100 for the support of Prince Sturgis, non compos mentis, and mentioned that Prince had one living child, Elizabeth, wife of Arthur Savage, Jr., Esq., of Falmouth.[7] Ralph Van Wood, Jr., in searching the Fayerweather Papers at NEHGS, found the parentage of Elizabeth Fayerweather, and the name of "Bette Sturgis" mentioned in an accounting by John Fayerweather, dated 9 Dec. 1745. Elizabeth Sturgis, daughter of Prince and Elizabeth (Fayerweather) Sturgis, married at Boston, 19 Nov. 1761, Arthur Savage, Jr., of Falmouth.[8] Arthur Savage was a merchant and collector of customs at Falmouth. He became a Loyalist during the Revolution and went to England. In a letter dated Knightsbridge, London, 24 Aug. 1781, written to Thomas Fayerweather of Boston, Arthur Savage mentioned his daughter Faith, and said that his wife had died of measles on 21 Mar. 1781.[9]

Child (STURGIS), probably born at Boston:[10]

EZRA AND SARAH (DENISON) KINNE OF PRESTON, CONN.

by Marilyn R. Landry

The identity of Sarah Denison, the daughter of George Denison[4] (Mercy Gorham[3], Desire[2] Howland, John[1]), and his second wife, Joanna Hinckley, was a source of confusion until Jean Rumsey, F.A.S.G., wrote an article, "Denison and Tyler Corrections," which was published in The New England Historical and Genealogical Register (July 1973) 127:199-200. In this article, Miss Rumsey quoted the will of Moses Tyler, Joanna (Hinckley) Denison's second husband, in which Moses Tyler called Sarah Kinne his "daughter-in-law," a term which meant "step-daughter," in colonial usage. The correct identification of Sarah Denison opened up a previously unknown Mayflower line for those who descend from the marriage of Sarah Denison to Ezra Kinne.

The birth of SARAH DENISON to George Denison and his wife, Joanna, was recorded at Stonington, Conn., 7 Sept. 1733. Sarah was baptized at New London, Conn., 16 Sept. 1733, "on her mother's account."[1] She died at Preston, now Griswold, Conn., 1 Mar 1792, aged 58 yrs.[2]

Sarah Denison married at Preston, Conn., 24 Oct. 1748 EZRA KINNE of Preston.[3] Ezra was born at Preston, 20 Sept. 1727, the son of Joseph Kinne.[4] He died there, 8 Feb. 1795, aged 66 yrs.[5]

Ezra was a very successful farmer. He and his wife owned the covenant, 22 Apr. 1750, at the Second or North Preston Church, which at that time was called "the north ecclesiastical society of Preston," and is now in Griswold, Conn.

In his will dated 22 Feb. 1794, and probated 16 Feb. 1795, Capt. Ezra Kinne gave his two beloved sons, Peabody and Denison, £5 each, in addition to horses, livestock and wearing apparel. Son Ezra received land, livestock, a negro boy named Prince "until the law makes him free," and an apprentice named Asa Bowdish "until his time is out." Capt. Kinne also named his six beloved daughters, Joanna, Mary, Jemima, Sarah, Senthe and Lucretia, who were to have the indoor moveables. Son Ezra and son-in-law, Dr. Allen Campbell, were named executors. Witnesses were Samuel Yeomans, Seth Morgan and Alexander Stewart.[6]

THE FAMILY OF JABEZ AND RENEW (CARPENTER) ROUND, A JOHN BILLINGTON LINE

by H. L. Peter Rounds

Sometimes even items written in original town vital records need correction or clarification. Such is the case concerning two Billington descendants, sons of Jabez[3] Round (John[2], John[1]) and his wife, Renew Carpenter[5] (Desire Martin[4], Mercy[3] Billington, Francis[2], John[1]). The original records of Rehoboth, Massachusetts contain the birth entries for their two sons as follows: Isaac, b. 23 Jan. 1733/4 and Jabez, b. 8 Jan. 1745/6, indicating that the births took place in the neighboring town of Swansea, Mass.[1] Note that Isaac and Jabez Round are in the fourth generation from John Round, as well as the sixth generation from Mayflower passenger John Billington.

When James N. Arnold prepared his published version of the Rehoboth vital records, these boys, Isaac[4] and Jabez[4] Round, were listed as the first two of the eleven recorded births of the children of Jabez Round and his wife, Renew.[2] The dates given by Arnold were exactly as given above. Births of the third through eleventh children ranged from 1737 to 1755. As a result, many researchers have assumed that Arnold made an error in transcribing the birth of Jabez[4] Round as 1745/6, when it should have been 1735/6.

However, an examination of the original pages of Rehoboth records demonstrated that Arnold accurately transcribed these dates as they were written. In September of 1982, Rosemary Rounds Kaufman, a descendant of Jabez[3] Round, visited the Office of the Rehoboth Town Clerk for the specific purpose of examining birth, marriage and death entries for the Round(s) family in the original records. She transmitted a summary of her findings to this compiler in personal correspondence. Mrs. Kaufman discovered, among other things, that all of the Round birth entries on the page in question were in faded brown ink, except the entries for Isaac[4] and Jabez[4] Round, which were obvious insertions in a later hand, in black ink. The information for Isaac[4] and Jabez[4] was much clearer and easier to read than was that for their brothers and sisters. In both cases, in black ink, it was noted that Isaac[4] and Jabez[4] were born in Swansea. Births of the others, recorded in what is now brown ink, took place in Rehoboth.

A study of probate and land records, together with some educated imagination, enables us to establish a clarification and correction of the birth records for Isaac[4] and Jabez[4]. Their father, Jabez[3] Round, not a Mayflower descendant, was born at Swansea on 28 Sept. 1708, son of John[2] and Abigail (----) Round.[3] On 26 Apr. 1733, Jabez[3] Round was married at Rehoboth, by the Rev. John Comer, to Renew Carpenter[5], born at Rehoboth, 6 June 1714,[4] the daughter of Jotham Carpenter and Desire Martin[4] (Mercy[3] Billington, Francis[2], John[1]).[5] Jabez and Renew (Carpenter) Round lived in Swansea for awhile, although none of their children's births were recorded there. Deeds dated 24 May 1731, 29 June 1734 and 10 May 1737, all called Jabez[3] Round "of Swanzey."[6] A deed of 4 Nov. 1737, as well as all subsequent deeds, called him "of Rehoboth."[7] The birth of their third child, Isabel[4], was recorded at Rehoboth as having occurred on 23 Oct. 1737.[8]

Thus, it is apparent that Jabez and his wife, Renew, were living in Swansea at least until 10 May 1737. After 23 Oct. 1737, they were residing in Rehoboth. The move from Swansea to Rehoboth must have occurred some time between these two dates. It can be expected, then, that any of their children born prior to the birth of Isabel in 1737 would have been born in Swansea. This would explain why the above entries inserted in Rehoboth records for the births of Isaac[4] and Jabez[4] indicate them as having taken place in Swansea.

In his will, dated 31 May 1784, Jabez Round of Rehoboth referred to "my Eldest Son Isaac Round."[9] The next son mentioned, in order, was Jabez, "whome I make and ordaine one of my Executors."

We are left, then with the final discrepancy of an apparent ten year error in recording the year of birth of son Jabez as 1745/6 instead of 1735/6. If he were born while the family was living in Swansea, it had to be close to a year before the birth of his sister, Isabel, on 23 Oct. 1737. Also, since Jabez was married at Rehoboth, 6 Mar. 1760,[10] he certainly could not have been born in 1745/6. Thus, it seems quite certain, from all the evidence, that there was a ten-year error, and that son Jabez Round was really born in Swansea on 8 Jan. 1735/6, the second known child of Jabez and Renew (Carpenter) Round.

One can almost imagine that a descendant, perhaps, was later reviewing the Rehoboth birth records of the children of Jabez and Renew Round. Noting the nine children recorded as born there from 1737 on, he or she may have mentioned to the Clerk that Jabez and Renew had also had two earlier children, born at Swansea but not recorded there. He or she may then have given the birthdates of Isaac and Jabez to the Clerk who made these later insertions into the original records, but made a ten-year error in recording the date for Jabez.

In summary, there were eleven known children of Jabez Round and his wife, Renew Carpenter[5] (Desire Martin[4], Mercy[3] Billington, Francis[2], John[1]), all descendants of Mayflower passenger John Billington, first two born at Swansea, last nine born at Rehoboth where they were all recorded:[11]

iv. ABIGAIL ROUND, b. (--) Jan. 1740.

BOOK REVIEWS

Old Eliot: Book Two - 1901-1903. By John L. M. Willis. (Eliot, Maine, 1901 through 1903; repr. Somersworth 1985); 3 vols. in one; IV (1901) x, 200 pp.; V (1902) vi, 198 pp.; VI (1903) vi, 200 pp.; separate indexes for each vol.; hard cover; $55.00 plus $1.75 shipping, from New England History Press, P.O. Box 70, Somersworth, NH 03878.

This is the second of the three volumes that comprise the set of books in which are reprinted the sixty historical and genealogical magazines published in Eliot, Maine from 1897 to 1909. Among the more numerous families mentioned are Fernald, Frost, Goodwin, Hammond, Hanscom, Leighton, Libbey, Remick, Shapleigh and Staples. This series is important to readers with Maine ancestry.

Records of Meduncook Plantation and Friendship, Maine, 1762-1899. By Melville Bradford Cook. (Rockland, Maine 1985) xiv, 136 pp.; index; maps; appendix; hardcover; $25.00 plus $1.25 tax, $1.00 mailing; from Shore Village Historical Society, 104 Limerock Road, Rockland, Maine 04941.

Captain Cook transcribed and recorded a wealth of information concerning Friendship, Maine, including summaries of town meetings and records of births, marriages and deaths, some of which go back as far as 1751. It is interesting to note that the leading citizens during the Revolutionary War were Tories who allowed ships to leave port to carry illicit goods to and from British ships and ports. Among the more important families were the Bradfords, Cooks, Jamesons, Mortons, and Davises. This truly excellent book deserves to be widely read.

Bompass, Bumpas, Bump, Bumpus and Allied Families, 1621-1981. By Carle F. Bumpus. (Rev. ed.; Baltimore, 1985) x, 563 pp.; index; hard cover; $35.00 from Carle F. Bumpus, Sr., P.O. Box 2505, Grass Valley, Calif. 95945.

In this revised volume, Mr. Bumpus has gathered a great deal of additional material on the descendants of Edward Bumpus, the progenitor of a large Plymouth County family, who arrived in the Fortune in 1621. The descendants of each of Edward's twelve children are identified by the number of their ancestor's order of birth, set in a triangle. References for births, deaths and marriages are numbered throughout the volume, so the reader can see immediately where (and when) documentation has been found. This book can be extremely helpful to readers whose ancestors belong to this family.

COMMUNICATIONS

Governor General Davis reported that Lt. Comdr. Kenneth R. Whittemore, Jr., our Elder General, now on duty in Guam, called and wished us a most successful meeting.

Mr. Robert L. Stevens, our Captain General, called advising that, due to unforseen circumstances, he would be unable to attend this meeting.

REPORT OF THE GOVERNOR GENERAL

During this first year, Dorothy and I have received very warm, gracious welcomes from our Mayflower "Cousins" who extended the hospitality of their State Societies in Connecticut, Kentucky, Arizona, Indiana and Maine. We are scheduled to visit in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Wisconsin and Illinois this fall. It was also our pleasure to represent the General Society at other hereditary and patriotic meetings.

The Mayflower Society Museum, the lovely mansion to which we point with pride as a symbol of our Mayflower Heritage, is maintained by the Mayflower Society House Endowment Fund established in 1947. Although the General Fund has been tapped for some upkeep, in less than forty years, by generous gifts and bequests to this fund from individuals and State Societies, we are closing the gap between income and maintenance costs. Please take the message back to your State Society that one of our goals is to have the Mayflower Society Museum self-supporting. Gifts and bequests, no matter how small, will be greatly appreciated.

It has been five years since we published Volume Three, Mayflower Families Through Five Generations - George Soule, and it is hoped that the Brewster Family will be ready by the end of this year. Assistant Governor General Mrs. Lanham, as Director of the Five Generations Project, is making every effort to expedite the completion of all Mayflower Family research with the highest degree of accuracy. Each of the very dedicated group of Officers elected in September is carrying out his or her duties with "a passion for excellence." Enough cannot be said in praise of the Chairmen and their committees for their unswerving devotion to their particular assignments. Their accomplishments and future plans will be included in their reports.

The Officers and Chairmen have been most cooperative and diligent in keeping me informed on a continuing basis, and for this I am truly grateful.

William N. Davis, Governor General

REPORT OF THE ASSISTANT GOVERNOR GENERAL

My project, of course, is the Five Generations Project, about which you will hear later, and in the meantime, I support our Governor General in all his efforts.

Mrs. Frank W. Lanham, Assistant Governor General

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY GENERAL

Following the 1984 Congress an abstract of the transcript of the proceedings of the General Congress was prepared and published in the November 1984 issue of the Mayflower Quarterly. The revised form, "Report to the Office of the Historian General," which was distributed last year, is being used by the majority of State Secretaries. This one-time reporting for change of names, transfers, deaths, resignations, and dropped members, eliminates many duplications. There were 2,449 changes of address, 865 deletions, and 1,020 names added to the mailing list this past year. "Annual Report" forms were mailed timely to State Secretaries, a "Directory of Officers" was compiled and published in the Mayflower Quarterly, and membership figures updated for the "Disposition of Lineage Papers Report."

On invitation, I addressed the North Carolina Society and visited the Maryland Society.

It has been a special pleasure working with Deputy Governor General W. Herbert Doty and Mrs. Doty on the details for this meeting and week-end activities.

Miss Mildred Ramos, Secretary General

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE ACTIONS

The Executive Committee consists of the Governor General, Assistant Governor General, Secretary General, Treasurer General, Historian General, Counsellor General, and the three Members-at-Large.

On Sept. 13, 1984, the Committee met and voted the following:

1. That the signatures of the Treasurer General and the Secretary General appear as the authorized signatures on the bank account.
2. That the signatures of the Governor General and the Historian General appear as the authorized signatures on the Safe Deposit Box.
3. That the Treasurer General be authorized to purchase a computer, printer and supplies, committing the Society to $3,000.

4. That the gift of Stock in the amount of $10,000 by Mrs. John Orndorff be put into the Mayflower House account.

A ballot dated Oct. 31, 1984 was circulated, and it was voted to offer a suspended status to the North Dakota Society of Mayflower Descendants for one year, in an effort to assist that Society.

The Committee met Mar. 30-31, 1985, and voted the following:

1. That we sell the Mayflower Ancestral Index at a special price of $25.00 to libraries, or to those persons wishing to donate the same to a library, with the Historian General to be responsible for direct mailing in the latter instance.
2. That we continue with Hoffman and Dykes as auditor for the next year, and that we request a review, rather than a full audit.
3. That the Treasurer General's bond remain at $25,000.
4. That the Treasurer General be authorized to get quotations on Officers and Directors' liability insurance, and to expend up to $1,000 per annum in its procurement.
5. That we contribute $150 to Friends of Progress. [This is towards the replacement of costumes for Pilgrim's Progress.]
6. To approve that the handling of the publications and microfiche of the General Society be centralized at Plymouth headquarters and at Mercury Mail in Rhode Island.
7. That the Genealogical Review Panel review the applications of the Koet sisters for interpretation and verification of their claim of descent from Moses Fletcher, and report their findings to the Historian General. Final confirmation will be subject to action by the General Board of Assistants.
8. That the Governor General, Secretary General, and Treasurer General be provided a monthly allowance in the amount of $110.00, as an advance against incidental expenses of their office.

The Committee met Sept. 6, 1985 and voted the following:

1. To accept the policy and procedure Governing Finance.
2. To approve the Governor General's appointments of the following:
   Acting Elder General Mrs. Clifford H. Tornstrom
   Acting Captain General John B. Hauschild

   Chairman of Publications, Five Generations Project - Morton W. Saunders
   Chairman of the Membership Committee - Miss Winifred H. Schamp
3. That the Historian General be authorized to develop and administer personnel and benefit policies for employees under his/her jurisdiction, within the limitations of the allowed budget, retroactive to July 1, 1985.
4. That the recommendation of the Financial Needs and Development Committee be submitted to the General Board of Assistants.
5. That the Historian General be authorized to receive lineage applications or supplementals using William Mullins and John Tilley as qualifying Ancestors for membership purposes, provided that such papers meet the genealogical standards of the General Society.

Miss Mildred Ramos, Secretary General

It was moved by Deputy Governor General John A. Williamson (North Carolina) and seconded, to ratify the actions of the Executive Committee. Motion carried.

REPORT OF THE TREASURER GENERAL

Following is a summary of the financial report given by the Treasurer General for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1985. This is in accordance with the resolution passed by the Executive Committee, and approved by the General Board of Assistants in September 1980. Each Deputy Governor General and Assistant General was given copies of the Balance Sheet and Income Statement for return to their State Society. Each State Governor will receive a copy of the complete financial report. Members desiring more information may contact their Governor.

The primary income for the year was from State Society assessments of $130,000, which was a significant increase from previous years, as a result of the increased per capita assessment. The principal expenses for the year were for the Mayflower Quarterly of $40,700; the Office of the Historian General of $44,300; and the Mayflower House and Grounds operation and maintenance of $17,500. The Library Fund had a net increase of $2,000, the Publications Funds had a net increase of $8,000, and the Pilgrim Fund increased $20,000, principally from dividends and interest.

The Society's net assets of $363,000 are earmarked to specified funds of $269,000. The remaining $94,000 is in the General Fund balance, which showed an increase of $37,000 this year. Again, this increase is principally due to the increased per capita assessment.

Kendrick Holle, Treasurer General

A motion to accept the auditor's report for 1983-1984, which is on file, and to accept the auditor's report for 1984-1985, was made by Mrs. Ralph Pontius (Mississippi) and seconded. The motion carried.

REPORT OF THE HISTORIAN GENERAL

This past year our office staff has been expanded to include a permanent, part-time, genealogical researcher to assist with applications. This position has been capably filled by Mrs. Richard Peterson, a Massachusetts Society member. In the development and utilization of our computer program, we find that it promises to provide immediate information on documentation filed in support of lines of descent from our Mayflower ancestors. The library photocopy machine was replaced by a more versatile model. It will not only allow for less damage to our oversize books and bindings, but it will print on the reverse side of the paper. The old machine will be used for copying lineage papers and documentation.

Our major problem continues to be the condition in which applications to membership are submitted. The newly prepared information on "Preparation of Lineage Papers," setting forth the standards of documentation, was supplied to each State Historian to assist in their work. Those State Societies that have proceeded to supply their Historians with the suggested materials, and whose Historians have submitted applications accompanied with proper documentation, have met with success. Our goal is to bring lineage applications up to the standard where they will be approved on first review.

Mrs. Clayton M. Merrick, Jr., Historian General

REPORT OF THE SURGEON GENERAL

The Surgeon General has been consulted often enough to feel useful, but not so often as to feel overworked.

Ben B. Johnson, M.D., Surgeon General

REPORT OF THE CAPTAIN GENERAL

No report.

Robert L. Stevens, Captain General

REPORT OF THE ELDER GENERAL

No report.

Lt. Comdr. Kenneth R. Whittemore, Jr., Elder General

REPORT OF THE COUNSELLOR GENERAL

My report is, as usual, quite brief and happily, I have nothing unusual to report to you.

Hewitt A. Conway, Counsellor General

The meeting was recessed from 9:45 to 10:10 a.m.

REPORT OF THE AWARDS COMMITTEE

The committee has no recommendations to make for member or non-member awards but invites nominations from State Societies for consideration. The names of recipients of the Governor General's Awards were read as follows: Mr. Steven D. Fuller, Massachusetts Society; Mr. Bernie P. Robertson, Louisiana Society; Mrs. Verna Ross Orndorff, Illinois Society; Dorothy E. Hatch, Rhode Island Society; Mrs. Elden L. Howe, Florida Society; and Gladys M. Brown, Florida Society.

A brief summary of the present status of the General Society Awards was restated and a copy distributed to each member of the General Board. Members were invited to make suggestions of individuals to their State Society to recommend for such an award.

Dwight E. Twist, Former Governor General, Chairman

REPORT OF THE CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS COMMITTEE

No report.

Hewitt A. Conway, Counsellor General

REPORT OF THE EDUCATION COMMITTEE

During the past year the following Vice Chairmen have been appointed: Miss Mary Thompson of Vermont, Dr. Bruce B. Butler of Louisiana, and Mr. Kenneth V. Schar of Illinois. There have been 83,500 Large Compacts, 91,100 Small Compacts, 9,600 Teacher's Program Sheets, 13,000 "The First Thanksgiving," 12,500 "Five Kernels of Parched Corn," 3,900 "The Mayflower Story," and twenty-six parchment prints of the Mayflower Compact distributed to State Societies and individuals.

A sample of the educational materials was sent to each State Society Governor to aid State Committee work. Articles have been written for each issue of the Mayflower Quarterly with an emphasis on interesting projects of various State Societies.

A first edition of an Education Committee Newsletter was given to each member of the General Board. Plans are to publish it twice a year, and eventually, four times a year. Your help is needed by sending in news of special activities and of members who are doing outstanding work for the Committee and the Society.

In an effort to keep better control over orders and deliveries, a copy of the letter to the printer is being sent to the person placing the order. A self-addressed postcard is being included with orders, and I am requesting that it be returned when the order is filled.

A display of Educational Committee materials was set up in the back of the meeting room and members were urged to visit the display.

Mrs. Ronald L. Moschel, Chairman

REPORT OF THE ELECTRONIC DATA PROCESSING COMMITTEE

Ralph V. Wood, Jr., developed an adaptation of a data-base management program to meet the needs of the Historian General. He also adapted a keyboard enhancement program to make it easier for the Historian General's office to cope with cross references. He then purchased copies of both programs which he intends to present to the Society, along with all of his developed adaptations, when a satisfactory arrangement for controlling its distribution has been made. This will protect the Society against any claims of our using illegal copies. Van has been truly generous to the Society.

We are now entering data to build our files. One Mayflower Family Society which has a computer similar to ours, will record their data and then present the Historian General with recorded discs of the data in payment for the use of the program. If other Mayflower Family Societies or State Societies happen to have IBM-PC-type computers and desire to use the Society's program, in exchange for furnishing the Historian General with copies, please let us know. Experience with computer software has revealed that its use probably should be restricted to experienced genealogists, since otherwise an unacceptable number of errors is introduced. Without help from State or Mayflower Family Societies, it will take several years to build the files.

By the time the file is complete, laser-read discs and associated equipment should be adaptable to our use at reasonable cost. For example, Grolier Academic American Encyclopedia plans to issue a single 4.72 inch disc that will be read by a laser (similar to compact-discs used for music) for about $200, compared to $450-$650 for book form. It is a gamble, but it is beginning to look much better.

Victor I. Montenyohl, Jr., Chairman

REPORT OF THE FINANCE COMMITTEE

The Finance Committee consists of Executive Committee Member-at-Large John C. Miller, Executive Committee Member-at-Large Noel S. O'Reilly, and Treasurer General Kendrick Holle.

During the past year the committee has developed the policy and procedures governing finance and a proposed budget for the fiscal year 1986. A copy of the proposed budget was distributed to each member of the Board.

Kendrick Holle, Treasurer General, Chairman

Treasurer General Holle then moved the adoption of this 1986 budget plan. It was voted to approve.

REPORT OF THE FIVE GENERATIONS PROJECT

We now have made available an Addendum to Mayflower Families One and to Mayflower Families Three, and the new Index to Mayflower Families One. Three weeks ago, a draft of the Addendum to Mayflower Families Two was submitted by Mr. Robert C. Anderson, F.A.S.G., and will be printed as soon as it passes the Genealogical Review Panel. We now look forward to a new volume.

A team of genealogists, under the direction of Mrs. Clayton M. Merrick, Jr., Prime Researcher, has been diligently working to complete the William Brewster Family manuscript. It is being edited by Mrs. Henry G. R. White, F.A.S.G., and is presently undergoing critical review by members of the Genealogical Review Panel to assure that it is as correct as possible.

It is important to remember that these silver-covered volumes and addenda contain documented information that will be accepted by the Historian General on applications for membership in the Society. Further, references in most of the future volumes will be "pinpointed" so readers will know exactly which reference refers to which fact in the text. This will greatly facilitate documentation of lineages for both the State Historians and the Historian General.

Two new appointments have been made within the Project. Mr. Morton Saunders, Governor of the Rhode Island Society, accepted the position as Chairman of Project Publications, and Mr. Richard J. Damisch, Governor of the Illinois Society, accepted the appointment as Chairman of Project Advertising and Copyright. These gentlemen have shown expertise beyond expectations and we are fortunate to have the use of their talents.

It has become increasingly obvious that selecting one person to be responsible for each Mayflower Family was unwise, since, in most cases, this has placed a tremendous burden on one set of shoulders. A major problem is that the Project, and the remaining work, is a hundred times larger than most of us realized. The very fact that only one volume was envisioned when this Project began, indicates that no one had the faintest notion of the scope of the Project, or any idea of the size of this huge genealogical tiger we now have by the tail.

We have discovered that, by using the teamwork of a few volunteer genealogists in different eastern areas, more progress could be made. The teamwork method is being used now, not only for the Brewster Family, but also for Winslow, Priest, Cooke and Howland, with Standish, Hopkins and Doty soon to join. However, we need more qualified workers who are willing to do meaningful research on a continuing basis. This presents difficulties, as nearly all professional genealogists will not volunteer for more than token work, and most of the non-professionals who do volunteer, are unqualified, or not physically able to do the sort of research necessary.

We need people who will locate Probate and Land Records, who can carefully and accurately read and abstract these records, and who have access to either the originals or microfilms of these records.

We need library work done, but these must be people who have access to a good genealogical library such as the Archives in the District of Columbia, New England Historic Genealogical Society in Boston, the Latter Day Saints Library in Salt Lake City, etc., and who know how to search and are willing to spend the time searching.

Computerizing manuscripts for processing, and developing teamwork methods, has been our most important accomplishment this year. This is an update on progress:

Alden - John and Priscilla had ten children, eight of whom married; family of one child, Joseph, pretty well completed and computerized; references being "pinpointed."
Allerton - is being computerized in family group sheet form which will be submitted for format computerization.
Billington - presently undergoing revision preparatory to GRP review.
Brewster - on the Teamwork plan and presently being reviewed by GRP; hopefully the next publication.
Brown - Prime Researcher has turned in all he has on five generations; it is computerized. As more information is located it will be forwarded for computer entry. [A copy has been sent to the Historian General for her use in approving applications.] Many Probate and Land Records needed.
Cooke - all five generations are computerized; first four generations in fair shape; many Probate and Land Records needed; fifth generation only in skeletal form; on Teamwork plan.
Doty - family sheets being photocopied and sent for computerization; will be Previewed and Teamwork will begin.
Edward Fuller - all five generations are computerized; being Previewed at this time.
Hopkins - first three generations computerized and submitted; generations four and five coming soon; Teamwork will begin very shortly.
Howland - Prime Researcher computerizing work, with the help of other genealogists; this is a large family; four volumes planned.
Priest - all five generations computerized; major work needed with Probate and Land Records; we are seeking genealogists to assist in certain areas on Teamwork plan.
Samson - the work of the late Robert Sherman is presently being reviewed and may be placed on the Teamwork plan, to be published with:
Standish - which will be computerized and placed on Teamwork plan as soon as possible.
Warren - Barlow references are bring checked and pinpointed. The unavailability of the Bartlett research strongly indicates beginning this portion of the Warren Family from scratch again; however, research is continuing.
Winslow - should be ready for GRP review now; will be published as soon as space permits.

We will undoubtedly have to begin expending funds for researchers, although it has been reserved as a "last resort." Hundreds of people have already volunteered thousands of hours to the Project for more than twenty-five years. How can we justify the fact that we must now hire people to help us and pay them for doing so, and not make volunteer payment retroactive? If we do hire paid researchers, there will be strict controls, limiting help to only the Families that are very near completion.

A Project such as this one, which is largely dependent upon volunteer time and willingness of qualified people, can be a very discouraging undertaking. In the meantime, we will continue to inch our way along, doing the best that volunteers can do to help move the Families to completion. We need your support and prayers.

Mrs. Frank W. Lanham, Assistant Governor General, Chairman

Governor General Davis then presented a check to Mrs. Lanham on behalf of the Wyoming Society for the Five Generations Project.

REPORT OF THE GENEALOGICAL REVIEW PANEL

The Genealogical Review Panel assists the General Society through its Five Generations Project and the office of the Historian General in working toward the worthy goal of accuracy and acceptable documentation in all genealogical publications and applications.

Panels of experts are being assembled to review completed and "in progress" manuscripts for the families of Pilgrims William Brewster and Edward Winslow, and, in the near future, John Billington. Through meticulous review of both manuscripts and their accompanying documentation, we strive to solve our genealogical snags rather than permitting them to appear in print.

Addendum to Mayflower Families Two has been submitted by its compiler and is now ready for critical examination by reviewers prior to distribution to libraries and purchasers of this second published volume of our Mayflower Families series.

All of us are excited about the possibility of a twenty-sixth Mayflower Passenger in the person of Moses Fletcher. The Historian General has requested assistance of the GRP in verifying the applications and documentation from two citizens of the Netherlands who are applying for membership through the Florida Society. Questions regarding verification of Moses Fletcher as a newly approved passenger for membership purposes shall be resolved to accept membership on this line.

Some guidelines about the composition of the panel membership who will review the Moses Fletcher line follow. The three-member panel will (1) be comprised of genealogists who do not hold membership in our Society, and who thus have no vested interest in the outcome of this projected new lineage; (2) include at least one committee member who shall be thoroughly knowledgeable in Dutch language and documentation sources; and (3) insist that all documentation provided shall be primary in nature, supported by full legal copies, not abstracts thereof.

Dixon A. Barr, Chairman

REPORT OF THE HISTORICAL SITES COMMITTEE

The Committee continues to press for National Park status for the Plymouth Rock area. At the moment, the Federal Administration refuses to endorse any additions to Federal parks. However, should this position change, both of the Senators from Massachusetts and the Congressman from the district which includes Plymouth can be expected to endorse legislation to establish such a park.

Please have your local State Societies write to their Congressmen and Senators expressing interest. Thus, perhaps we will have a National Park at Plymouth Rock even before the next election.

W. Howard Mayo III, Chairman

Governor General Davis reported that Mrs. Robert B. Little, Assistant General of the Pennsylvania Society, and Mr. Richard Husband of the Minnesota Society, have accepted his invitation to serve on the Historical Sites Committee.

REPORT OF THE JUNIOR MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE

This year I sent each Junior Membership Chairperson a suggested list of duties and procedures, a letter for the sponsor to be sent with the certificate, which suggested that the sponsor continue to make their Junior aware and proud of his Mayflower Heritage, with suggestions on how to do this, and another suggested letter to be sent to the Junior when he reached regular membership age.

To date we have forty-six State Societies that have Junior Members, with a total of 9,377 Junior Members. Junior Membership Certificates will be supplied to State Societies by me, upon request from the State Junior Membership Chairman.

Mrs. Edith Bates Thomas, Chairman

REPORT OF THE MAYFLOWER SOCIETY MUSEUM COMMITTEE

(This report was read by the Secretary General in the absence of the Chairman.)

During the past year, repair work on the garage roof was the only exterior maintenance needed at the Mayflower Society Museum complex. The burglar alarm system has once again been up-dated. Looking to the future, the brick wall and the driveway are both in need of repair. An Oriental rug, 12' x 21' is needed for the solarium in the Museum. It does not have to be a new rug; a good second quality rug would be acceptable.

The following artifacts have been accepted for the Museum: a six inch long bone handle two prong fork believed to have belonged to Pilgrim Richard Warren; an early clear glass Sparking Lamp; an oil painting of Betsey Avery, a direct descendant of Richard Warren; an antique brass Japanese candle lamp and a new custom made lamp shade. The two were given by the Georgia Society in memory of Mrs. Maude Peteet.

The Society's third cup plate, #407 - English Royal Arms, will be pictured on a mail order form in the November Mayflower Quarterly.

The number of visitors to the Museum has increased fifteen per cent over last year, group tours continue to be scheduled, and donations are received from various individuals using the facilities.

The second "Christmas-by-the-Sea" is going to be held on December 6, 7 and 8, 1985.

Mrs. Stuart T. Hall, Chairman

REPORT OF THE MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE

New members appointed to the Membership Committee are Mrs. Henry A. Adamson, Assistant General, (Maine); Mr. Duane A. Cline, Secretary (Arkansas); Mr. Marshall M. Dean, Assistant General, (Canada); Mrs. Robert A. Dudley, Assistant General, (New Mexico); and Mr. Willard I. Staples, Jr., Governor (Florida).

In 1984, the General Society accepted 939 new members and lost 833 members. Therefore there was a net gain of 106 members.

The New Mexico Society qualified for first place with the highest net percentage increase of 8%; the Alaska Society was second with 7%; the Oregon Society was third with 4.8%; Arkansas, California and Utah Societies were tied for fourth place with 4% each. The Canadian Society had a 16% increase but no longer qualifies for an award as they have already won twice. The New Mexico Society will receive a membership certificate and the State Society name and date will be engraved on the silver bowl given by Former Governor General Greene.

The Florida Society qualified for first place with the largest net increase in new members with 28; the Canadian Society was second with 12; Illinois was third with 9; New Mexico and Wisconsin Societies were tied for fourth place with 8 each. Massachusetts and California Societies had the largest net increase of 73 and 70, respectively. However, neither is eligible as they both received the award twice. The Florida Society will receive a membership certificate and the State Society name and date will be engraved on the silver bowl given by Former Governor Joseph B. Latimer.

It is significant that, of the 52 State Societies, 29 had net increases; whereas 4 had no change, and 20 suffered net decreases. The overall net percentage increase was one-half of one percent.

The Committee will continue to focus on encouraging and helping all of the State Societies with ideas and suggestions toward increasing membership.

REPORT OF THE PUBLICATIONS COMMITTEE - FIVE GENERATIONS PROJECT

This report covers the period, January 1, 1985 to September 1, 1985. The entire inventory of books was transferred to Mercury Mail in Pawtucket, R.I., except those in Plymouth. Governor General Davis, Deputy Governor General Harold Hubbard, State Treasurer Alden Fuller, all of the Rhode Island Society, and I, inventoried all of the material that had been shipped there, and we inventoried all of the material at Plymouth.

A running inventory has been established for all books. This is taken from the financial and shipping reports prepared by Fran Armstrong in Plymouth. The new Index to Mayflower Families One, which was prepared camera-ready, by Ruth Ann Sherman in memory of her daughter, Candy, is now in stock.

The per order cost has been reduced 50% by filling our orders and shipping once a month.

REPORT OF THE ADVERTISING AND COPYRIGHT COMMITTEE, FIVE GENERATIONS PROJECT

In addition to the Mayflower Quarterly, which is usually a one or two full page advertisement, we are presently buying advertising in five publications, the DAR Magazine, SAR Magazine, Genealogical Helper, National Genealogical Society Quarterly, and the New England Historical and Genealogical Register. The total investment and paid advertising is almost $1,748. In August, total sales amounted to approximately $1,300. However, we are unable to make a comparison as no previous years' records are available.

Richard J. Damisch, Chairman

REPORT OF THE EDITOR

The August 1985 issue of the Mayflower Quarterly was mailed to 22,329 readers, most of whom are members, an increase of 4,329 since I became editor in September 1978. Total production costs for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1985, amounted to $40,308.33. The cost per copy, delivered to your door, was less than 46¢ each. Due to increased postage and printing costs, expenses may rise during the coming year.

We have had State Society News, obituaries, gifts to the Society, Directory of Officers, both General and State, updated information about Mayflower Society insignia, announcements about Mayflower Society cup plates and about the series of Mayflower Families books, in addition to interesting and accurate genealogical and historical articles.

I type each page of the Mayflower Quarterly, wax the pages to "artboards," draw in the outlines for placing the pictures in the right places, and then send the camera-ready copy to the printing company. I use our own computer which my husband bought to make my work easier, and which saves the Society a great deal of money in printing costs. In response to inquiries, the actual time spent at the computer during the past fourteen months totaled 1,018 hours. I hope that you have enjoyed the results of my work.

Mrs. Henry G. R. White, Editor

Governor General Davis recognized Mrs. William T. Powell, a fifty-year member of the Society, who, after serving on the General Board for ten years, is attending this meeting as a Silent Observer.

A luncheon recess was taken, starting at 11:30 a.m. and ending at 1:39 p.m.

It was moved by Former Governor General Dr. Thomas (California), and seconded, that the Governor General be authorized to establish an Advertising and Copyright Committee within the Five Generations Project, and to confirm the following committee chairman appointments for the next year: Finance Committee Chairman, Treasurer General Kendrick Holle; and Project Advertising and Copyright Committee Chairman, Mr. Richard J. Damisch, Governor of the Illinois Society.

REPORT OF THE RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEE

The committee, consisting of Former Governor General Dr. Thomas and Counsellor General Conway, Chairman, presented two resolutions:

Whereas, Norman Joy Greene is the senior Former Governor General of the General Society of Mayflower Descendants, having served us as Governor General from 1966 to 1969; and

Whereas, Former Governor General Greene for many years prior to his service as Governor General and until now has given generously of his time, talents, and substance to the great betterment of the General Society of Mayflower Descendants; and

Whereas, Former Governor General Greene is presently confined to his home in Newtown Square, Pennsylvania, by an illness that makes it impossible for him to be with his Mayflower cousins at this meeting; and

Whereas, we miss Norman's wise counsel and his and Mrs. Greene's friendly conviviality at this meeting, the first General Board meeting the Greenes have missed in over thirty years;

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the General Board of Assistants at its meeting in St. Paul, Minnesota, on September 7, 1985:

That this Board extend to Former Governor General Greene this expression of the love, admiration and respect in which its members hold him, and

Be it further resolved that this resolution be spread upon the pages of the Mayflower Quarterly and that it also be forwarded by the Secretary General to Former Governor General Norman Joy Greene and his wife, Marion.

Counsellor General Conway moved the adoption of this resolution. Motion carried.

BE IT RESOLVED that the General Board of Assistants of the General Society of Mayflower Descendants hereby records its deep appreciation to the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the State of Minnesota for the gracious hospitality extended by it at this, the 1985 annual meeting of the General Board. The General Board wishes to thank particularly Governor Robert B. Mirick and the other officers of the Minnesota Society and the following members of the committee on arrangements, who have done such a thoughtful and thorough job of making our brief stay in St. Paul and Minneapolis informative, interesting and fun: Deputy Governor General W. Herbert Doty, Chairman, and Mrs. Doty, Governor and Mrs. Robert B. Mirick, Mr. and Mrs. David S. Doty, and Mr. Richard Husband.

Counsellor General Conway moved the adoption of this resolution. Motion carried.

Former Governor General Dr. van Antwerp (Illinois) informed members of the Board that he had talked with Former Governor General Greene on the telephone about three days ago and that he sent his very best regards to all of you here in St. Paul.

REPORT OF THE AD HOC COMMITTEE ON STANDARDS OF DOCUMENTATION

Mrs. Edie Bates Thomas, Historian, California Society, competently entered all data into the California Society's computer and produced the booklet, Preparation of Lineage Papers, approved by the Executive Committee, Sept. 7, 1984, and distributed it to each State Historian. The applications are now starting to reflect more standard preparation which will assist our computer data entry clerk with future references.

Having produced the required material, our present duties seem complete at this time.

Mrs. Clayton M. Merrick, Jr., Historian General, Chairman

REPORT OF THE FINANCIAL NEEDS AND FUND DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE

As the income from the Mayflower House Endowment Fund is not sufficient to pay for the operation and maintenance costs of the House, the need to increase our endowment still exists. At present, your dues assessment is used to cover this shortage.

Under our plan, a minimum of $300,000 of increased endowment will be needed. Gifts are still tax deductible under Section 501 (C) (3) of the Internal Revenue Code and the goal is less than $15 per member.

Noel S. O'Reilly, Executive Committee Member-at-Large, Chairman

Mr. O'Reilly moved that the General Society of Mayflower Descendants undertake a fund raising campaign to increase the Mayflower Society House Endowment Fund. The motion carried.

Governor General Davis advised that all reports would be placed on file.

Mr. Morton W. Saunders, Governor of the Rhode Island Society and Chairman on Arrangements for the 1986 meeting of the General Board of Assistants, announced tentative plans for this meeting, which will be headquartered at the Sheraton-Islander, Goat Island, Newport, Rhode Island, September 5-7, 1986.

Governor General Davis declared the meeting adjourned at 2:25 p.m.

Miss Mildred Ramos, Secretary General

Elizabeth Tilley's Grave Is Located in Rhode Island

By Clinton W. Sellew

Tucked away in an ancient cemetery steeped in Indian and Pilgrim lore is the grave of Elizabeth Tilley Howland.

The widow of John Howland of the Mayflower died in 1687 at the home of her daughter Lydia Brown and was buried in Little Neck Cemetery in the Riverside section of East Providence, R.I. A few members of the Pilgrim John Howland Society visit her grave each year and those from the Providence area often place flowers there. Many other descendants would stop at the grave if they knew how to find it. (For directions see map on Page 7.)

The approach to this burial ground created in the mid-seventeenth century is made by way of Turner Avenue in Riverside to Read Street, thence on that street to Cozzens Avenue and east through the cemetery gate, where a sign denotes Rhode Island Historical Cemetery No. 5.

Passing through Little Neck Gardens and through the new part of Little Neck Cemetery one comes to North Avenue. The tract lying to the south of North Avenue is Ancient Little Neck Cemetery.

When the Wampanoag Indians roamed this territory which they called Wannamoisett, a point of land jutted out into a cove of Narragansett Bay, and on either side of this point, small streams emptied into the tidal waters. The brook emptying into the cove on the west side of the point was named "Moskituash" and is mentioned in the Sowams Deed of 1653. It has its source in springs about 60 rods east of Sowams Tablet on Pawtucket Avenue and flows through the property of Socony-Mobil Oil Company through the skating pond, across Willett Avenue, Burnside Avenue, Turner Avenue and Fenner Avenue into what is now called Bullock's Cove.

The brook emptying into the cove on the east side of the point, is shown on some early maps as "Viall Brook," presumably because it flowed through the property of the Viall family. It is now obscure until it emerges south of Willett Avenue, discernible as a ditch. This stream had its source in the swampland north and east of what is now known as Meadowcrest. Alluvial deposits and erosion over hundreds of years have so filled the basin on the east side of the point, that a shore line is hardly perceptible except at extremely high water, and the word neck becomes a mere cognomen.

It is recorded in the Plymouth Towne book bearing the date of the 29th, 10th month 1645 that John Brown, as assistant of the Plymouth Colony purchased from Massasoit a tract of land called "Wannamoisett" for a price of 15 pounds. A grant of this property was later issued by the colony to John Brown. This point of land referred to above, therefore became a part of the farm Mr. Brown had set aside for his home, from the tract he had purchased, and it later came to be known as "Little Neck."

What circumstances prompted John Brown to search out a suitable spot for use as a burial ground is purely speculative. Whether it was because of his advancing years and his known discernment of the affairs of life, or whether the unexpected death of a family member precipitated the action is difficult to establish. Whatever the motive, he did select this sandy point of land on his farm as a most suitable place for a burial ground.

Brown being a man of means and acumen, generously and wisely deeded this plot of land, it is said, to the town of Rehoboth that it might become a town burial ground and thereby proper records of deaths and burials might be preserved.

With the change of boundaries in 1862 this cemetery on Little Neck came into the possession of the town of East Providence.

A few years after the death of her husband John, Mrs. Howland went to Wannamoisett to live with her daughter Lydia, wife of James Brown. She died at the home of her daughter in December of 1687 and because of the distance from Plymouth, the burial place of her husband, the time of year and the inadequate transportation facilities, her body was laid to rest in the Little Neck Cemetery among members of the Brown family.

The gravestone, dedicated on Aug. 27, 1949, reads:

"Here ended the Pilgrimage of Elizabeth Tilley Howland who died Wednesday 21-31 Dec. 1687 at home of her daughter Lydia & her husband James Brown in Swansea. Elizabeth married Pilgrim John Howland who came with her in the Mayflower Dec. 1620. From them are descended a numerous posterity."

Several other notable members of the Plymouth Colony are buried in this ancient cemetery. Two of these are:

• John Brown, assistant governor of the Plymouth Colony, 1636; representative of the colony for 12 years in a confederacy of Massachusetts, Connecticut and New Haven colonies; captain of the Swansea militia.

• Capt. Thomas Willett, successor to Myles Standish; assistant governor of the Plymouth Colony; first mayor of New York City.

It is interesting to note that the oldest gravestone in the cemetery is that of Mary (Brown) Willett, wife of Captain Thomas. It bears the death date 1669.

Howland Becomes A Popular Name

As might be expected, the name Howland is popular among members of the Pilgrim John Howland Society.

Twenty-three members have Howland as a last name and 14 others – including three women – have Howland as either a first or middle name. Among these are:

John Howland Allen of Barre, Mass.; Howland Atwood of Brunswick, Maine; John Howland Barber of Cambridge, Md.; Edward Howland Berry III of Bothell, Wash.; Edward Howland Berry IV of Bothell, Wash.; Trent Howland Jones of Marblehead, Mass.; Howland B. Jones III of Marblehead, Mass.; Howland B. Jones Jr. of Harwich Point, Mass.; Drew Howland Taft of Atkinson, N.H.; John Howland Taft of Atkinson, N.H.; and Howland G. Taft of Jaffrey, N.H.

Among the lady Howlands are Miss Howland M. Mansfield of Mt. Pleasant, S.C.; Miss Katherine Howland Miller of Youngstown, Ohio, and Miss Martha Howland O'Neil of Warwick, R.I.

til he attained above 80 years in the world. He was one of the first comers into this land, and proved a useful instrument of good in his place, and was the last man that was left of those that came over in the ship called the May Flower, that lived in Plymouth; he was with honor interred at the town of Plymouth on the 25 of February, 1672."

Well, our friend will have a great experience, and M-G-M undoubtedly could "care less" about the opportunity it missed!

JOHN HOWLAND

JOHN HOWLAND, who was born about 1594, came as a servant of John Carver, but as there is no record of his residence in Leyden he is credited to London for the reason that Carver was in England for some considerable time before the sailing of the Mayflower and undoubtedly obtained the services of Howland in that city prior to the departure from England. The Howland ancestry is probably of Essex origin. The will of Humphrey Howland, citizen and draper of St. Swithin's, London, in 1646, mentions his brothers, John and Arthur, which are known Christian names of this family in New England, at the date of the will. There was a John Howland taxed at Canfield Parva, Essex, 1623, and the name also occurs earlier at Newport Pagnall in the same county. In London a John Howland was living in the parish of St. Mary, Whitechapel, in 1596, and in 1600 another John belonged to the parish of St. Botolph, Billingsgate. Jeffrey Howland was taxed in 1625 in the parish of St. Botolph, Aldgate. These parishes are all close to or part of the Pilgrim quarter of London.

JOHN TILLEY

JOHN TILLEY has been identified as an older brother of the preceding Edward as baptized, 24 February, 1571, and perhaps the son of Lawrence and Bridget Tilley of Shipton, co. Salop, and the same remarks apply to him as to the correctness of this conclusion. Both John and his wife died in the first winter in the "general sickness" leaving but one known child, Elizabeth, who married John Howland. The compiler found a marriage of a John Tilley to Elizabeth Comyngs, 2 February, 1605, in the parish of St. Andrew Undershaft, where an Allerton family resided, and close to the Pilgrim center there. As Elizabeth, daughter of the Pilgrim, was born in 1607 this record may be the marriage of the Mayflower passengers.

The compiler is obliged to reject the identification of these two brothers announced a quarter of a century ago (N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Rec. XXXV, 213 291) by a writer who adopted the Shipton record as evidence satisfactory to himself. A Chancery deposition, found by the compiler, in the Public Record Office, N. 7/14, was made by John Tylly of Shipton, Salop, yeoman, in 1631, aged 60 years, hence born in 1571 and therefore identical with the John baptized as above stated. It shows that the Shipton John supposed to have emigrated on the Mayflower and dead

FURTHER TRACES OF JOHN TILLEY OF THE MAYFLOWER

By Robert Leigh Ward

In my earlier article, the English home of the Mayflower Tilley brothers John and Edward was revealed ("English Ancestry of Seven Mayflower Passengers: Tilley, Sampson and Cooper," TAG 52:198-208). They resided in Henlow, co. Bedford, before embarking for New England. Further information pertaining to John Tilley has since come to light, and it is the purpose of this article to give that information and discuss its significance.

Mayflower John Tilley was still in Henlow in 1607, as is revealed by the abstract of a will proved at Lambeth Palace:

> George Clarke of Henlow, co. Beds., Clothworker, 22 Sept. 1607. To be buried in the church of St. Marie Matfield, Whitechapel. His church duties paid, his funeralls discharged and his debts paid, he gives to his mother the use of £8 during her life, due to be paid to him by John Reysh gentleman at Michaelmas next, desiring Mr. Resh to pay the same to his [testator's] brother without any trouble or vexation. To his mother £7 13s. 8d. due to be paid to him at Michaelmas next by the hands of James Maister. Thomas Kirke, dwelling with John Tilee, owes him 9s. 9d. due at Michs.; he desires this also to be paid to his mother as also the sum of 3s. 6d. due to him from Anthony Cockes. After the decease of his mother he gives and bequeaths all his goods, moveable & immoveable, to his brother Francis and his sister Marie Clarke. Desires "my maister Clarke" to help his mother to her own and to see that she have no wrong. Tho: Askewe.
> Proved 28 April 1608 by Anne Clarke, mother of deceased. Inventory sworn under £16 6s. 11d. (Bancroft, 243a) ("Bedfordshire Wills and Administrations Proved at Lambeth Palace and in the Archdeaconry of Huntington," Pubs. Beds. Hist. Record Soc., 2(1914):50-51).

Evidently this George Clarke was George, son of Lancelot Clearke, shearman, baptized Henlow 14 Jan. 1581[/2], since a sister Mary and brother Francis were also baptized there, and their father was buried there 30 July 1595. Mr. John Reysh (or Resh) was surely John Rush, probable step-father of Joan (Hurst)(Rogers) Tilley (wife of John Tilley). John Rush married 4 Feb. 1571[/2], widow Rose Hurst. James Maister was baptized Henlow 16 Sept. 1582, son of James and Joan (Wakefield) Master. Anthony Cockes was baptized Henlow 6 June 1584, son of John and Joisan (Campe) Cockes, and was buried there 11 May 1632 (F.G. Emmison, Bedfordshire Parish Registers, hereafter Emmison, 26:Henlow 1556-1812 [Bedford 1948]). None of these except John Rush had any connection with John Tilley by blood or marriage, as far as has been ascertained.

Thomas Kirke was probably the youngest child of Richard and Agnes (Jeve) Kirke of Henlow, and born about 1585. His baptism is not in the Henlow parish register. We do find there the following records of him and his wives. Thomas Kircke of Henlow "servant" married Henlow 11 Oct. 1607 Joan Beckett of Campton. She was buried in Henlow 22 March 1620[/1], and he married there 27 May 1621 Joan Fanne. Thomas was buried at Henlow on 2 Nov. 1636 (Emmison, 26:Henlow).

Apparently Thomas Kirke was a servant of John Tilley. This might indicate a blood relationship to the Tilleys, possibly through John Tilley's mother Elizabeth (-----) Tilley, or through his mother-in-law Rose (-----)(Hurst) Rush, neither of whom has been identified so far.

Now we come to a more conjectural reference. Col. Charles Edward Banks says that one John Tilley, yeoman, was living in Wootton, co. Bedford, in 1613, aged 40 years, quoting Chanc. Deps. T.5/16 as his source (The English Ancestry and Homes of the Pilgrim Fathers [New York 1929] p. 88). In the Public Record Office in London the current reference is c21/T5/16, which records depositions of witnesses taken at Bedford 7 April [1613] 11 James [I], in a Chancery case between Humfrey Totnam or Tottenham, clerk, complainant, and Henry Bedles, Bedells, or Beadells, William Archer, and William Bedles, defendants, concerning land in Wootton and Marston, Bedfordshire. A transcript of the deposition of John Tilley, which was graciously provided by Robert S. Wakefield, FASG, reads in part:

> John Tylley of Wootton in the County of Bedford, yeoman, aged 40 years or thereabouts, sworn on behalf of Humfrie Totnam, complainant, deposeth: (1) He has known the plaintiff 12 years and above, and the defendant above 3 years....

The remainder of the deposition has little of genealogical value. Apparently the defendants had sold their land in Wootton field, about All Saints, under condition that certain debts of William Beadell be paid to Totnam.

Is this our Mayflower passenger? We cannot be sure. The age is about right since the deponent was "40 years or thereabouts," and the Mayflower man was 38. It is clear from this record that for the twelve years during which John Tylley of Wootton knew Humphrey Totnam, the latter was a continuous resident of Wootton, which lies about 12 miles west northwest of Henlow. Mayflower John Tilley maintained continuous residence at Henlow through 1607. The Wootton parish register shows no trace of any Tilley family from 1561 through 1812, so how John Tylley of Wootton knew Humphrey Totnam is not apparent (Emmison, 43:Wootton 1561-1812 [Bedford 1952]). (I have also searched the Wootton parish register for the families of the other six Mayflower passengers of my original article, and find no traces of the Hurst, Sampson or Wyne families; although there are many Cooper/Cowper entries, none of them seems to pertain to the Arlesey/Henlow Cooper family, but it is of course difficult to sort out the family members with such a common surname.) An intriguing possibility is that Mayflower John Tilley of Henlow may have come to know Humphrey Totnam while the lat-ett of Campton. She was buried in Henlow 22 March triguing possibility is that Mayflower John Tilley of w may have come to know Humphrey Totnam while the latter was Vicar of Shillington, a parish which adjoins Henlow on the southwest. If so, Tilley had known Totnam for at least 14 years, which is technically included in "12 years and above." The parish of Felmersham, of which Totnam was vicar in 1599, is some eight miles north of Wootton and about 16 miles northwest of Henlow (John Venn and J.A. Venn, Alumni Cantabrigiensis [Cambridge 1927], hereafter Venn, Part 1, 4:255).

Who was Humphrey Totnam? In the parish register of Wootton, Humphrey Totnam or Tottenham is variously described as minister, clerk, and vicar. He was born about 1569, son of John Tottenham of Barrington, co. Cambridge. He matriculated as sizar from Trinity College, Cambridge University, at Michaelmas 1583; received his B.A. in 1588/9 and M.A. in 1592. He was ordained deacon and priest at Peterboro 9 May 1592. He was Vicar of Shillington, co. Bedford 1592, of Felmersham, co. Bedford 1599, and of Wootton 1600-1638 (Venn, Part 1, 4:255). The Wootton parish register says, between baptisms on 9 Sept. and 4 Nov. 1599, "Humphrey Totnam begane this yeare."

Humphrey Totnam, minister, and Mary Beadles were married at Wootton on 6 June 1603. They had three children baptized there, according to the parish register: Charity, "Bettris," and Humphrey (d.y.). Mary (Beadles) Totnam was buried there 22 Oct. 1609, and Humphrey Totnam married there 27 June 1611 Sarah Linford. Humphrey and Sarah had six children baptized at Wootton: Godward (d.y.), Susanna, Sarah, Hannah, John, and Samuel (d.y.). Humphrey Tottenham, minister, was buried 16 June 1638 at Wootton (Emmison, 43:Wootton).

Evidently Totnam's first wife, Mary Beadles, was a relative of Henry and William Beadles of the suit, and probably of William Archer. The latter was probably the same who married Mary Bedles on 6 July 1596 at Lidlington, co. Bedford, a parish which adjoins Wootton on the southwest.

It is worth noting that the Henlow Parish Register shows a Robert Totnam marrying Margaret Lynnwood on 19 Nov. 1577. Robert could have been an uncle of Humfrie Totnam of the Chancery suit, but at least the Totnam family was not unknown in Henlow, Mayflower John Tilley's home.

In conclusion, we can be certain that the John Tilley of Henlow mentioned in the will of George Clarke is identical with the Mayflower passenger; that the John Tylley of the deposition was the same person remains only a possibility.

Elizabeth Tilley's Grave Is Located in Rhode Island

Dorothy Symmonds

By Clinton W. Sellew

Tucked away in an ancient cemetery steeped in Indian and Pilgrim lore is the grave of Elizabeth Tilley Howland.

The widow of John Howland of the Mayflower died in 1687 at the home of her daughter Lydia Brown and was buried in Little Neck Cemetery in the Riverside section of East Providence, R.I. A few members of the Pilgrim John Howland Society visit her grave each year and those from the Providence area often place flowers there. Many other descendants would stop at the grave if they knew how to find it. (For directions see map on Page 7.)

The approach to this burial ground created in the mid-seventeenth century is made by way of Turner Avenue in Riverside to Read Street, thence on that street to Cozzens Avenue and east through the cemetery gate, where a sign denotes Rhode Island Historical Cemetery No. 5.

Passing through Little Neck Gardens and through the new part of Little Neck Cemetery one comes to North Avenue. The tract lying to the south of North Avenue is Ancient Little Neck Cemetery.

When the Wampanoag Indians roamed this territory which they called Wannamoisett, a point of land jutted out into a cove of Narragansett Bay, and on either side of this point, small streams emptied into the tidal waters. The brook emptying into the cove on the west side of the point was named "Moskituash" and is mentioned in the Sowams Deed of 1653. It has its source in springs about 60 rods east of Sowams Tablet on Pawtucket Avenue and flows through the property of Socony-Mobil Oil Company through the skating pond, across Willett Avenue, Burnside Avenue, Turner Avenue and Fenner Avenue into what is now called Bullock's Cove.

The brook emptying into the cove on the east side of the point, is shown on some early maps as "Viall Brook," presumably because it flowed through the property of the Viall family. It is now obscure until it emerges south of Willett Avenue, discernible as a ditch. This stream had its source in the swampland north and east of what is now known as Meadowcrest. Alluvial deposits and erosion over hundreds of years have so filled the basin on the east side of the point, that a shore line is hardly perceptible except at extremely high water, and the word neck becomes a mere cognomen.

It is recorded in the Plymouth Towne book bearing the date of the 29th, 10th month 1645 that John Brown, as assistant of the Plymouth Colony purchased from Massasoit a tract of land called "Wannamoisett" for a price of 15 pounds. A grant of this property was later issued by the colony to John Brown. This point of land referred to above, therefore became a part of the farm Mr. Brown had set aside for his home, from the tract he had purchased, and it later came to be known as "Little Neck."

What circumstances prompted John Brown to search out a suitable spot for use as a burial ground is purely speculative. Whether it was because of his advancing years and his known discernment of the affairs of life, or whether the unexpected death of a family member precipitated the action is difficult to establish. Whatever the motive, he did select this sandy point of land on his farm as a most suitable place for a burial ground.

Brown being a man of means and acumen, generously and wisely deeded this plot of land, it is said, to the town of Rehoboth that it might become a town burial ground and thereby proper

English Ancestry of Seven Mayflower Passengers: Tilley, Sampson and Cooper

BY ROBERT LEIGH WARD

The list of passengers on the Mayflower given by Governor Bradford in Of Plimoth Plantation includes the following:

> Edward Tilley and Ann his wife, and two children that were their cousins, Henry Sampson and Humility Cooper
> John Tilley and his wife, and Elizabeth their daughter

In his further account of the passengers entitled "Increasings and Decreasings," apparently written early in 1651, he states:

> Edward Tilley and his wife both died soon after their arrival, and the girl Humility, their cousin, was sent for into England and died there. But the youth Henry Sampson is still living and is married and hath seven children.
> John Tilley and his wife both died a little after they came ashore. And their daughter Elizabeth married with John Howland and hath issue as is before noted.

Other authors have attempted to establish the English home of this seven-member family group. In the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record 35:213, 291, it was claimed that John[1] and Edward[1] Tilley were sons of Lawrence and Bridget Tilley of Shipton, co. Salop, but this identification was rejected by Col. Charles E. Banks in The English Ancestry and Homes of the Pilgrim Fathers, pp. 86-88. Banks himself found a marriage of a John Tilley and Elizabeth Comyngs, 2 Feb. 1605/6 in the parish of St. Andrew Undershaft, London, which he said may be the marriage of the Mayflower passengers. Others have accepted this as proof, but Francis R. Stoddard, in The Truth About the Pilgrims, p. 153, states with laudable caution that John[1] Tilley of the Mayflower "was apparently the one who was married to Elizabeth Comyngs."

Recently information has come to light which shows conclusively that this is also incorrect, and that this family group originated in the parish of Henlow, co. Bedford. Descent from the Wheeler family of Bedfordshire led me to examine F. G. Emmison's 44-volume series, Bedfordshire Parish Registers, which include more than ninety parishes. While reading the register of Henlow in vol. 26, I found the marriage of Edward Tillie and Agnes Cooper, on 20 June 1614. This rang a strong bell, in view of Banks's assertion that Humility[1] Cooper was related to Edward[1] Tilley's wife Ann. Further investigation revealed the information below and firmly established that these were the Mayflower passengers.

Let us consider the family names in question in four groups: Tilley and others, Hurst and others, Cooper and others, and Sampson and others. The Henlow parish register begins in 1559 and the Bishop's Transcripts in 1602.

Both came on the Mayflower in 1620 and died in the general sickness during the first winter. The given name of John Tilley's wife is not recorded in American records. Banks (loc. cit.) mentions a deposition of one John Tilley, yeoman, of Wootton, co. Bedford, in 1613, aged 40 years (Chanc. Deps. T. 5/16), which is very likely this man. He married a second wife, who died soon, and he married (third) Christian Penn, who came over in the "Ann," in 1623. He removed from Plymouth to Duxbury, where he died in the latter part of 1633. Administration on his estate was granted to Thomas Prence and John Doane, November 25, same year. In July, 1634, his widow married Francis Billington, by whom she had eight children. Children of Francis Eaton, by first wife: Samuel, born in England or Holland, 1620. By second wife: Rachel, born in Plymouth, 1624-25, married, March 2, 1645, Joseph Ramsden. By third wife: Benjamin, of whom further. There were two other children, one an "ideote," and another who probably died without issue.

(II) Benjamin, son of Francis Eaton, was born in Duxbury, Massachusetts, about 1627. He was apprenticed or bound out February 11, 1635, for fourteen years, including two years at school, to Bridget Fuller, widow. In 1648 he was of Duxbury, and in 1650 of Plymouth, and was admitted to the first church there, March 19, 1693. He married, December 4, 1660, Sarah, daughter of William Hoskins; he was a grantee of Middleboro, but never lived there. Children: William, born about 1662, will proved March 18, 1690-91; Benjamin, of whom further; Ebenezer, born about 1667; Rebecca, married Josiah Richard.

(III) Benjamin (2), son of Benjamin (1) Eaton, was born at Plymouth, in 1664. His trade was that of "housewright" at Kingston, then a part of Plymouth. His will was dated April 3, 1745, and proved December 20 same year. He married (first) December 18, 1689, Mary Coombs, who had twelve children by him. He married (second) Susanna ———, who died April 13, 1739, aged seventy years. Children, born at Kingston: William, June 1, 1691; Hannah, February 16, 1692; Jabez, February 8, 1693, died young; Daniel, 1694; Sarah, October 20, 1695; John, October 6, 1697; Benjamin, 1698; Francis, (q. v.); Elisha, about 1702; Mary, married Zachariah Souls; Elizabeth, married Cornelius Sturtevant; David, born about 1709.

TILLEY The surname Tilley is found in England as early as the Norman Conquest, and appears in the Domesday Book. The name was common also in France and Holland at an early date and is doubtless of Norman-French origin. The name is spelled in the ancient records, Tillie, Tilly, Teley, Tiley, Tilee and Tely. We have at the present time the surname Tylee, probably of the same English stock.

Edward and John Tilley were among the passengers of the "Mayflower." Edward and his wife Ann both died in the spring of 1620-21. John brought his wife and daughter Elizabeth, and he and his wife also died early in 1621. The only descendants of these Pilgrim Tilleys are through John's daughter, who married John Howland. No person of the name Tilley can claim descent through these ancestors in the male line. There was another John Tilley in Dorchester who came in 1629; left no issue. William Tilley, of Barnstable and Boston, came from Little Minories, England, in the ship "Abigail," in June, 1636, left a daughter Sarah, but no sons that have been found on record. Others of the name came later. George and Elizabeth Tilly had children in Boston, 1727-1748, George, Mary, Elizabeth, Martha, George, William, John. Samuel and Eliphal had children in Boston, 1712-32, Samuel, Eliphal, Eliza, Lewis, William, William, Sarah. Thomas and Katherine Tiley had two children, Eliza, born February 1, 1718, Sarah, August 20, 1724. John and Eliza Tiley had, 1719-27, Eliza, John, Sarah, Lydia. These are probably related to Thomas Tilley who had by wife Hannah a son, Samuel Tilee, in Boston, May 1, 1657. This Samuel Tilee or Tiley had by wife Sarah: 1. John, born March 2, 1693. 2. Hannah, died March 15, 1694. 3. Sarah, born September 1, 1696. 4. William, born November 30, 1697. Whether this Boston family just described is related to that given below we have not learned. The facts of the early generations of this family are from an old genealogy of the Tilley family.

(I) John Tilley lived at or near Exeter, England. Among his children were: 1. William, mentioned below. 2. John, married and had children: John, who remained in England; Elinor, remained in England; William, the rope-maker, born in England, 1641, came to Boston in 1660, and lived on Milk street, near Cow Lane; established a large rope-walk, and Tilley's Wharf and Tilley's Lane were named for him; his wife Isabella died January 13, 1702, and he married (second) Abigail Woodmancy; after his death she married (second) October 19, 1718, Judge Samuel Sewell. He died at Boston in 1717; daughter Isabella married Eliezer Armitage and Grace married Jonas Clarke. From the similarity of names and place of residence of the families it is conjectured that Thomas Tilee was closely related to William, the ropemaker.

(II) William Tilley, son of John Tilley, lived at Exeter, England. He married and had children: 1. William, born about 168[illegible], came with his two brothers, John and James, to work for their cousin, William Tilley, the rope-maker, in Boston; married, in 173[illegible], Dorcas ———; removed to Newport, Rhode Island; son William, born October 19, 173[illegible]. 2. John, mentioned below. 3. James, born 1686; resided at New London, Connecticut, about 1718; gave ten pounds to the First Episcopal Church of New London; married, May 27, 1742, Hannah Savel, daughter of John Savel.

(III) John (2) Tilley, son of William Tilley, was born at Edford, England, about 178[illegible]-90. He came to Boston with his brothers, James and William, to work in the rope-walk of their cousin, William Tilley. He was in Boston about 1720; removed to New York state, where he married and had two sons, perhaps other children also. The name of his wife is unknown. Children: 1. Leonard, born 1730-40, in Brooklyn, New York, where he lived until his marriage, then moved to Granby, Massachusetts, and was progenitor of all of the name, without doubt, in western Massachusetts. 2. Samuel, mentioned below.

(IV) Samuel Tilley, son of John (2) Tilley, was born in Brooklyn, New York, about 1740, died in 1820, in the parish of Gagetown, Queen's county, New Brunswick, where he settled in 1783, leaving Brooklyn with the Loyalists. He married, 1765, Mary Morgan, of Brooklyn, and she died at Portland, New Brunswick, in 1834, aged eighty-four years. Children: James, mentioned below; Jacob; Elizabeth.

(V) James Tilley, son of Samuel Tilley, was born September 7, 1773, died November 23, 1850. He married Mary Chase, born April 7, 1776, died July 7, 1866. Children: Ann, Thomas M., James, mentioned below; Rebecca, Phebe, Samuel, Charles, Jacob.

(VI) James (2) Tilley, son of James (1) Tilley, was born in New Brunswick, February 24, 1798. He married, January 24, 182[illegible], Sarah Briggs. Among their children was Henry, mentioned below.

(VII) Henry Tilley, son of James (2) Tilley, was born at Sheffield, New Brunswick, 1824, died at Ashland, Maine, 1906. His father died in New Brunswick and he was the only child. He came to Maine before marriage and settled in Ashland, where he followed farming for three years. He removed to Castle Hill, where he owned a farm, was postmaster and kept a hotel until he was over seventy years old. He retired and spent the last years at Ashland. In politics he was a Democrat. He held various public offices in

English Ancestry of Seven Mayflower Passengers: Tilley, Sampson and Cooper

BY ROBERT LEIGH WARD

The list of passengers on the Mayflower given by Governor Bradford in Of Plimoth Plantation includes the following:

> Edward Tilley and Ann his wife, and two children that were their cousins, Henry Sampson and Humility Cooper
> John Tilley and his wife, and Elizabeth their daughter

In his further account of the passengers entitled "Increasings and Decreasings," apparently written early in 1651, he states:

> Edward Tilley and his wife both died soon after their arrival, and the girl Humility, their cousin, was sent for into England and died there. But the youth Henry Sampson is still living and is married and hath seven children.
> John Tilley and his wife both died a little after they came ashore. And their daughter Elizabeth married with John Howland and hath issue as is before noted.

Other authors have attempted to establish the English home of this seven-member family group. In the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record 35:213, 291, it was claimed that John[1] and Edward[1] Tilley were sons of Lawrence and Bridget Tilley of Shipton, co. Salop, but this identification was rejected by Col. Charles E. Banks in The English Ancestry and Homes of the Pilgrim Fathers, pp. 86-88. Banks himself found a marriage of a John Tilley and Elizabeth Comyngs, 2 Feb. 1605/6 in the parish of St. Andrew Undershaft, London, which he said may be the marriage of the Mayflower passengers. Others have accepted this as proof, but Francis R. Stoddard, in The Truth About the Pilgrims, p. 153, states with laudable caution that John[1] Tilley of the Mayflower "was apparently the one who was married to Elizabeth Comyngs."

Recently information has come to light which shows conclusively that this is also incorrect, and that this family group originated in the parish of Henlow, co. Bedford. Descent from the Wheeler family of Bedfordshire led me to examine F. G. Emmison's 44-volume series, Bedfordshire Parish Registers, which include more than ninety parishes. While reading the register of Henlow in vol. 26 I found the marriage of Edward Tillie and Agnes Cooper, on 20 June 1614. This rang a strong bell, in view of Banks's assertion that Humility[1] Cooper was related to Edward[1] Tilley's wife Ann. Further investigation revealed the information below and firmly established that these were the Mayflower passengers.

Let us consider the family names in question in four groups: Tilley and others, Hurst and others, Cooper and others, and Sampson and others. The Henlow parish register begins in 1559 and the Bishop's Transcripts in 1602.
